JOBS NEAR PEAK AS RELIEF POOL LIES STAGNANT

Aid Rolls Fail to Show Big Cut.

Employment figures for the Chicago area when placed alongside of figures of persons on relief and WPA rolls were cited by economists yesterday to show that the New Deal's gigantic federalized relief program has created a vast pool of unemployables.

Leo M. Lyons.

For the first time since the huge federal relief and WPA programs were launched, Chicago economists agreed that they are able to assess the results of the national relief policies in effect for the last seven years.

They based their conclusions on the following facts: Surveys by the Association of Commerce showed that employment in the Chicago area is now within 11,000 workers of the all-time employment peak.

239,000 Still on Rolls.

Chicago relief and WPA rolls from January to October [latest figures available] show a decrease of only 32,000 persons. More than 239,000 persons remain on the two rolls.

A survey made several days ago showed that industrial employment in the Chicago area, embracing Cook, Du Page, Kane, Lake, and Will counties in Illinois, and Lake county in Indiana, had reached its highest level in the last 11 years. The 9,000 odd industrial plants in the area are employing 540,000 workers, with a monthly pay roll of about $64,500,000. Much of the upswing is a result of the national defense program and the wartime orders from Great Britain, the analysis showed.

Industries Beg for Workers.

Industries here are calling for workers—many of them begging for men willing to work—especially skilled mechanics. The same situation is reflected in the most recent estimate of national employment, compiled by the National Industrial Conference board. In October, 48,638,000 workers were employed, the highest number in the history of the country with the exception of a few months in 1929.

The economists asserted that Chicago, an industrial center, and Illinois, an agricultural and mining state, combine to furnish a reliable barometer for the situation in the United States as a whole.

The number of unemployed in Illinois has been reduced approximately 135,000 in the last 10 months. It is estimated that approximately three persons are removed from the aid rolls each time an aid recipient becomes a wage earner. Actually, however, only slightly more than 100,000 were removed from the relief lists during the period.

Lyons Offers Explanation.

An explanation of the failure of relief lists to drop in proportion to the increase in employment was offered by Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief commissioner:

"Employment fluctuation is not necessarily accompanied by a corresponding change in the relief rolls," he said. "In the first place, a large proportion of our unemployed are not receiving public assistance.

"More than half the cases on the rolls of the Chicago Relief administration are made up entirely of 'unemployable' persons," he continued. "These cases cannot be affected by an upswing in employment. Furthermore, many of the people whom the administration classifies as 'employable' are not acceptable to industry.

"Likewise, job opportunities now available are for persons having specialized skills. The most recent study of relief recipients indicates that more than half of those classed as 'employable' are unskilled laborers."

Young Men Hired First.

Charles E. Miner, state WPA administrator, said records of his department show that young men are being absorbed by industry faster than the older workers and agreed

BATTLE RAGING; BRITISH DESERT ARMY ROLLS ON Three More Fascist Forts Captured.

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—Reuters, British news agency, reported British mechanized units have begun an attack on Bardia, Italian base 15 miles inside Libya, and that severe fighting is in progress.

The agency reported that British mechanized units were carrying out a "formidable attack" on Bardia's defenses, with advanced forces of infantry following up and truck loads of supplies and ammunition bringing up the rear.

Capture Three Italian Forts.

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 17 (AP).—Britain's army in Africa reported today the capture of three more Italian frontier forts, and rolled on toward the Italian base of Bardia in the counter-invasion of Italian Libya.

The offensive, far from slackening as had been expected in some quarters with the ouster of the last invading Italian from Egypt, appeared actually to be gathering power, the British command declaring:

". . . Pressure on the enemy is steadily increasing as new forces arrive."

The latest Italian outposts to fall to the British, an official communique said, were the forts of Musaid, Sidi Omar, and Shefferzen. Their occupation, along with the previously reported seizure of Fort Capuzzo, put the British in control of a substantial segment of the eastern Libyan border area.

Fleet Shells Base.

The drive upon coastal Bardia—which had been reported under bombardment by the British Mediterranean fleet and the air force in an effort to reduce its defenses—threatened an important Fascist line of communication. Bardia commands the coastal road westward to Tobruk, the strongest Italian military center in Libya.

British sources said they were uncertain whether the Italian communication line had been wholly cut as yet.

An Associated Press correspondent with the British in the field reported that the Italians were understood to have large forces in Bardia, including many survivors of the retreat from Egypt.

British armored forces sped over the desert in a maneuver to encircle the town, and advanced units reported that considerable numbers of Italian trucks, tractors, and tanks already had been destroyed by dive bombers.

Planes Bomb Bardia.

The British air command reported a heavy and continuing bombing campaign against Italian positions, particularly at Bardia. There, said a communique, more than a dozen tons of bombs struck the barracks, military buildings generally and the railways, and a train of fires was laid.

Tobruk, some 70 miles within Libya, also was assaulted, the British added, and in half a dozen other and less important bases "much damage" was caused.

In a single offensive patrol 11 Italian planes were declared to have been shot down, aside from the capture of 15 Italian craft claimed by the British in the seizure of the frontier Egyptian post of Sollum from the Fascists.

[In Rome the Italians declared that a 6,000 ton British cruiser participating in the bombardment of Bardia was hit with two torpedoes by torpedo launching Italian planes, but added: "Five of our planes failed to return."]

One Division Escapes.

British communiques during the day made no mention of the number of Italian prisoners of war now in hand, but the Associated Press correspondent said a recapitulation indicated that, of the five Italian divisions which invaded Egypt, only one got out entire. Two appeared wholly shattered.

Another, he said, withdrew many of its men, but lost most of its equipment. Italian divisions are understood to run as high as 14,000 men.

Hitler's Troops Arrive in Italy; Mass at 2 Ports

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 18, Wednesday.—German troops are in Italy, it was learned here today. German troop concentrations were reported to be at Bari, on the Adriatic sea, and Naples on the Tyrrhenian sea. The troops were said to be accompanied by huge quantities of war material.

The exact number of men was not known here, but estimates from reliable sources spoke of upward of 50,000. Bari is a troop embarkation point for Albania, and Naples has been a port of embarkation for Africa.

Sight German Uniforms.

Italian soldiers who crossed the Jugo-Slav frontier yesterday from Albania and surrendered to Jugo-Slav army patrols near Lake Ochrida said they had seen troops in German uniforms in Italy.

Military sources at first scouted the probability of German troop embarkations from Italy for Africa or Albania.

Going to Africa, Report.

Early this morning, however, the belief was growing among military experts here that the German high command might be dispatching many army divisions with full equipment to recoup Italian losses on the Albanian front and in Africa. One military source declared that some of the German troops would probably be held in Italy to maintain order.

BRITISH PASS DEATH SENTENCE ON FIRST WOMAN SPY IN WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 17.—A British court today passed the death sentence on a woman convicted as a spy for the first time in this war. She was Mrs. Dorothy Pamela O'Grady, a 42 year old housewife.

In a secret trial at Hampshire she was found guilty of making a plan in the Isle of Wight "likely to give assistance to military operations of the enemy," and also to cut a military telephone wire. She also was convicted of possessing a document containing information regarding British defense measures. Her conviction followed the execution of the third enemy alien to be hanged in this war.

The spy executed today was Charles Albert van den Kieboom, a Dutch subject. He was tried with the two other spies hanged last week. Like them, he was convicted of possessing a small portable radio set with which to send military information to Germany.

FIFTY U. S. SHIPS FACE PROSPECT OF WAR SERVICE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 [Special].—A fleet of fifty or more modern oceangoing cargo ships owned by private American lines may be requisitioned by Uncle Sam for the wartime use of Britain.

This drastic plan to help plug the holes blasted by Nazis in British shipping was revealed here today by shipping operators. Most of the lines have representatives here frantically protesting against the best of their fleets being singled out for war use.

The government program is expected to put a crimp in the Caribbean and South American trade being carried on by companies such as the United States lines. It may even put the country's new and No. 1 liner, the palatial America, in the business of running the U-boat gantlet.

The British have indicated they could use a total of 150 ships to make up for losses. They would take 60 over-age American vessels but have urgent need of 50 or 60 modern merchantmen. Fifty new ships are on American ways—destined for British delivery—but Britain's cry is for ships right now.

40 Destroyers Are Added to Navy Program

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—Contracts have been let for 40 more destroyers than the navy originally contemplated for its two ocean fleet, Secretary Frank Knox announced today, swelling the total of such vessels planned to 365.

Contracts for constructing the 40 ships and for expansion of facilities to build them totaled $261,684,875.

The navy originally intended to build 325 destroyers. The expansion, officials said, was made possible by utilization of tonnages already authorized by congress, but initially earmarked for other categories of fighting ships. Details of the tonnage transfers were not disclosed.

Needed by Britain.

Altho no mention of further aid to Britain was made in Knox's announcement, it was recalled that the British repeatedly have stressed their need for more destroyers in recent discussions of aid from the United States. Such vessels needed by the British to convoy merchant ships carrying food and munitions range from 50 to 400. The United States already has transferred 50 destroyers to Britain.

Contracts for seven destroyers and two cruisers were transferred from their originally designated builders, Knox said, in order to expedite the work by letting each contractor build duplicate types so far as possible.

37 to Private Builders.

As a result of that shuffling and the new awards, the secretary said contracts for 37 destroyers were placed with five private ship building concerns and 10 destroyers will be built in four navy yards.

Knox placed the estimated cost of the 40 additional destroyers at $253,384,875 and said that new facilities required at the private yards to build them would cost an estimated $8,300,000.

British Put on Gas Masks in Desert Sandstorms

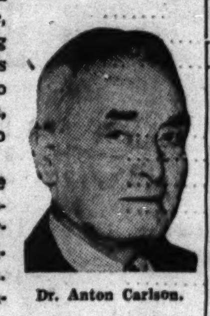
WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN LIBYA, Dec. 17 (AP).—Gas has not been used in the current desert warfare between British and Italians, but gas masks are proving their worth. When the frequent and severe sandstorms come the British don their masks and go ahead.

RENT ENGLAND ANYTHING IT NEEDS, SAYS PRESIDENT

AMERICA FIRST RALLY TONIGHT TO WAR ON WAR

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Chicagoans will be called upon tonight to guard against interventionists, both in and out of office, whose meddling in Europe's affairs is intended to draw this nation, step by step, into a foreign war.



Dr. Anton Carlson.

The call will be made at a massmeeting in Orchestra hall, headed by Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, chairman of the Chicago chapter of the America First committee. The 3,500 seats in the hall will be free and there will be a program of patriotic music.

Speak at Massmeeting.

John T. Flynn, New York author, Gen. Robert E. Wood, national chairman of the America First committee, and Janet Ayer Fairbank, vice chairman of the Chicago chapter, will be the speakers.

Dr. Anton J. Carlson, famous physiologist of the University of Chicago, drew upon his own experiences at a committee luncheon yesterday in the Hotel Sherman to tell why Chicagoans should subscribe to the tenets of America First.

Dr. Carlson, who has seen the results of war in many countries as an officer of the sanitary corps of the United States army and in relief work, said that American guns and bombs should be kept at home for this country's defense.

Attacks British Imperialism.

"When I was on food relief work in Finland in the winter of 1919," he said, "there were any number of British officers there trying to induce that little country to attack Russia.

"I am fed up with our soldiers and sailors being sent again on the bloody errands of the British foreign office and the British war office.

"I wish I could feel that England today is fighting for democracy. I wish I could feel that the members of the White committee are genuine fighters for democracy. I have many friends on the White committee. They sent me their latest declaration of principles. In that declaration it was stated that the future of the world would be safe if the combined fleets of Great Britain and America dominated the seas.

Calls for Policy of Peace.

"Now, whose voice is that? How does that sound to the people in South America, in India, in Russia, in France—if they are people? Could a fanatical fuehrer have spoken anything worse than this, spoken in the name of democracy?

"I am not a pacifist, but in the long range policy of any country, or the human race, somehow, somewhere, the policy of peace and coöperation has got to replace the machinery of war.

"A scientist cannot be an isolationist. I am not. But the intervention I am interested in, and the intervention that will ultimately have to be used, is not guns and bombs, but greater understanding and coöperation, and somehow the working out of an emerging justice.

"If there is anything of the highest degree of certainty in science and anthropology, it is the unity of the present human race. That applies particularly to the Germans and the English. The trouble is not with the common people but with their leaders."

BRITAIN'S NOTE TELLS U. S. IT CAN'T PAY ON ITS WORLD WAR DEBT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—The state department today made public a note from the British government saying it could not pay its world war debt instalment totaling $127,670,765.05 due Dec. 15.

The note, signed by Neville Butler, the British chargé d'affaires, once more reiterated, however, that the British government "will be willing to reopen discussions on the subject whenever circumstances are such as to warrant the hope that a satisfactory result might be reached."

American Taxes to Foot Bill Under His Scheme.

London Applauds Plan

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Reports received here tonight that President Roosevelt is planning to lease or mortgage war equipment to Great Britain received favorable reaction in political circles. It was described as a practical scheme for economic coöperation whereby the United States might play a part in the fight without involving itself in the war.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—President Roosevelt late today outlined a broad program under which the full resources of the United States will be placed at the disposal of Great Britain for the duration of the war against Germany, without one cent of immediate cost to the British empire.

Shortly after Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. told a house appropriations subcommittee he had been informed that England would make no further commitments for future purchases of war materials in the United States unless financial aid was extended by this country, Mr. Roosevelt told his semiweekly press conference he is working on a plan to eliminate what he termed the silly old dollar sign in America's efforts to aid Britain.

Morgenthau Not Convinced.

Altho Morgenthau told the subcommittee he was not convinced that Britain stands in immediate need of money, Mr. Roosevelt said he is working on a scheme to lend or mortgage armaments and other war materials to the empire. The treasury secretary is reported to have told the house group the British have funds in their treasury to pay for their war needs until next June without even tapping huge investments in this country. He said, however, he had been informed by British officials that an outright gift or loan of a billion dollars is essential.

Mr. Roosevelt in revealing his plan declared that no war in the memory of history had ever been won or lost by a lack of money, but declared that he was advancing his plan on the theory that the best defense of the United States is a defense of Britain.

Expects America to Benefit.

The President asserted that the plan under consideration, which has not been worked out in full detail, not only would aid Britain but would serve the selfish interests of the United States because it would work to build up defense production industries and the reserve of defense arms for this country.

Under the Roosevelt plan the United States government would take over all future orders of the British for arms and munitions in this country. Munitions include arms, ammunition, warships, merchant marine ships, and any other items needed by Britain in her war against Germany.

Taxes to Provide Money.

The United States congress would not only supply the funds to make the purchases but also would advance funds to private industry to build factories to manufacture the desired materials.

HEAR LAVAL GOES TO PARIS WITH ENVOY OF HITLER

Swiss Are Told He May Play Major Role.

BERNE, Switzerland, Dec. 17 (AP).—Authoritative sources reported tonight that Pierre Laval was with German Ambassador Otto Abetz when the latter left Vichy, France, tonight for Paris. These persons said the deposed vice premier was in one of the automobiles belonging to the Abetz suite when the Germans departed. Laval's friends said he would accompany Abetz to Paris.

Before he left, Abetz gave no hint of what he would tell Adolf Hitler about the ouster of Laval from the French vice premiership and foreign ministry. But the fact that he took Laval back with him indicated, some observers said, that Laval still would play a big part in French-German affairs.

May Be Paris Delegate.

These observers believed Laval might emerge as a "special delegate" of the Petain government in Paris, charged with talking with the Germans. He is not, however, expected to regain his former high position in the Vichy government. Other persons believed Laval might have accompanied Abetz to Paris only for the sake of his own personal safety.

It was reported here that Pierre Etienne Flandin, the new French foreign minister, who is ill with the grippe, was visited by Abetz. Flandin was said to have served notice on both Chief of State Philippe Petain and the Germans that he could not remain in the cabinet if Laval regained his power.

There were rumors that Germany might demand Laval's reinstatement.

A Petain-Hitler meeting might be expected if Abetz and Petain agreed on a future basis of French-German collaboration. If they didn't, anything might happen, including total German occupation of France, Berne observers said.

Abetz Hears Laval's Story.

VICHY, France, Dec. 17 (AP).—Marshal Philippe Petain, France's chief of state, summoned his deposed vice premier, Pierre Laval, back from the mysteries of his expulsion today for long conferences with himself and Otto Abetz, Adolf Hitler's high envoy.

An official communique, following a hectic and secretive day, said Petain and Laval discussed "the general situation." It was clear, however, that Laval's own situation since his ouster from the government four nights ago was a part of the discussion.

Abetz saw Laval this morning at a conference at Petain's home, and still later in a visit to Laval's château at Chateldon, 20 miles from Vichy.

Then Abetz conferred at dinner with Petain before leaving tonight for Paris. During the evening, Laval was at the Hotel Majestic, where Abetz had been staying. There was no confirmation of a rumor he, too, had gone to Paris.

Abetz, Petain, and Laval Meet.

The comings and goings of the principals in the day's drama were filtered thru a screen of secrecy that cleared a bit only tonight.

First, Abetz met Petain for 3½ hours at the marshal's Pavilon Sevigne. While they were talking, Laval arrived, accompanied by a member of Petain's staff. This was about 12:30 p. m. He left before lunch, getting back to Chateldon about 2 p. m.

At noon, Petain gave a luncheon for Abetz. Gen. Charles Huntziger, the war minister; Admiral Jean Darlan, the navy minister, and others attended.

Abetz then drove out to Chateldon to see Laval, returning to his hotel two hours later.

French Cabinet Meets.

Meanwhile, the French cabinet was meeting, with at least one interruption. Nothing was said about the ministers' decisions, but after the meeting Petain and Abetz conferred again and had dinner together.

When Abetz left for Paris about 8:30 p. m. he was accompanied by Gen. Laure, representing the Vichy government, and his own German staff and guard.

It was disclosed that the Bank of France had increased to 73,000,000,000 francs its noninterest loan to the government to defray the expenses of the German occupation. The previous total was 65,000,000,000 francs.

Nazis Seek to Learn Policy.

BERLIN, Dec. 17 (AP).—Berlin informants said today that Germany was interested not in Pierre Laval's successor in the French government but in "whether any change in French policy has taken place." Chief of State Petain already has told Adolf Hitler that he will continue to collaborate with Germany, that Laval's ouster made no difference in this. It was indicated, however, that Petain had not told Hitler why he ousted Laval.

CALL TO COLORS BELGIANS LIVING IN CHICAGO AREA

Belgian nationals between the ages of 20 and 25 living in the Chicago area were directed yesterday by E. Rosier, Belgian consul general in Chicago, to report to the consulate at 201 North Wells street in response to a call to the colors issued by Belgium's government in exile.

A statement by the Belgian embassy in Washington, D. C., said the call is being made to reënforce the "core of the third Belgian army," composed of men who succeeded in reaching England after the surrender of the 1st army in Flanders by King Leopold and the demobilization of the 2d army after the armistice in France.

The statement added that all nationals within the age range designated are being called up in all countries with which the government in exile has maintained diplomatic relations in order that the Belgian forces fighting with the British may be strengthened. It was said that a Belgian unit is defending a sector of the British coast.

GREEKS CAPTURE ITALIAN FORT IN NORTH ALBANIA

Break Thru Barbed Wire Barricades.

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 17 (AP).—A government spokesman tonight announced the capture by the Greeks of a camouflaged fortified position in the northern Albanian sector where the Italians had stood stubbornly with permanent artillery and machine gun installations.

The position was said to be near the Jugo-Slav border. The spokesman said the Italians were protected by barbed wire barricades thru which Greek infantry burst to take "a number of prisoners, including officers."

In the coastal sector, the spokesman added, the Greeks had "pressed back" the Fascists.

Shell Port of Palermo.

The port of Palermo, he said, is under Greek artillery fire, and went on:

"During the last 24 hours wherever the enemy has attempted to do battle he has been defeated."

Italian troops in the heights northeast of Palermo were declared to have been driven back after fierce fighting and heavy losses.

The Greek command's nightly communique said that near the center of the front the Italians were retreating "with losses" toward Klisura, and that fires were observed in that town.

The spokesman said that "more to the eastward" the Greeks had occupied another height from which a "concentrated and important" Fascist force had been dislodged by Greek fighters storming the position with bayonets.

Close In on Stronghold.

Greek soldiers, battling thru snow clogged passes, were reported to be closing in from two directions on the last Italian held mountain stronghold standing between them and the Adriatic port of Valona.

The Greeks said that their forces had repulsed seven violent Italian counterattacks to make new advances.

While the Greeks pressed on toward Valona, British bombers were declared to have again battered Durazzo, the biggest port of entry for Italian supplies and men, 60 miles further up the Albanian coast. Large explosions and fires were reported in Durazzo's dock area.

The main fighting today was north of Argyrokastron, in the region of Klisura and Tepeleni, road junction 75 miles south of Tirana, Albanian capital. Here, the Greeks said, operations were "proceeding satisfactorily."

Rout Italians With Bayonets.

On the northern front, beyond Pogradetz, an entire Italian company was reported to have been destroyed by Greek artillery as the Fascists were eating breakfast.

In another engagement, bayonet charging Greeks routed the Italians, a front line dispatch said, after a night long fight with hand grenades and machine guns.

For three days snow has been falling on the northern front, accompanied by steadily falling temperatures, and both sides have suffered hardships.

A Greek army doctor said that 75 per cent of the Italian prisoners taken on this front were severely frost bitten. He said the Greeks likewise were hard hit, but that the Italian cases predominated by a ratio of three to one.

Italian troops huddled in the mountain ravines were said to have been easy pickings for Greek planes, swooping to within 200 feet of the ground to strafe them.

Greeks Capture Italian Fort

Captions indicate developments in war between Greeks and Italians in Albania yesterday. Greece announced capture of a fortified Italian position on the northern sector, where resistance has been most stubborn.

I'LL BE CONTENT IF GERMANS LOSE WAR—CHURCHILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Asked if he thought it necessary or desirable that the German people be made to "suffer humiliation" after a British victory, Prime Minister Winston Churchill said in the house of commons today: "I will be content if they suffer defeat."

The question arose as the result of an effort by Laborite R. R. Stokes to obtain government disavowal of the broadcast to America by the foreign office's chief diplomatic adviser, Sir Robert Gilbert Vansittart. In that broadcast, Vansittart declared the German people would have to be crushed before Europe would be safe.

"Many interesting points of view are put forward in our country from time to time without the government being committed to them," Churchill said.

He declared the authority to arrange speeches should rest with the ministry of information.

Blackout in Alexandria May Be Relaxed Shortly

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Dec. 17 (AP).—Alexandria's total blackout may be relaxed shortly in view of British successes against the Italians. Navy and air force shellings and bombings are declared to have caused widespread destruction of Italian airdromes in Libya. Modification of Cairo's blackout also is under consideration.

ENGLAND HEARS HEAVY BLASTS ON FRENCH COAST

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—Heavy explosions from the direction of the French coast were heard tonight on the English shore, indicating that British bombers were making a heavy attack upon German bases across the English channel.

Up to late tonight London had not been disturbed by night raiders and the provinces appeared similarly free. Only slight air activity was reported over England during the day. One German bomber was shot down, but there was no report of any bombs dropped.

The air ministry reported that in last night's raid on the Mannheim area, German industrial district on the upper Rhine, a plane factory and the largest analine dye plant of Germany were set ablaze by bombs. Other bombers carried out a heavy raid on Bordeaux, base of German U-boats preying upon Britain's Atlantic shipping.

[German sources reported 10 persons were killed and 50 injured by the British attack on Mannheim. Some damage by fire and explosions was admitted, but its effect on production was immaterial, the Germans said.]

Nazis Ship Yule Trees to Fir Forested Norway

BRITISH SHIP LOSSES TOTAL 101,190 TONS IN WEEK ENDING DEC. 8

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—The admiralty today reported 101,190 tons of British, allied, and neutral merchant shipping were sunk during the week ending Dec. 8 due to submarines, mines, bombs, and surface raiders. An authoritative source said "one bad day accounted for a good proportion" of the losses.

These losses made the average weekly loss reported since the beginning of the war 63,192 tons, exclusive of vessels lost in the removal of troops from Dunkirk. The worst week was that of Oct. 20, when the admitted loss was 205,781 tons.

NAZIS SAY BLITZ KILLED 12,949 IN LOW COUNTRIES

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—Reports published in the Dutch press, which is controled by the Germans, today said that the Nazi blitzkrieg on the western front cost the lives of 8,900 Belgians and 4,049 Hollanders.

Quoting what was asserted to be a weekly report of Dutch insurance companies, the Deutsche Zeitung in the Netherlands said 798 were killed in the German aerial attack which devastated a large section of the center of Rotterdam. Earlier reports from allied and neutral sources estimated the dead in this raid up to 30,000. Of the dead in Holland, 1,664 were said to have been civilians, mostly between the ages of 40 and 50.

Of the 8,900 Belgians killed 4,600 were said to have been civilians.

4,588 KILLED BY NAZI NOVEMBER RAIDS ON BRITAIN

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—Civilian air raid casualties in the United Kingdom in November were 4,588 dead and 6,202 injured, it was announced officially today.

The report for October showed 6,334 dead and 8,695 wounded in the United Kingdom. Today's announcement puts the total casualties since Germany began raids on Britain last June 18 at 13,288 dead and 27,252 wounded. The official breakdown of the November totals:

AUSTRALIANS SET 'TOO FAST' A PACE ENTERING BATTLE

'Can't Hold Them Back,' Officers Complain.

BY EDWARD KENNEDY.

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN LIBYA, Dec. 17 (AP).—Fresh Australian troops, chafing to get into battle with the Italians, pressed on toward the Libyan base of Bardia today at such a pace that one of their commanders complained: "We can't hold them back."

The Australians form a unit with the British command which followed up the occupation of Sollum, Egypt, by hurrying up reënforcements for the advance on Bardia, 15 miles inside the border of Italian Libya.

"They want to show they can do what their fathers did in the last war," said the Australians' chief.

Tackle Italian Column.

Completely mechanized, the men from "down under" moved directly from camp to the battlefront.

The Australian vanguard overnight tackled one Italian column, capturing transports and guns.

Occupation of Sollum, last spot which the Italians had held on Egyptian soil, was solidified when a British armored brigade charged in.

Most of the Italians already had left in the direction of Bardia so swiftly that they could not be intercepted.

Watches British Raids.

Sunday night the British air force struck at both upper Sollum and Bardia with a series of terrific raids, which I watched from a promontory along the coast.

One squadron after another of British planes swooped to the attack, and I saw resultant explosions and fires as their bombs hit the targets.

Italian antiaircraft fire also lit the sky, interspersed with occasional "flaming onions" — great rainbow hued, fiery projectiles, eight of them chained together and ascending slowly.

This weapon, of German origin, is designed to tangle about the planes, but so far none in this sector has been brought down by it.

The planes in turn cast out parachute flares which gleamed over the desert and sea like great guiding stars.

Ask to Be Taken Prisoner.

As a party of newspaper correspondents was breaking camp where we had spent the night outside Buqbuq, three Libyans, one with an eye shot out, appeared and asked us for three things: bread, water, and to be taken prisoner.

Three correspondents attached to the Australian forces armed with one unloaded rifle soon rounded up and delivered to the military 20 prisoners.

In the past day or two I have seen thousands of Italian prisoners, marching to Sidi Barrani [Egyptian town recaptured by the British] along a Roman road they themselves built and named Via Vittoria [Victory way].

These Italians had hoped to march into the valley of the Nile and on to Suez. Instead, the British are using the broad Italian road in their drive against Bardia while the Italians under British guard are using it to head for prison ships bound for internment camps.

Any temptation to escape is discouraged by the terrain. Off the road lie the trackless desert on one side and the sea on the other.

Surprised by Tanks.

The prisoners I saw were mainly from Gen. Amicos Catanzaro's division of the regular Italian army, which was surprised and overwhelmed by the British in a sweep to Buqbuq, a coastal waterhole.

"When we left Libya, we did not dream any English offensive was coming," a captured Italian officer asserted. "Then we heard there was action, but we thought the front was still 40 miles away. Imagine our surprise when enemy tanks suddenly charged us!"

GERMANS 'ADOPT 3 MASCOTS OF BRITISH FLYERS

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—Three mascots of British flyers who were shot down over Germany are in Berlin. I saw one of them today—a beautiful russet setter with the lovely sad eyes of his breed. He is in the care of a German officer and his family and seems to have weathered his flying experiences very well.

Another—a big, short haired pointer—has been adopted by the air ministry. When his master and plane crashed, the dog emerged and tried to defend them from all comers. Soldiers finally coaxed him to some food and managed to get a muzzle on him. He was offered to Reichsmarshal Goering but the air minister declined. Now officers in the air ministry take turns providing the new pet's daily meals. The third mascot is a bird which survived the crackup of his owner's plane.

Berliners in the swank suburb of Dahlem, near where some of these British planes were shot down in October, assert that one of the flyers who bailed out was found wearing a tuxedo under his flying togs—a fact which deeply impressed Berliners. They cannot quite picture soldiers or flyers who find time and energy for more than their war work.

PICK 'FRIENDLY' PRESIDENT, REDS WARN FINLAND

MOSCOW, Dec. 17 (AP).—The soviet press today gave notice to Finland to choose a president who "will guarantee normal friendly relations with neighboring countries and avoid the ruinous path of adventures and experiments of any kind for Finland in foreign policy."

Kyosti Kallio, former president, resigned Nov. 28 because of poor health. No date has been set for the election of his successor.

Rumania Outlaws All Workers' Associations

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 17 (AP).—All workers' associations were outlawed in Rumania today under a government decree. Trade unionism, 400 years old, was abolished in 1938. The present associations or syndicates patterned after the Italian coöperative plan, then were founded.

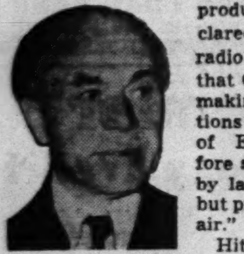
HITLER PREPARES WINTER INVASION, BRITAIN WARNED

Relies Mainly on Airmen, Beaverbrook Asserts.

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—Lord Beaverbrook, the minister of aircraft production, declared over the radio tonight that Germany "is making preparations for invasion of England before springtime—by land and sea, but principally by air."



Lord Beaverbrook.

Hitler is making an "immense attempt" to bring out a huge air force in the early months of next year, Lord Beaverbrook said.

"These vast preparations," he added, "are directed at one objective—the invasion of Britain.

"So we are warned. We know that same measure of preparation was carried out in Germany last winter: tanks and dive bombers to destroy the French; the same thoroness will be employed against us when the time comes."

"Much Too Confident."

Lord Beaverbrook told Britons they were "much too confident" and added "there is no justification for overconfidence now."

"It must be acknowledged that Hitler is still military master of Europe, but not quite so much the master he was," he went on.

American planes are arriving in England "in an increasing flow—very, very many of them," Lord Beaverbrook said.

They are fine types of fighting planes, he added, and "some of them are equal to the best we produce here." He described the Curtiss P-40 as the equivalent of the British Spitfire in performance and speed.

By 1942, he declared, 26,000 American-built planes will have reached Britain.

New Plane: The Whirlwind.

Regarding Britain's own production, he said that in the last four months the output was double that of the same period last year.

Addition of a new type of fighter plane—the Whirlwind—to Britain's air forces was disclosed by Lord Beaverbrook.

"We have seized control of the air by day with our fighter squadrons of Hurricanes, Spitfires, Defiants, and Whirlwinds," he said.

Lord Beaverbrook said that all aircraft lost by Britain during the four-month battle of Britain had been paid for with public contributions and that "the main flow of money has been from overseas."

The prime need, he said, is for more bombers.

"That's where we want to see new records," he said. "So roll out the bombers."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 17. — David Lloyd George, world war prime minister, has refused to accept appointment as British ambassador to Washington, D. C., it was learned tonight, altho Prime Minister Winston Churchill pressed him strongly to accept. Lloyd George turned down the offer because of his age. He is 78 years old. There was no indication that he had been offered an alternative job in the cabinet.

Windsors Depart

Miami, Fla., Dec. 17 (AP).—The duke of Windsor today said he had not asked for an appointment as British ambassador to the United States.

Just before his departure with the duchess for Nassau the former king was asked whether he would accept an appointment as ambassador if it were offered.

"I have not asked for such an appointment," he said, "but I certainly would accept it if I thought it would be to the best interests of the two countries."

The Windsors sailed on the ocean-going yacht Southern Cross as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Wenner-Gren. They expected to be in Nassau before noon tomorrow. The duchess appeared virtually recovered from the dental operation that brought the Windsors to Miami a week ago.

TOWNS IN BRITAIN URGED TO PROVIDE FEEDING CENTERS

Called Necessary to Care for Bomb Victims.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Establishment of community feeding centers in all towns in Britain was urged on local authorities by Food Minister Lord Woolton today.

Lord Woolton, food minister.

"Feeding centers in bombed areas," he declared, "are as necessary as a fire brigade."

Since the heavy raids started, he said, only 10 towns and cities outside London had made emergency feeding arrangements. He charged the others had been "unduly optimistic as to the prospects of being bombed."

Southampton, Coventry, Sheffield, Birmingham and other cities subjected to bombings, he disclosed, had made no feeding arrangements beforehand and the food ministry was forced to improvise canteens.

Promises Mobile Vans.

Lord Woolton promised that when bombings take place his ministry will send mobile vans of food wherever it is needed but local authorities must provide cooking facilities and at least two kinds of fuel—oil and coal—because gas and electricity service may be disrupted.

"It is a hot meal people want," he insisted. "Snacks are not of any use to bombed people."

Woolton also announced that feeding arrangements are available in more than 1,000 of the 1,700 public shelters in London accommodating more than 200 people each. London transportation organizations are providing food for another 120,000 people in 71 subway shelters.

Speedy Food Carriers.

Nineteen large mobile kitchens, capable of carrying five tons of hot food at a speed of 50 miles an hour to bombed areas, are being presented to the food ministry by the allied relief fund. The new canteens are equipped with thermostatic containers and two water trailers to obviate the risk of pollution from damaged water mains.

The food ministry has decided to control the price of turkeys. Prices had increased sharply despite Lord Woolton's warnings to purchasers not to buy if the charges were exorbitant. From today turkey prices will range from about 56 cents a pound for Norfolk birds to about 40 cents for Irish birds.

INTERNEES RIOT IN IRELAND OVER FOOD; ONE SLAIN

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Ireland, Dec. 17.—A revolt of internees in a camp at Curragh today resulted in the death of one internee, Bernard Casey, of County Longford. Another internee was slightly wounded. The trouble began Saturday when internees resented a reduction in the butter ration, refused their food, and set fire to their huts. Shots were fired and wounded the two internees. Two soldiers were injured by missiles.

PRINCESS MARIA OF HOHENLOHE IS TOLD TO QUIT U. S.

Associate of Nazis Gets Four Days' Notice.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—The justice department denied today the application of Maria Waldenburg, the Princess Hohenlohe of Hungary, for extension of a visitor's permit and ordered her to leave the country by Dec. 21.

It was explained privately that the princess' presence was considered "inimical" to this country's best interests because of her close association with Nazis.

Found with Nazi Consul.

The princess was with Capt. Fritz Weidemann, the German consul at San Francisco, when federal agents located her to advise her of the decision. She was told deportation proceedings would be started unless she left by Dec. 21.

The princess, whose full title is Princess Stephanie Hohenlohe Waldenburg Schillingsfurst, arrived at New York on the S. S. Veendam on Dec. 22, 1939, from London, traveling on a Hungarian passport. Her visitor's visa was extended once to Nov. 22, and on Nov. 18 she asked for a second extension.

A Laborite member of the British parliament last month referred to the princess as a "notorious member of Hitler's spy organization" and asked why she was permitted to leave England in December, 1939, for the United States "to do that sort of work over there." The question went unanswered.

Credited with Munich Aid.

In November, 1939, she unsuccessfully sued Lord Rothermere, British publisher, for breach of contract, alleging she was guaranteed $20,000 a year as his special political representative in Europe.

Her counsel stated that in 1934 she obtained from Hitler an invitation for Rothermere to visit him in Berlin, and that Rothermere had a "royal reception," telling her later that Hitler would make her a duchess.

During the trial a letter purportedly from Wiedemann, was read. In it the princess was credited with having "laid the groundwork which made the Munich agreement possible."

Attorney General Jackson announced his approval of a recent immigration service order refusing to extend the temporary visitor's permit of Karl Scheuring, 18, described as "a citizen of Germany and an avowed Nazi," who is a student at the University of Denver.

Ordered to Leave

Princess Hohenlohe, who has been in United States on visit, has been ordered to leave within four days.

NORMAN ARMOUR REPORTED NAMED ENVOY TO BRITAIN

Native of England, but Linked to Chicago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—The name of Norman Armour, career diplomat, who now is ambassador to Argentina, has been submitted to Great Britain by President Roosevelt as his choice for this country's representative at the Court of St. James's, it was learned today.

Norman Armour.

Armour would succeed Joseph P. Kennedy, who recently submitted his resignation upon his return to this country from London. It has been rumored in England, but denied here, that Kennedy was recalled because it was felt in Britain that he was not as sympathetic as the British desired. Kennedy has been vigorous in his insistence that the United States keep out of the war.

Born in England.

Armour, it is felt, would be acceptable to the British because he was born of American parents in Brighton, England, Oct. 14, 1887.

At the same time Britain was preparing to submit the name of the successor to her ambassador, the marquess of Lothian, who died last week. It has been reported in Washington that the post has been offered to David Lloyd George, 77 year old premier of Britain in the world war. It was further reported that in the event he turns it down it may go to Viscount Astor, whose parents were Americans and whose wife, the Virginia born Lady Nancy Astor, was the first woman member of parliament.

Member of Chicago Family.

Armour, a member of the Chicago packing family, has served in diplomatic posts thruout the world. He began his diplomatic career in 1915 as an attaché of the embassy in Paris after being graduated from Harvard and Princeton. He served in Russia, Belgium, Holland, Uruguay, Italy, Japan, and Haiti before his appointment as minister to Canada in 1935. In 1938 he was named ambassador to Chile and this year was named to fill the embassy at Buenos Aires.

Kennedy, who was known as the administration's trouble shooter, has been mentioned for several posts including chairmanship of the National Defense commission, but belief is widespread that he has severed connections with the administration.

Kennedy organized the Securities and Exchange commission and later the Maritime commission.

HOWE, CANADIAN MINISTER, SAFE AT BRITISH PORT

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—Charles D. Howe, Canadian minister of munitions, was said authoritatively tonight to have arrived safely at a British port after being rescued from the liner Western Prince, torpedoed last Saturday 550 miles northwest of Ireland.

There was no indication as to how many others of the 60 passengers aboard the 10,926 ton ship were saved.

BRITAIN'S VAST ASSETS IN U. S. LEFT UNTAPPED

Report It Could Finance Needs for Four Years.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—Great Britain has sufficient assets in this country to finance arms and munitions purchases in the United States for at least four years, it was learned from reliable sources tonight.

Senator Wagner.

Altho Britain has asked for financial aid from this country on the ground that she can make no more commitments for future purchases of war materials in this country, the empire has not tapped huge reserves of assets in the United States.

At the suggestion of Senator Robert F. Wagher [D., N. Y.], the senate banking committee launched an investigation last month of Britain's assets in the United States in anticipation of that country's request for financial assistance.

Assets Put at 5 Billion.

It is estimated the British have resources of about 5 billion dollars in this country. Further they have huge investments in Canada and Latin America which would equal if not surpass that amount.

These reserves would finance Britain thru four years of American purchases at the present rate, informed economists said. British purchases of arms, ammuntion, and implements of war have been greatly exaggerated.

In the first 10 months of 1940 British purchases of actual implements of war in the United States totaled $165,580,960. Actual cash spending by the British has averaged $125,000,000 a month. But many of these expenditures were for such items as food, clothing, etc. and would have been made in time of peace.

Total British expenditures in the 10 month period were 1 billion 179 million dollars for all purchases, including arms. This figure includes nonmilitary as well as military expenditures.

Production Falls Behind.

The British purchasing commission has reported that it has contracted for 2 billion dollars worth of war materials in this country. Deliveries on the contracts cannot be expected for months even if American factories are stepped up to the schedule of production fixed by the defense advisory commission. At present they are 30 per cent behind on airplane production and even further behind on other defense items.

Economists said it will take months to fill the orders for 2 billion dollars' worth of war supplies, to say nothing of making loans of war materials to Britain as proposed by President Roosevelt under a scheme he is perfecting.

The British are indebted to this country for the approximate amount of their holdings here, but have made no move to exchange these holdings for debts. The British have defaulted on more than a billion dollars in interest on a 5½ billion dollar war debt.

The British have unofficially explained their failure to cash in American resources for war materials by stating that if they were to dump their holdings on the American market they would not get a dollar for dollar value, to say nothing of placing the entire American financial structure in jeopardy by releasing such a huge bloc at one time.

American economists say that British dumping could be met without peril to the American financial structure far more easily than adoption of a program under which the United States would vote funds for the purchases of war materials to be lent to Britain.

BLAZE DAMAGES OLD SCHOOL.

Damage estimated at $2,000 was caused by a fire yesterday in the basement and first floor of the old St. Edward parochial school, 4340 Sunnyside avenue, used as a gymnasium in recent years.

RENT U. S. ARMS TO BRITAIN, IS ROOSEVELT PLAN

Wants to Send England Anything It Needs.

The funds would come from taxes levied on American taxpayers.

The United States would turn over the munitions and implements of war to Great Britain. At the end of the war, providing Britain were victorious, she would return to this country what had been lent, plus a reasonable rental, Mr. Roosevelt said.

In the event that materials were damaged or destroyed Britain would either replace them or reimburse the United States for their cost. Under the Presidential scheme the President said the plan can be worked out easily because the United States and Britain are using similar arms.

Future Is Left in Doubt.

Mr. Roosevelt said nothing of what might happen if Britain were defeated and the United States should be called upon to face an enemy with few or no arms because all, or the most part, of her arms had been sent to Britain.

Neither did he say what the United States would do after the war with the shopworn guns, men of war, merchant vessels, or other materials which might be sent to Britain, providing Britain should win and the United States would have no need to defend herself against invasion by Germany.

Mr. Roosevelt revealed his scheme of aid for Britain within 24 hours after England was learned to have made its formal request to this country for financial assistance.

The request was made by Sir Frederick Phillips, undersecretary of the British treasury, to Morgenthau. Phillips has been in this country for two weeks conducting what have been officially labeled "informative conversations" on the British financial situation.

Plea Made to Morgenthau.

Sir Frederick made his plea for financial aid to Morgenthau with the understanding that Morgenthau would relay it to the President. In anticipation of the request Mr. Roosevelt disclosed he had been considering means of giving aid to Britain for some weeks, altho he said his inquiry was undertaken primarily with a view to advancing American defense as much as affording aid to Britain.

Morgenthau did not tell the house subcommittee that his examination of the "balance sheet" of Great Britain's fiscal resources, as prepared by Sir Frederick, justified the British conclusion that England would be unable to make further purchases of war materials in this country without financial aid. He merely said he had been so informed and left the impression in the minds of subcommittee members that he was not convinced on this point.

Applies to Future Orders.

Mr. Roosevelt said he shared the conviction of the majority of Americans that British military purchases here are aiding American defense in that they are helping to expand American defense production and for that reason should be encouraged.

He declared that he is sure that Britain will pay for munition orders already planned in this country and that his scheme would only apply to future orders, which would be placed in 1941.

In advancing his plan Mr. Roosevelt characterized as banal the suggestions offered to date for lending financial aid to Britain. He mentioned specifically loans and gifts.

He declared that loans would be unsatisfactory because they raise the dollar sign on a move which builds American defense as much as it aids Britain. He asserted he had given considerable thought to the elimination of the dollar sign—the silly old dollar sign, he added with a laugh.

Differs with Mrs. Roosevelt.

Another product of the banal type of mind, he said, was the suggestion that the United States make outright gifts of guns or ships to Britain. This suggestion was advanced yesterday by Mrs. Roosevelt in her syndicated newspaper column.

Mr. Roosevelt said that he was sure that gifts are not necessary. He added that he did not think Britain would care to have a gift from the taxpayers of the United States, because the British might value their self respect more than gifts.

He asserted that his plan, while still in the formative stage, is infinitely more satisfactory. His plan, he went on, would eliminate the dollar sign and preserve the tender feelings of the British from the stigma of outright gifts.

Finds Legislative Advantages.

The President emphasized that under his scheme the United States would not have to repeal the Johnson act, which bars loans to nations which have not paid their world war debts, or revise the neutrality act, which bars American vessels from the war zone. To grant loans to Britain the Johnson act would have to be repealed and to send gifts to the British American vessels might have to be called upon to put in at British ports.

Mr. Roosevelt acknowledged that some legislation would have to be passed by congress to facilitate the carrying out of his plan, and that congress would, of course, be called upon to make appropriations to permit this country to pay for British orders and possibly enlarge American production facilities to permit fulfillment of the orders.

He added that he still must obtain London's approval of the plan. By this statement, he indicated that the plan had not yet been submitted to the British government.

British Indicate Approval.

The British embassy and the British purchasing mission in this country late tonight refused to comment on the plan officially. British officials indicated, however, that they expected the plan would be received enthusiastically in Britain because it would place no immediate strain on the British purse and might involve none even in the future, should Britain win the war, because the United States might be prevailed upon to waive all claims under the plan as the American contribution to British success.

Mr. Roosevelt said the plan would not be presented to the present congress but would go to the next congress, which meets Jan. 3. He said it would not be completed in detail until the new congress assembles.

Gives Neighborly Example.

In discussing his plan, Mr. Roosevelt used the example of a neighbor's house catching fire. If you possessed four or five hundred feet of garden hose, which, if connected with his hydrant, might help him to put out his fire, Mr. Roosevelt said to the reporters, you wouldn't advance the cost of the hose to $15 and ask the neighbor for it.

You would merely connect the hose and help him put out the fire, he continued. If the fire was put out without damage to the hose you wouldn't sell the hose, but would ask for its return, he said. All you would want is the neighbor to return it with thanks.

If it was damaged, you would inquire how many feet was damaged. If 100 or 150 feet were damaged, you would be perfectly satisfied if the neighbor would replace it, Mr. Roosevelt said.

Sees Gentleman's Agreement.

The same form of gentleman's agreement would exist, the President concluded, with respect to the war materials lent or leased to Britain.

Mr. Roosevelt stoutly insisted that his plan would not bring the United States further into the war than it now is. He cautioned reporters against making it appear that the step would bring a greater danger to the United States for getting into the war than now exists.

Of course we will not get into the war, he said. In other words, he went on, we are doing all that is possible now to give Britain every aid. His program would merely make it easier and that is all there is to it, he said.

Brushes Aside Title Questions.

Mr. Roosevelt brushed aside questions seeking to determine whether the United States might be brought into war by questions of the title to the arms. Where the legal title would be, he said, would depend largely on what the lawyers would say, but he affirmed that the matter of title would be of little moment.

He also dismissed as legalistic the question of what flag the ships which would carry the American munitions to England would fly.

Again, he said he did not know and he did not care. He had not the faintest idea in whom legal title might be placed and he was sure it would make no difference what flag flew at the stern of the transporting vessel, even if it should be the Bolivian flag.

He declared that he did not think this country would get into war for legalistic reasons.

Queried About Emergency.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked whether he contemplated the issuance of a proclamation extending the limited emergency he proclaimed at the outbreak of the war to an unlimited emergency in order to bolster the lagging defense program.

The President said there is no reason to do so, that the proposition is largely legalistic. In this statement he echoed the view of leading lawyers, who have declared that the declaration of a full fledged emergency would accomplish nothing.

Under the proclamation of the limited emergency Mr. Roosevelt can do anything he wishes to mobilize industry or man power for the national defense, because he is operating in the field of implied powers, upon which there is no limit except what might be fixed in court tests rather than explicit powers.

List of Powers Refused.

In the fall of 1939 when Mr. Roosevelt issued his limited emergency proclamation congress called upon Frank Murphy, then attorney general, to list the president's powers. He refused to make the list, asserting the extent of powers depended upon the extent of the emergency.

In this connection Mr. Roosevelt disclosed that the administration has under investigation two or three cases of manufacturers who have reportedly refused to coöperate in the defense program. The President has power to take over the plants of manufacturers who wilfully refuse to coöperate in the defense program.

Asked whether he had any plans for speeding up the defense program, Mr. Roosevelt said that was a pretty general question, which he could not answer. Before he left on his recent Caribbean cruise he said he felt the navy destroyer program was completely inefficient because there were not sufficient shibbuilding ways to lay down the keels of a sufficient number of destroyers at one time. New ways are now being built.

'NO FOREIGN WAR' DRIVE LAUNCHED BY IOWA EDITOR

Group Formed to Combat White's Propaganda.

New York, Dec. 17 [Special].—Formation of the "No Foreign War committee" to undertake a nationwide campaign at once to prevent United States participation in any overseas war was announced here today by Verne Marshall, editor of the Cedar Rapids [Ia.] Gazette.

Verne Marshall.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Denouncing the war propaganda of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, extreme interventionist group headed by William Allen White, Marshall pledged complete coöperation with the America First committee, headed by Gen. Robert E. Wood of Chicago, chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Both Seek Same Goal.

Referring to General Wood as an "able and courageous leader," Marshall said the two organizations will be fighting for the same object—"our peace—without infringement on the honor, security, and integrity of the United States."

Marshall, who will be chairman, said the committee will be incorporated in Iowa immediately. A man who saw service in the American ambulance corps after enlisting in the French army before United States' entry in the world war, is joined in organizing the group by two other war veterans.

Orland K. Armstrong, Springfield, Mo., aviator, writer, and former member of the American Legion foreign relations committee, will be director. Robert A. Lancaster, in the navy during the world war and now a member of the investment banking firm of Winthrop, Mitchell & Co., will be treasurer.

The Voice of Millions.

"It is the purpose of the No Foreign War committee to give articulation to the hopes and prayers of those innumerable millions of Americans who know that if they are dragged once again into the economic and political conflicts of the old world, only complete world chaos can result," Marshall said.

Asserting that the overwhelming majority of the American people are opposed to "direct physical involvement in the war," Marshall accused the White committee of "originating and developing exactly the same public psychology as that which was carefully created during the period preceding our declaration of war in April, 1917."

Greek Drive Queens

Two queens, chosen to represent the $10,000,000 Greek war relief drive, were crowned yesterday at a ceremony in the Chicago office of the fund at 77 West Washington street. The queens, Penelope Philiotes and Mary Simms, were dressed in costumes named "Glory that Was Greece" and "Glory that Is Greece," respectively. They will occupy places of honor in floats in the "March of Freedom" parade scheduled for 10 a. m. this morning in the loop, and also at the Greek war relief mass meeting to be held in the Coliseum Dec. 22.

Dr. Merriam to Discuss Democracy at Luncheon

Dr. Charles E. Merriam, head of the department of political science at the University of Chicago, will address a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the La Salle hotel today. He will talk on "What Is Democracy?"

METHODISTS ASK REPEAL OF DRAFT LAW; CITE PERILS

Find Freedom Menaced; Urge Anti-War Plan.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Repeal of the national selective service and training act was asked officially by the Methodist church of the nation yesterday on the ground that peacetime conscription is an affront to the Christian reverence for the human personality and a menace to democratic life.

This action, together with the demand that the country should remain out of European or Asiatic wars, was taken by the world peace commission after two days of executive sessions in the First Methodist church in Evanston.

"We reaffirm the position taken unanimously by the Methodist peace commission on July 27, 1940, in opposition to peacetime conscription," the resolution stated.

"We believe that the national selective service and training act should be repealed. We are opposed to any further extension of conscription, whether to men or to women. We believe that nonmilitary service to the nation, on a voluntary basis, such as the Friends [Quakers] work camps, should be made available to young people thru religious and civic agencies."

A negotiated peace, instead of a dictated peace like that of the world war, was urged by the churchmen. They asked that the United States try to bring about immediate armistices in Europe and Asia and urged that this country declare a willingness to coöperate with other nations in the formation of a new world order based on the principles that each nation surrender absolute national sovereignty and coöperate toward solution of the colonial and raw materials problems.

The resolution reaffirmed the church's general conference stand against war.

DR. MILLIKAN FEARS STATE CONTROL OVER UNIVERSITY SYSTEM

One of the prime bulwarks in this country's progress has been a free private university system. Therefore, all thoughtful men should vigorously combat present tendencies toward centralization, central government support and their corollary, government control of education.

Robert A. Millikan.

This message was given yesterday by Dr. Robert A. Millikan, physicist at the California Institute of Technology, at the 202d convocation of the University of Chicago in Rockefeller Memorial chapel. Two hundred and twenty candidates received degrees.

Dr. Millikan noted that in totalitarian countries the chief instrumentality thru which the ideals of civilization have been most completely destroyed has been the complete control of education by the state."

"The centralization and control of the education system enables these gangsters who have seized control of government to use the whole machinery of education, including the press and the movie as well as the schools, for indoctrination," he said.

A personal statement by J. M. H. Lebolt

President of Lebolt & Company Since 1893

To dramatize the leadership of my firm, which has conducted its business upon a high plane for almost half a century, I am conducting a Cash Discount Sale for a limited period. This fine jewelry is offered at approximately the amount it would bring if broken up, melted down and sold at present wholesale market prices. I prefer to give the buying public the advantage of these prices, first, to perpetuate the fine precision, labor and workmanship, some of which may never again be available in our time, and, second, to win for the future of LEBOLT and Company a tremendous amount of extra goodwill and friendship.

If you have been thinking of buying an important gift, if you are about to become married or engaged, if you are a lover or collector of fine jewelry or if you are simply looking for a way to protect your funds, I invite you to shop and compare. Get the facts on the quantity, quality and size of the precious stones and metal in each piece offered. Only then can you really appreciate that these values are almost incredible.

G. O. P. WHOOPS IT UP WITH BIG VICTORY DINNER

Jubilant Group Overflows Into Second Hotel.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Republicans last night celebrated the breaking of their eight year absence from state office in Illinois at a jubilant victory dinner which taxed the facilities of the Stevens hotel and sent an overflow crowd to the Palmer House to listen to the speakers by radio.

There was the air of Christmas eve, and of a carnival—with a dash of Thanksgiving—about the gathering of 3,200 G. O. P. workers from Chicago and downstate. The uniformed Stevens attendants seemed dazed by the enthusiasm of the party cohorts.

Big Success at $3 Each.

Starched shirts were seen at the dinner, but soft collars were more numerous. Suggestions of $10 tickets had been vetoed by grateful winners in the Nov. 5 election, and the turkey banquet was a howling success at $3 a place.

The Grand ballroom in the Stevens including the balconies, held 1,890, with 500 more at tables in the reception room, writing room, and lounge in front of the great hall. There were 700 in the Boulevard room. Almost 1,000 went to the Palmer House.

But the serious words of the new leaders of the G. O. P. had a quieting effect on the throng after it had cheered the keynote speeches of Governor Elect Dwight H. Green and United States Senator Wayland Brooks.

Their themes were:

1.—The American people's war against machine politics must continue without quarter.

2.—America must be kept out of the European war.

Warns About Patronage.

Governor Elect Green, tanned and refreshed after his two week vacation at Sea Island, Ga., stirred the throng with his demand for a relentless fight against the Democratic machine. He also issued what many took for a warning against overzealous efforts to obtain patronage under his administration which starts Jan. 13.

"There can be no compromise in the total, all out war against the political machine," Green said. "We issued the challenge, you and I, when we first began the fight. It is that challenge which will stand until victory is complete.

"I call upon you now to keep your lines of battle formed. I urge you to let no selfish aims, or doubt of the worthiness of your principles, weaken your strong resolve. You must always serve as the unfailing bulwark against the corruption and spoils of politics."

Puts Economy First.

The first task of his administration is to achieve economy, Green said. With the likelihood that defense needs will add to the tax burden, he asserted the need for business administration in government is growing. He said that only necessary employés and functions should be retained.

Senator Brooks' pledge to do everything possible to keep this nation out of war was loudly cheered.

"It is not only our nature to sympathize with, but also to assist free people who fight for liberty," Senator Brooks said. "But it is not our duty to police the world or to finance the universe, because of either the mistakes or failures of others.

"I believe that we should not extend our efforts to the point where we become voluntarily an active participant in this war. Entry into war will bring on internal strife far more detrimental than any man can calculate. It would bring losses of human life, and losses of social, relgious, and material advances never to be regained."

Ben L. Berve, chairman of the state Republican committee, which arranged the banquet, spoke, urging burial of factional differences to assure success of the Republicans placed in office.

Nearly every Republican state and legislative office holder in the state was at the dinner. Hugh W. Cross, lieutenant governor elect, held a reception for G. O. P. state senators preceding the banquet.

Today Governor Elect Green will be honored at a luncheon given by 900 officers, directors, and members of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce in the Morrison hotel. He will discuss a proposed trade and business council at Springfield which would advise him and the legislature.

President Signs Bill for Michigan Bridge at Soo

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—President Roosevelt signed today a bill authorizing Michigan to build a toll bridge, or series of bridges, across the St. Mary's river from a point in or near Sault Sainte Marie, Mich., to a point in Ontario province, Canada.

WILLKIE WANTS LIBERAL AS NEW G. O. P. CHAIRMAN

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—Close associates said today that Wendell L. Willkie wants the Republican national committee to choose as a new chairman a "forward looking liberal" who will represent "the back home element" in the party.

Willkie, here for talks with personal friends, was said to believe the party should have a chairman who came up from the ranks of Republican organizations rather than a man well established in the national political scene.

Willkie flew back to New York for a conference late today with Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, chairman of the national committee, who has expressed a wish to resign. Martin has said that his duties as minority leader of the house would prevent him from continuing as chairman. Martin said he would call a meeting of the national committee some time after March 15.

Retiring Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut was reported to be among those being considered for the party's national chairmanship.

FARMER FOUND DEAD IN TRUCK.

Paul Pomplum, 54 years old, a farmer, was found dead yesterday in his truck in a garage at the rear of his home on route 1 near Bensenville. A hose attached to the exhaust pipe had been insered in the truck cab.

BUILDING A U. S. 'SHANGRI-LA' IN ALASKA URGED

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 17 (AP).—Establishment of an Alaskan "Shangri-La" where economic unfortunates might find a new life is the goal of Paul Satko, who sailed his large family to the northern territory last spring in a home made boat.

Paul Satko.

The former Richmond, Va., welder, a visitor today in this port where he started his northern voyage, envisions a model community "for people like myself who want to give their children a better chance in life; who want to build for the future on something substantial."

He said that upon his return to Alaska he will make application to have the fertile, glacier fed Eagle River valley set aside for homestead settlement. The site, eight miles square, is 30 miles north of Juneau, where the Eagle and Herbert rivers sweep thru rich bottom lands.

84 RESERVISTS LEAVE FOR DUTY ON DESTROYER

Eighty enlisted men and four officers of the 24th division of the naval reserve left Chicago yesterday for active duty on the west coast. They are to serve aboard the destroyer Crosby at San Diego, Cal.

In command of the division is Lieutenant Commander Richard J. Penny of 1313 Chancellor street, Evanston. The three other officers are Lieut. Jack Nahigian, and Ensigns W. E. Sims and J. P. Brown.

A large crowd of relatives and friends saw them off at the Grand Central railroad station. Among them were Lieutenant Commander Penny's wife and two children, Dickie, 5 years old, and Ann, 7.

STELLE IS IRKED BY CRITICISM OF SPENDING SPREE

Plans Daily Explanation of Recent Buying.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 17.—Criticism of the extravagances of his administration is getting under the skin of John Stelle, 100 day interim governor of Illinois.

Stelle today began what, it is reported, will be a series of daily defenses against charges that his conduct of the government is unorthodox and costly. His first reply contained a disavowal of responsibility for the parole of more than 180 convicts from the state penitentiaries, announced several days ago.

The governor said the board was entirely responsible for this act. He has no control over parole, Stelle said, and quoted the law in support of his contention.

Impression Called Erroneous.

Remarks to reporters today plus the forecasts of his friends, lend credence to the belief that from now on Stelle will do all he can to erase what he says is an erroneous impression of what he has done in Springfield since the death of Gov. Henry Horner in October.

Since his intimates believe he will run for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1944, Stelle does not want the impression created that he took the lid off expenditures the moment he took office as chief executive.

Today he told reporters that all any one could say of him when he quits in favor of Governor Elect Dwight H. Green on Jan. 13 was he had given a lot of jobs to his friends.

"If Green doesn't do the same thing, I'll eat this desk at State and Madison streets," the governor continued, pounding the big, glass topped affair in front of him.

Favorable Comparison Promised.

Stelle said that sometime soon he would issue an analysis of purchases and expenditures during his brief régime and predicted that they would compare favorably with those in past years.

It is believed Stelle will break down the spending into various subjects—coal for example—and compare the amount he bought with that bought a year ago when the so-called bedside cabinet was running things for the ailing Horner. Other itemized expenditures will follow, reports said, each morning until the governor is satisfied he has done all he can to turn the public mind from the belief that he is wasting state money.

POPE NAMES GRAND RAPIDS BISHOP.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 17 (AP).—Pope Pius XII, today appointed Bishop Joseph Plagens of Marquette, Mich., to be bishop of Grand Rapids.

Probable Party Leaders

(Story in adjoining column.)

SCHNACKENBERG TO BE SPEAKER OF LEGISLATURE

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 17 [Special].—At least three posts of party leadership in the 62d general assembly appear to have been determined definitely with Representative Elmer L. Schnackenberg, Chicago Republican and veteran of 11 terms, slated for the post of speaker. Schnackenberg is the choice of Governor-elect Dwight H. Green.

Arnold P. Benson of Batavia, who has been in the senate since 1932 and who was Republican leader in 1939, is slated for the post of president pro tempore and leader of the Republican majority.

Leadership of the senate Democratic minority will go to Harold G. Ward of Chicago, legislative spokesman for Mayor Edward J. Kelly. The Republican majority and Democratic minority in the house will be led by downstate members.

HARRY BRIDGES.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, says he has reported to Attorney General Robert H. Jackson that Harry Bridges, the alien radical Pacific coast labor dictator, is a communist and that the communist party advocates the overthrow of the United States government. Dean Landis, acting as a special investigator for Mme. Perkins, reported that Bridges talked like a communist and acted like one but was not; he was merely a radical with some violent ideas.

Bridges says he's not a communist. The communist party not only denies that it intends the overthrow of the American government by force but it has recently pretended to dissolve all connections with the Comintern, the soviets' international organization controled by Stalin.

The American communist party, with Earl Browder as general secretary, revised its constitution to exclude from membership any one who advocated the violent overthrow of government by other than constitutional changes. That was to preserve its position as a legally recognized party. Its ostensible withdrawal from soviet connections was to avoid laws dealing with such affiliations. Both these subterfuges were perfectly and obviously hypocritical. The communist party could not be a communist party, following the Marx-Lenin line, if it did not believe in the seizure of power, the liquidation of classes, the submission to party discipline, and the dictatorship of the proletariat, which is dictatorship over the proletariat by a political bureau controled by one man. Without these doctrines there is no Lenin communism and the American communist party has no existence unless it has that origin.

Harry Bridges may not be, within strict legal construction, a communist. Technically, the word "communist" may mean membership in the communist party, altho dissident communists would be the last to admit it. But these niceties are of no consequence in the case of Mr. Bridges, who has been so long protected by the New Deal. His position is a bit precarious now because he went off the reservation in the last election and was against the third term.

Bridges is a highly undesirable alien. It is not the custom of governments to allow an alien to be an unmolested hell raiser. That privilege may be extended in many instances to citizenship, but it is the custom of nations to restrict it to citizens and deny it to aliens. In any other country, for one-tenth of the provocation this alien has given he would have been told in short order that his presence was not desired. There wouldn't have been any fuss about it. He would have been sent out of the country.

HITLER PAYS A DEBT TO NAPOLEON.

Shortly after the fall of France Herr Hitler slipped out of Berlin for Paris. The rumor that he had done so was later confirmed. He did not go to make himself a triumph. The German occupation was entirely business. The boss Nazi did not review troops, ride at the head of them or make speeches addressing the ages. He was Hitler, ex-corporal, sightseeing. The kaiser had not made it possible for him to get to Paris. He had to go there on his own.

In addition to window shopping Der Fuehrer went to the tomb of Napoleon and stood there paying silent tribute to his hero, the other corporal. A man's life may contain many surprises, certainly none stranger than this meeting of the corporals of two centuries. Does Adolf ever have to pinch himself? Now, by his order, the coffin of Napoleon's son, the duke of Reichstadt, has been removed from Vienna and taken to Paris on the 100th anniversary of the removal of the father's ashes from St. Helena to France. L'Aiglon will lie under the great dome alongside his sire, with Herr Hitler's compliments. A romantic cuss, Adolf, when his sentimental moments are on him. Is he wooing "the inveterate enemy"?

Nazis in Paris say that Napoleon is recognized as the precursor of the present revolution, its inspiration and spiritual source, as it were. Hitler already has outdone his predecessor. He has seized more absolute power. His is the voice of authority over more territory. He raised his own army. He has made his own economy. Before he comes to Waterloo will he carry on in the grand tradition, marry a grand duchess and join the quality folk and the crowned heads?

JUST AN OLD AMERICAN CUSTOM.

On Monday, Dec. 16, electors selected by the several states met in their respective states, the same time for all having been determined by congress, and voted by ballot for President and for Vice President of the United States. They made distinct lists of all persons voted for as President and of all persons voted for as Vice President. These lists they signed and certified and transmitted sealed, to the seat of government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate.

Later the president of the senate, having received the lists, will, in the presence of the senate and the house of representatives, open all the certificates and the votes will then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes for President shall be the President if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed. And that, if one person has such a majority, is all there is to the election of the President.

It will be no surprise to any one when the president of the senate finds that Franklin D. Roosevelt received 449 votes and Wendell Willkie received 82. The electors, free agents under the constitution, followed tradition, precedent, and the unwritten law. Interesting, wouldn't it have been, if a majority of them had concluded that these were times of emergency which couldn't be bothered or bound by tradition and precedent and unwritten laws?

THE PARK BOARD SEEKS A TAX BOOST.

The Chicago park district is at present the only local government in sound financial condition. It is the only government still able to pay its bills on time. Its president, Robert J. Dunham, now asserts that if the district is to remain financially sound it must have a considerable increase in its tax levy.

The amount of the increase he will seek is not made clear. Presumably it will be somewhere between $1,000,000 and the $3,290,000 Mr. Dunham would need if he did all the things he says he must do. Probably he would settle for an increase much closer to the lower figure than the higher one.

It is no secret that for most purposes Mr. Dunham is the park board. He operates within a political system but has been reasonably successful in keeping the political system from running him. As we have said before in these columns, Mr. Dunham gives more for a dollar of tax money than any other governmental administrator in the city, but he has somewhat grandiose ideas of the number of dollars he should spend. No doubt the more prudent citizens of Florence also used to wonder who was to keep up the public monuments they saw Lorenzo the Magnificent putting up.

The general plan for financial support of the park system that Mr. Dunham outlined in his letter to his fellow commissioners is admirable. It has been charged that under his administration costs of running the unified park system have exceeded by a considerable amount the costs under the old regional park boards. This is more apparent than true.

The consolidated board's appropriations for its corporate or operating fund are larger. But the old boards were in the habit of paying for virtually all of their maintenance work and a considerable part of their operating activities out of the proceeds of bond issues that they sold so lavishly. This work is now paid for from current tax revenue.

According to Mr. Dunham's figures it will cost $7,810,000 next year to operate, police, and administer the park properties. It is his belief that an additional $5,000,000 should be spent each year to keep in repair the park properties, which he has had appraised at $179,000,000 exclusive of land values. While his figure of $5,000,000 may be excessive, adequate provision should be made for maintenance. The alternative, followed by predecessor park boards, is to let properties run down and then sell bonds to rehabilitate them. In addition Mr. Dunham wants to spend $2,285,000 for permanent improvements, of which about half would be used finally to unwind the Lincoln park traffic maze.

There may be minor defects in this proposal, but the major one is that it calls for too much money. Taking into account the board's nontax revenues, expenditures on this scale would require a tax levy of at least $13,500,000, which is $3,250,000 in excess of the pegged levy which the board is at present authorized to make.

A good park system is a healthy, attractive asset to any city. But when it is set down beside such primary governmental functions as education, sanitation, and fire and police protection it must be classified largely as a luxury. Yet the costs of this semiluxury come out of the same pot—the pockets of the same group of taxpayers—as the costs of the necessities of government. More money for parks means less money for necessities.

The park board must go to the legislature for any change in its tax rate. Its authorization for pegged levies expires this year. For 1942 and thereafter, unless it gets an extension, it must fall back on an old fixed tax rate which would yield only about half the revenue obtained under the present pegged levies. The board has a good case for asking continuation of the pegged levies on something approaching their present scale.

But it is to be hoped that the legislature will refuse to grant the park board, the board of education, or any other local government an increase in the present amount of their levies. Mr. Dunham gives one good reason for such action in his letter to the park board, where he states that tax collections in Cook county appear to have "stabilized" themselves at about 80 to 82 per cent of the levy.

All of the local governments are run by the same political organization. That organization should get no authority to impose further burdens on taxpayers who meet their bills until it does something effective to collect from those who today are ignoring their obligations. If the local governments want more revenue let them collect taxes.

THE "GOOD OLD" WINTER.
[Toronto Globe and Mail.]

Before transportation became motorized—say, 50 years ago—a snowfall at this time of year was regarded as a blessing rather than a visitation. It stimulated trade, especially the Christmas trade. A foot of snow meant good sleighing in the country; and good sleighing meant that the farmers began getting their grain to market. Marketing the grain meant also that city, town, and village merchants' bills would be paid. There was little cash-and-carry business half a century ago.

In the good old winters of the long ago dawn saw the farmers in the Toronto area—and this extended far and wide—on their way to the city market, their sleighs laden with farm produce. There was heavy traffic on the main roads, with business along the way too. Recall that at one time there were between 30 and 40 taverns on Yonge street from Toronto bay to Lake Simcoe, all doing a good wintertime business. Summer tourist trade didn't amount to much in the horse-and-bugry days.

Of course there were occasions when heavy snowfalls put the country sleigh and cutter out of commission for a few days. Then the farmers got together and reopened the roads, frequently digging detours thru fields where the drifting was less. There was no waiting for the municipal authorities to get busy.

What a difference now. Oldtimers in the country must be amused by what a medium snowfall has done to Toronto. Progress has associated handicaps. Great speed in transportation has been attained; but when the storm element says "Whoa!" everything on wheels slows down to a pace that obliges the pedestrian to set the speed limit.

Meantime, for the odd sleigh or cutter to be met on country roads, the going is good. "Jingle, bells; jingle bells, jingle all the way."

AN ANCIENT SEAT OF LEARNING.

A glimpse of the vanished Dill Pickle club in 1920, in memory of its founder and feudal lord, the late Jack Jones, who recently departed for a Utopia that was not invented by Karl Marx:

Carl Van Vechten had come back to Chicago, possibly to find a few ideas to fit into his future "Peter Whiffle," and as the literary wing of the class of 1903 we held a small reunion. After dinner he expressed a desire to see the Dill Pickle club, of which he had heard much talk among the bohemians of New York, and we thought this was a good idea. For once we felt like the typical New Yorker taking a country cousin to the Aquarium; we hadn't seen it, either.

The Dill Picklers must have been spending the summer quarter at other seats of learning, or perhaps they were working with the I. W. W.'s in the wheat belt, for the ancient carriage house on Tooker alley was deserted. The door was unlocked, however, and as we looked around we were joined by a husky caretaker or summer student, slightly warmed with gin. He proved to be a friendly cuss, willing to serve as guide.

Perhaps because of the gin and the dim light, he asked an odd question:

"You college boys?"

After we had grinned that off, the talk drifted in a collegiate vein, and the Dill Pickler became reminiscent:

"I was in college once—anyway, I played college football. You see, I was a professional wrestler." And he named a Big Ten university.

A little cross-questioning convinced us that he wasn't lying. He was circumstantial about a game we had seen 20 years before. After that he had drifted around: migratory labor, the "wobblies," and joints like the Dill Pickle. But now he was headed homeward to settle down. "The revolution ain't coming off," he explained.

On our departure he grinned sheepishly and said:

"Don't tell Stagg."

It's all right, comryde; we never told Mr. Stagg that his Maroons won a championship from a team which had a professional wrestler at tackle or guard.

TO EVERGREEN TREES.

I have learned to know God from knowing pine.
And touched them gently, saying, "These are mine,"
Then blessed them that their green would never fade.
There is compassion in the way they spread
Strong branches wide to welcome all who come,
High courage in the way each holds his head,
A slender plume against the sky upflung,
They bring a quiet, healing peace, the deep
And tranquil strength that from all brave things flow,
And when thru fragrant boughs the clean winds sweep
Again this year His trees this message brings,
The good, the true, will live; hold to these things.

A Pilgrimage Into the Past.

Regarding the steepest railroad grade in the United States [Dec. 4]:

Until I read that bit of information I had no authority for my impression that I had had a real adventure during my descent into Madison, Ind., I remember that an air of general excitement pervaded the train as a special engine was hitched on, and that my father arranged for me to change seats in order to get the fullest thrill of the ride.

That trip to Madison was a pilgrimage. My father had been a boy there, and all my life I had heard of the beautiful hills where he had gathered blackberries and hickory nuts. I had heard of the winding river, the stately homes, the steamboats from Cincinnati, the parties, the aristocratic families. And now Papa was taking four of us back to show us the magic spot of his memories.

The place was enchantment from the first glimpse. . . . Clifty falls, the ferryboat ride across the river to Milton, Ky., peach blossoms, red bud trees, the old wooden pumps here and there, the horseshoer, the dignified bank building, the house with seven staircases, Miss "Dudey" Craven's antiques, the romantic Lanier home, the churches—all teemed with interest.

Our last day in Madison was Sunday. As we entered the church we were introduced to a member of the choir who had been just that in my father's boyhood, and still sang in it with a clear, beautiful voice.

RUNNING THE BLOCKADE.

Day wanes, and near the parking sign
Stands perilous close that car of mine
And dourly rides the gendarme near.
Comes Mister Kelly's chevalier,
And dourly bends to peek and peer
Whilst I in doorway flatly stall
Flat, aye, as plaster on the wall;
And then, eftsoons, ye mountie turns
The corner, and the pavement burns
Beneath my right mercurial feet
And leap I to the starting seat,
Give her the gun, and spin out clear,
And fades the sign: No Parking Here.

A Wise Man Faces the Mob.

I beheld a mob; it shouted a great shout; it came on toward me demanding; I mentally took it apart; I scrutinized its units and found each one weak; then I knew the mob had no real strength and defied it. I said "No" to all its demands; I rejected its philosophy of hate; I refused its creeds of superstition, ignorance, and passion; I did not fear the mob. Then the mob feared me and dispersed. GERMS FLY THRU THE AIR WITH EASE.

THERE was a period when ailments were looked upon as something mysterious — visitations brought on by evil spirits. Incantations, amulets, and charms were invoked against their dissemination.

Nowadays we endeavor to study cause and effect. We know that vicious streptococci may be responsible for a serious illness and we preach cleanliness as a means of avoiding all noxious organisms. If we washed our hands more frequently, we would encounter fewer infections.

But actual contact is not necessary as many bacteria may be scattered by coughing or sneezing. In fact, air currents can carry droplets much further than a stout "bark" can project them. We are obliged to agree with this suggestion as otherwise we could not explain the spread of measles or chicken pox. Others in the home may be affected altho the original sufferer may be completely isolated. It is now thought that whooping cough also may be air borne and some authorities add scarlet fever and diphtheria to this group.

It has been shown that the atmosphere of hospital wards housing scarlet fever victims will contain hemolytic streptococci—the same "bugs" that are found in the patients' throats. In maternity pavilions, where women are quarantined for childbed fever, the causative agents may be collected from the floor sweepings.

We know that "stirring up things," such as changing the bed, will raise enough dust to fill the room with microbes in a high concentration. In consequence, the daily chores should be carried out quietly, with the least possible bustle. Vacuum cleaners and wiping cloths have come to be the weapons of choice. All attendants upon a contagious case should wear gauze masks on the face, sterile gowns, and even rubber gloves in order to protect themselves.

Strangely enough, particles of sputum are so small that they may be invisible even in the presence of a "dancing" beam of light. But they lose their moisture quickly with the result that they remain suspended for a time, much like wisps of smoke. They may start out as sizable bits of spray but, before they reach the floor, they will have lost most of their weight. Thus they can float about with the movements of any one in the room, for example, walking from one chair to another.

Ventilation, altho desirable, is not nearly so important as we once supposed. While it brings a sense of freshness, it may not decrease appreciably the sum total of organisms found within a dwelling.

As we would expect, the more persons there are in a theater, a church, or a classroom—even with fair ventilation—the larger the percentage of microbes. In other words, we the people are the sources of contamination. If we have any consideration whatsoever for our neighbors we will breathe thru the nostrils with the lips closed and avoid uncovered coughing and sneezing.

But some one may say, "suppose the invaders are present—they are not active and will not sow the seeds of disease." Obviously, this is not true. Many types can retain their virulence for a week or more and be menacing to you or to me.

This explains why the number of visitors to the sickroom are restricted and why it is undesirable to allow much passing to and fro. Furthermore, with an invalid needing every ounce of reserve that he can muster, we must be careful not to introduce new bacteria to which he is not immune and which, in his weakened state, might increase his burden.

Crowding in public buildings can be carried to the danger point. Not that enough air will not be provided, but that too many germs may be poured out from the noses and throats of the occupants.

HUNGRY PEOPLE.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—So, England will not allow America to feed the peoples of the occupied nations, in spite of all the guarantees offered. This will starve men, women, and children and create unrest which might be strong enough to overthrow the Nazis. Good reasoning, but very poor foreseeing. Does not England realize that if the populations are forced to the wall neither Fascism nor communism will win out? Anarchism will be the result. The English channel might be the best tank trap of them all, but it is no trap at all for that king of "ism." Is England missing another bus? D. A. R.

GIVE ALL TO BRITAIN.

Hawthorne, Wis., Dec. 14.—The battle of Britain is the stand of civilization against primitive savagery. The best method for preventing our entrance into this war is for us to render England every possible aid short of actual war itself. In the form of the British empire civilization is fighting with her back to the wall, for us as well as for the rest of the world. Should England fall we should be in the war to the full without the aid of England, just as England is now in the war without the aid of France. We should forget the war debts, repeal the Johnson act, and give [not lend] England ships, war vessels, planes, and all other needed materials. We owe this to England and to the nations now enslaved by Germany. We owe it to ourselves, to civilization, and to common decency.

John A. Simpson.

MORE THAN ONE SLACKER.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—We observe that recently Mr. Morgenthau has been doing a lot of talking about "slacker wealth." Why shouldn't some one in high office with the New Deal just as severely criticize "slacker labor?" There is nothing fair about confiscating one and not the other. After all, many of those entering the service are leaving lucrative positions and jobs to go to work for $30 a month. Has any one heard of labor consenting to working 50 or 60 hours a week at straight time as its contribution to an alleged emergency? Labor should be made to contribute equally with wealth and capital, unless Mr. Roosevelt is considering a fourth term and therefore is again afraid of the labor vote.

FROM SOME OLD SAILORS.

United States Marine Hospital, Chicago, Dec. 15.—Half of the world is at war and the other half trying to help. So it seems that some of us fellows have been forgotten. In this hospital are six or eight of us old sailors who sailed the seas for many years. Most of us sailed United States army transports in the last world war and we are unable to get outside the hospital at present. We are short on tobacco, razor blades, and other necessities most of the time; so if you have a little space in your newspaper kindly mention us. Patients, 8-A, T. B. Ward.

"VANISHED SCIENTIST" LIVES.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—The Tribune today carries a story of the celebrated Russian physicist, Peter Kapitza, and his invention of a complicated machine for liquefying helium.

The heading of the article, "Discovers Vanished Scientist's Secret of Cheap Helium," and one short paragraph of the story, "Kapitza built his machine at the University of Cambridge, but returned to Russia in 1935 on a trip and has not been seen since," leave no doubt concerning the fate of this great scientist—murdered by those horrible Reds.

If the American press, which sent the story from New Haven, Conn., had read a short article in "Soviet Russia Today" it would not have made such a stupid error. The said article shows that Peter Kapitza, still working on his theme of liquid helium, demonstrated at the 1940 summer session of the Academy of Sciences in Moscow. In these demonstrations he proves beyond any reasonable doubt that liquid helium is a superfluid and not a superdiathermic liquid. Evidently Peter Kapitza is very much alive altho the American press has not discovered it. Perhaps it prefers not to discover it. Thos. J. Wilson.

TO A GREAT LITTLE GUY.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—I visited a hospital today to see a little fellow I had worked with for pretty near 20 years. He is one of the few survivors of a chemical explosion that occurred last summer in our city and was burned so badly it was only an act of Providence that spared him.

He is still confined to bed, and the sight of one eye is greatly impaired, yet with all the agony he has gone thru he still has that familiar smile and a great gift of humor.

O, if people in their dark moments could only envision the glorious battle that Fire Captain Tommy Tierney has made and won, it would give them new life and hope.

More power to your great nerve, and high spirits, Tommy; we are all plugging for you. E. C. Roth.

WHY THE CONTINUING FIGHT?

Chicago, Dec. 14.—Just why does the city board of health continue to spend the people's money in continued court battles to prevent the use of paper milk containers? Practically all the store owners favor the carton and it seems that most of the customers do too. However, any citizen can buy his milk in whatever he likes, bottle or carton. Either product will stand or fall on its own merits. What could be fairer?

Could some one be collecting a little graft from the bottle companies to keep out the competitive paper carton?

OUT OF LABOR'S POCKET.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—In your "8 Million Unemployed" editorial you say: "Mechanization has not been an important contributor to the ranks of the unemployed." How dare you make such a statement? Don't you realize it is not alone the machine's actual displacement of workers which creates mass unemployment, for with each worker displaced, in some instances as many as 50 jobs are "gone with the wind," due to the machine's ability to produce in mass quantity at high speed.

Don't you know that by this industry is annually creating millions of nonconsuming "workers" who subsist on electrical energy and lubricating oil, constantly widening the gap between our producing power and our consuming power? Aren't you aware of the fact that every dollar saved by industry in using machinery instead of employing human energy is just that much in wages taken out of labor's pocket, and in turn, just so many dollars worth of purchasing power denied both worker and the machine as a means of subsistence?

AND WHAT ABOUT KENNEDY?

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 14.—Your cartoon entitled "Lord Lothian" in Friday's paper attracted much attention. Seldom have your cartoons created so much comment. It was expressive of what is in the minds of many true United States citizens.

However, is not Mr. Kennedy entitled to special attention in view of his refusal to become a social ambassador for the eastern anglophiles, as well as his very definite stand that the United States has no part in the present British war?

CHARGES I AM MADE SEX A BAR TO 'ASCENSION'

Witness Says Even Race Increase Was Taboo.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 17 [Special]. —Testimony concerning sex abstention among members of the Great I Am cult and a momentous meeting between the sect leader and a panther today enlivened the mail fraud trial of 10 I Amers.

Mrs. Muriel L. Bliss.

A capacity courtroom crowd listened with high interest as Mrs. Muriel L. Bliss of Chicago, a former "messenger" and conductor of classes in the movement, told of a requirement that members abstain from all sex activity, even to normal procreation of the race.

To achieve a complete physical ascension—the goal of every follower —it was necessary to attain bodily purification and mastery over the all powerful violet consuming ray, the witness related.

Order Includes Daughter.

She even was instructed to order her daughter to observe sex continency, the edict coming from Mrs. Edna Ballard, widow of Guy Ballard, founder of the movement. Mrs. Ballard and her son, Donald, are among the defendants.

"If your daughter does not obey," Mrs. Bliss said she was directed, "tell her to take a child by each hand and walk out of her home and close the door."

Defense Attorney Charles H. Carr vigorously objected tc this testimony on the ground the government was trespassing on a sacred precinct. Federal Judge Leon R. Yankwich intervened with the observation that most religions advocate sex abstention.

"There is nothing unlawful about it," the judge said. "No religion justifies sex activity as a pleasure."

Ballard Meets a Panther.

In telling of the late Mr. Ballard's encounter with a vicious panther, Mrs. Bliss read of the incident in the book, "Unveiled Mystery," which dealt with strength of the cult's high priest.

A portion of the book read to the jury told of Ballard's awakening one morning in his abode near Mt. Shasta and finding a golden card telling him to meet St. Germain on the mountain at 7 a. m. Ballard said he hiked 10 miles to the trysting place and sat down on a log to await the coming of the "ascended master" and medieval philosopher.

"As I contemplated the wonderful privilege and blessing that had come to me," Ballard's account related, "I heard a twig crack and looked around, expecting to see him. Imagine my surprise when not 50 feet away I saw a panther slowly approaching.

He Wanted to Scream.

"My hair must have stood on end. I wanted to run, to scream. My brain whirled, so great was my fear. Then, I realized I had the Mighty Presence of God right within me. This beautiful animal was part of God's life also.

"A feeling of love crept over me. The vicious glare in the eyes softened. The animal straightened up and came slowly toward me, rubbing its shoulder against my leg. I reached down and stroked the soft head. It looked into my eyes for a moment and then lay down and rolled over like a playful kitten.

St. Germain Arrives.

"I looked up and St. Germain stood beside me. He said: 'My son, I saw the great strength within you or I would not have permitted so great a test. You have conquered fear.'

"St. Germain held out his hand and in a moment there appeared four little pigs about two inches square and I ate them at his direction. They were delicious. Immediately, I felt a quickening, tingling sensation thru my entire body."

Mrs. Bliss enlarged on the ability of St. Germain and Ballard to get anything they wanted by "precipitation," a power which she was told one could develop.

"You mean," asked the judge, "that if you wanted to precipitate an automobile it would come from heaven instead of Mr. Ford's factory?"

She Tries—But No Luck.

The witness said she did not recall ever having seen any one get an automobile that way. She asserted that she believed it enough to practice it by the hour, altho she never was able to precipitate anything.

In the Ballards' teaching that you could precipitate all the gold you wanted, Mrs. Bliss said the question arose as to whether one might produce so much gold it would exceed the government's allotment. However, it was pointed out, she said, that precipitated gold would mostly be in its natural state.

"You can just as easily find $10,000 in your pocket as 10 cents," stated one passage in an I Am book read to the jury.

NEW X-RAY TUBE SAVES TIME FOR STEEL MAKERS

Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 17.—The biggest industrial X-ray in the world was put into service today to look thru the steel going into warships and other American military equipment.

The new ray takes two minutes to take a picture of a four inch thickness of steel against an hour previously required. It takes five inch depth photos in five minutes, compared with three hours previously.

The rays are produced by a new type X-ray tube of one million volts invented by technicians of the General Electric company. It has been installed in a special building here with walls three feet thick to inspect huge power machinery parts.

The principal new feature of the tube is its comparatively small size. It also delivers higher amperages of X-rays than most giant tubes.

JOBS NEAR PEAK AS RELIEF POOL LIES STAGNANT

Aid Rolls Fail to Show Much Change.

that the stagnation of the potential labor pool is a problem that the country must face.

"The average age of a WPA worker is 45 years," Miner said. "This compares with an average of 35 in private industry.

Men who do the hiring for large industries, relief officials, and theorists agreed on the following conclusions:

1. A vast pool has been created in the country's population that is stagnant. This pool is little affected by the fresh stream of increasing production and employment.

2. All but a comparative few of the millions dependent on public assistance have been barred from employment by the events of the last 10 years.

3. A return to more normal economic conditions will prevent an increase in the size of the stagnant pool. Yet millions of potential workers have been blighted by the decade and must depend on taxpayers for support thru their lifetime.

4. Increasing prosperity will have no great effect on the relief and WPA rolls other than to make it easier for the taxpayer to foot the bill.

Need Only Skilled Men.

The personnel director of a steel company suggested that the ranks of unemployed include mostly men whose training does not fit them for a job in the highly mechanized production of today. He was supported in this by an official of a large manufacturing concern.

"Our company needs men with mechanical knowledge," the latter said. "Since there is a shortage of such men, we are training them at our expense. In the last 10 years the world of production has changed surprisingly. Everything is more technical, more mechanized and requires more training. Few of the applicants at my office come from relief or WPA rolls.

The number of persons on relief and on WPA and the estimated unemployment in Illinois during the first 10 months of 1940 follow:

	Relief.	WPA.	Estimated unemployed.
January	508,567	159,673	656,000
February	505,974	172,760	660,000
March	472,038	181,056	668,000
April	448,932	175,896	700,000
May	431,553	161,469	683,000
June	420,109	152,478	668,000
July	447,474	110,005	646,000
August	474,076	107,773	601,000
September	457,846	112,424	569,000
October	449,544	112,336	531,000

1940—	Relief.	WPA.	Estimated unemployed.
January	216,143	56,039	404,000
February	211,913	63,176	416,000
March	206,274	67,264	419,000
April	204,293	65,716	434,000
May	200,859	60,702	424,000
June	197,795	56,944	419,000
July	203,428	38,593	406,000
August	212,685	35,476	395,000
September	202,857	39,588	378,000
October	200,009	39,368	354,000

A survey of the ages of those on relief which was completed last fall indicated that only 30 per cent of the recipients are between 18 and 44, which is generally conceded to be the limit for new employment in industry.

WOMAN SEIZED AT AIRPORT AS DOPE CARRIER

A woman who said she was Mrs. Alma Groff, 37 years old, 4117 Sheridan road, was seized by federal agents at the airport in Louisville, Ky., yesterday and charged with the transportation of narcotics. Two hours before her arrest her husband, Samuel Groff, held on a similar charge, was denied a reduction in bond from $7,500 to $1,000 in the federal District court in Louisville. Groff was arrested last week. Mrs. Groff's bonds were set at $5,000 pending a hearing Friday.

Two Explosions—20 Dead

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 17 (AP).—A blast that left almost no two bricks joined by mortar, nor timbers by spikes, killed 13 members of 5 families in an old downtown tenement before dawn today.

Included among the dead was a baby born to Mrs. Lillian Schnetzer, 42 years old, while she lay buried in the wreckage. Mrs. Schnetzer, her husband, Frank, and four other children also perished.

A dozen other persons, saved only because they lived on upper floors of the three story building and came down on top of the rubble instead of under it, were injured.

What caused the explosion, which splintered windows for blocks and drove bricks thru nearby walls, only one man apparently knew and he is dead.

Report Storage of Explosive.

Joseph Feldman, deputy state fire marshal, investigated a report that three crocks filled with a highly explosive fluid had been stored in the basement by a tenant. Others theorized that leaking gas was responsible, altho A. C. Moorhaus, vice president of a utility firm, said a preliminary investigation indicated such was not the case.

The man who might have been able to say what happened was Joseph P. Koebbe, 33, operator of a general appliance shop on the ground floor. Koebbe's business partner, Elmer Campbell, who was working late with him on a pre-Christmas inventory, was missing.

Acting Fire Chief Edward Shearwood said Koebbe and Campbell must have been the only persons awake in the building. After the explosion Koebbe was one of the first victims located, but he was buried in the débris and dying.

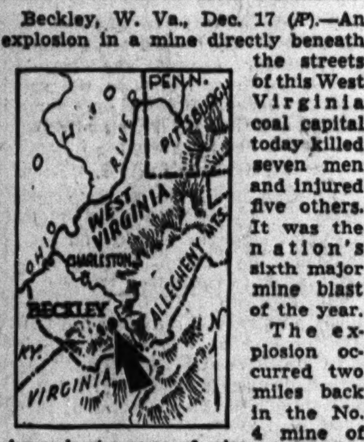
Unable to Tell Story.

After digging a 12 foot tunnel to reach him, firemen put an oxygen mask on his face. A physician gave him hypodermic stimulants, but he died before he could tell his story.

Raymond Roy, 36, one of the least injured of the residents, was quoted by Feldman as saying that Koebbe had warned a tenant repeatedly in past weeks about the contents of the three crocks. Koebbe described the fluid, Roy said, as sufficient to blow up the whole block.

The other dead; Jack Morgan, 28; his wife, Frieda, 23; their 12 year old adopted son, Robert; Helen Schnetzer, 10; her sister, Carrie, 22; Leonard, 9, and Joseph Schnetzer, 2½; Doris Smith, 9, and Julius Schnetzer, 51, a brother of Frank Schnetzer.

Beckley, W. Va., Dec. 17 (AP).—An explosion in a mine directly beneath the streets of this West Virginia coal capital today killed seven men and injured five others. It was the nation's sixth major mine blast of the year.



Arrow locates scene of mine disaster.

The explosion occurred two miles back in the No. 4 mine of the Raliegh Coal and Coke coporation, which has three operations on the outskirts of the city.

Ellsworth Shriver, superintendent, said an investigation would be started Thursday.

Shriver said he had "no idea" of the cause of the blast, whether it was gas or coal dust. He added the mine was not gaseous and safety lamps were used.

Shriver, returning from the blast area with N. P. Rhinehart, chief of the state mines department, said he could find no damage to the mine.

There were about 70 men in No. 4 at the time of the blast, but all but 12 were in unaffected areas and escaped.

It was the first serious accident at the mine in 40 years of operation.

No. 4 is a "slope" mine and its tunnels go directly under the city from which stem the rich New River and Winding Gulf coal fields.

The United States bureau of mines, which dispatched six experts and a rescue car to Beckley, termed 1940 the "blackest year in more than a decade" from the standpoint of lives lost. In five previous disasters, 267 men were killed and the Raleigh explosion brought the total to 274.

FLAMES SWEEP PLANT MAKING MILITARY TOOLS

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 17 (AP).—A three alarm fire today swept the upper floor and roof of a Julien P. Friez & Sons plant manufacturing precision instruments for planes, naval vessels, and the army signal corps.

The company, a division of the Bendix Aviation corporation, is engaged on government and national defense contracts totaling $1,500,000, Julien P. Friez said.

Friez said delicate instruments valued at $600,000 had been saved "from heavy damage by water" thru tarpaulin covers, but that he could not estimate the exact damage.

Origin of the blaze was undetermined, he said, but added "it is ridiculous to call this fire the result of sabotage." Firemen extinguished the blaze after two hours.

5 DIE IN BURNING HOME AS FLAMES THWART RESCUE

Johnstown, Pa., Dec. 17 (AP).—Five persons perished today in flames which destroyed a two family home at nearby Mineral Point.

The victims, trapped on the second floor of the seven room frame structure, were Mrs. Ethel Marie Bartlebaugh, 24 years old, wife of John Bartlebaugh; their two children, Myrtle Marie, 4, and John, 2 months, and two nieces, Ruth Pearl Bartlebaugh, 12, and Betty Jane Bartlebaugh, 5, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bartlebaugh.

John Bartlebaugh escaped by leaping from a second floor window. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bartlebaugh and a boarder, John Schribert, climbed down from a porch roof. They tried to save the others, but failed.

HAROLD TEEN—ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT?

DRIVE ON GANGS SPURRED AS NITTI FOE DISAPPEARS

Hoodlum Defies Police; Keeps Book Open.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

The power of the state's attorney's office and the Chicago police department was called upon last night to combat the gangster army of Frank [the Enforcer] Nitti and Danny [Public Enemy] Stanton. Authorities regarded two incidents yesterday as a double-barreled defiance by the Nitti and Stanton forces. The incidents were:

1. G. W. Forney, assistant business agent of local 278 of the bartenders' union, an anti-Nitti candidate for election as business agent, withdrew as a candidate and vanished from his home. His withdrawal left no opposition to the reëlection of George B. McLane, the man who testified to Nitti's criminal acts and plans and then saved Nitti from prosecution in the criminal court.

2. Nitti's principal source of revenue, the Randolph street handbook operated by Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin, took bets as usual. This was considered an open defiance of Mayor Kelly and Police Commissioner Allman, who last Friday joined with State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney in a pledge to purge the city of Nitti and Stanton and their rackets.

Drives Away in Auto.

It was learned last night that Forney packed up hastily Monday afternoon and left his apartment at 7504 Cornell avenue. He took his wife and two small children with him. They all drove away in an automobile.

Thomas Dorgan and his wife, who share the apartment [Mrs. Dorgan and Mrs. Forney are sisters], said Forney said nothing about his destination, explaining only that he was "going out of town for a while." The Dorgans said he made no mention of having received any threats.

An additional mystery was disclosed when Forney's brother Harold, a bartender in a tavern at 178 West Randolph street, said Forney failed to keep an appointment with him Monday.

Nitti Influence Suspected.

Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, said he believed the Nitti gang was responsible for Forney's flight. He suggested the missing man may have been terrorized. Forney was a football player at the University of Iowa in the 1920s.

Crowley said Courtney warned the anti-Nitti slate of candidates last week to be on their guard against an expected attack and had offered adequate police protection to them.

McLane appealed to the authorities for help and protection last summer. He had reorganized the bartenders' union at the end of the prohibition era and was its dominating influence until Nitti seized the union in 1935, McLane told circuit Judge Robert Jerome Dunne.

McLane named Stanton, the survivor of a hundred or more south side pistol battles of recent years, Murray Humphreys, an ex-convict accused of being a kidnaper, and numerous other desperadoes of the old Capone gang as Nitti's co-rulers of the bartenders' union. Judge Dunne appointed Roy D. Keehn receiver of the union as a result of McLane's charges.

Reaches Accord with Nitti.

"Then," Crowley said last night in summing up the evidence against the gang, "McLane asked Judge Dunne to dismiss the receivership. He said he had reached an understanding with Nitti, who relinquished all claim to the union. Apparently in furtherance of that understanding, he refused to testify in Nitti's trial before Judge John F. Bolton. He said he feared he might incriminate himself.

"He next formed a coalition with James Crowley, another of the union officials he had accused of being a Nitti agent, and the two of them set out to wipe out all opposition in the union election which Judge Dunne has called for Jan. 6. McLane has almost succeeded. Only Austin Steeves, candidate for the presidency of the union, stands between them and success."

McLane's defiance of the prosecutors brought about a conference with Bertram J. Cahn, president of the Chicago Crime commission and spokesman for the Association of Commerce and the Illinois Manufacturers' association, and Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Crime commission. Cahn, Chamberlin, Courtney, and Commissioner Allman met in Mayor Kelly's office last Friday and emerged with the declaration that the Nitti and Stanton gangs must go.

License Revocations Asked.

Courtney said Stanton was back of a series of vote frauds, the bribery of a jury, and the use of pressure to help members of his gang.

The mayor was asked to revoke the licenses of all taverns and night clubs owned or frequented by the Nitti and Stanton gangsters.

The next day Allman sent for enough police captains to make certain his commands were broadcast thru the city. The Crime commission officials said they were informed there would be some new police officials on the job if the Nitti and Stanton handbooks ever were allowed to run again.

And while Courtney's police were trying to find out yesterday what has become of Forney they said they were told that runners on Randolph street were whispering to the horse players:

"Hymie Levin is going, and they don't dare stop him!"

Asks More Money

MRS. IRENE SIMS.

Three years ago in a divorce decree unique in legal history, Alfred W. Sims, a supervising engineer for the Commonwealth Edison company, agreed to care for his unborn child until the baby became of age.

Yesterday, the child's mother, Mrs. Irene Ruth Sims, appeared before Judge Cornelius Harrington with a petition for an increase in the $20 monthly allowance for the child, Diana, now 2 years old. In reply, Attorney Sol Friedman, representing Sims, declared that the original decree was in effect a consent agreement and that a higher court only could rule on the petition. Besides, asserted Friedman, Mrs. Sims had agreed not to file the petition if Sims would give her a music box they once owned. Sims couldn't find it, so Mrs. Sims sued, Friedman said.

Judge Harrington allowed Friedman 10 days in which to file a formal answer.

150 TRAIL PAIR IN HILLS AFTER DEPUTY IS SLAIN

Middlesboro, Ky., Dec. 17 [Special]. —A father and son who fled into the Cumberland mountains this morning after a deputy sheriff had been shot to death and two policemen wounded were believed surrounded tonight by 150 officers who had trailed them all day with the aid of dogs. The pair was believed hiding near the Kentucky-Virginia-Tennessee line.

According to County Attorney Walter B. Smith of Bell county, Deputy Sheriff George Fisher, 63 years old; Police Chief George Minton, 48, and Patrolmen P. L. Perry went to Cumberland Gap to serve a robbery warrant on Clyde W. Buchanan, 40. Reaching a trailer where the man was reported living, the officers met a man who said he was not Buchanan.

The officers arrested the man, who asked to be allowed to finish his breakfast. The officers entered the trailer to wait. A moment later Fisher was shot to death, Minton was wounded and the suspect was shot once by Perry before a bullet hit his gun. The suspect and his son, Clyde Jr., 19, fled and the wounded men started for a hospital.

Then the two returned, took a pistol from Fisher's body, obtained two more from the trailer and fled to the mountains with officers and dogs in pursuit. Buchanan's second wife, Mertie, 19; a daughter, Doris, 17, and a son, Clarence, 15, were brought here for questioning. They identified the man who fled as the one named in the warrant.

254 ABOARD FAST DIXIE FLAGLER ON ITS MAIDEN TRIP

Flyer Places Miami 29½ Hours from Chicago.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Dixie Flagler, Dec. 17.—Miami is being brought 10 hours closer to Chicago tonight as the streamliner Dixie Flagler speeds thru the southland on the maiden trip of 29½ hour service to the Florida city.

The new train left Dearborn station in Chicago at 9:40 this morning, via the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railway, after being christened with orange juice. Its departure marked a successful campaign, in which THE TRIBUNE took a major part, for faster service between Chicago and the southeast.

This shiny stainless steel train is running the 1,434 miles to Miami at an average speed of 48.6 miles an hour. Previously the fastest train—and that only during the winter travel season—made the trip in 31 hours 40 minutes at an average speed of 45 miles an hour. During most of the year the trip has required 39 to 40 hours.

Every Seat Occupied.

The Dixie Flagler had an auspicious start, with all of its 254 seats taken and reservations in hand for capacity loads thru the first few weeks in January.

Altho streamliners have become commonplace in many parts of the country, this route never has had one before, and large crowds turned out at many towns to watch it. Schools were closed at several places to let the youngsters see their first streamliner.

Aboard the Dixie Flagler informality rules. Activity centers in the tavern-observation car, where the younger groups are celebrating. In the coaches elderly people—and there are lots of them on this trip—doze or read.

A survey of the passenger list shows that 78 per cent are going to Jacksonville and east coast points down to Miami, 16 per cent to central and western Florida points, and 6 per cent to intermediate points north of Florida.

Of the total, 83 per cent are from Chicago and the rest from Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Iowa, and even Los Angeles.

Riding Comfort Praised.

As the train nears Chattanooga passengers are praising it for its easy riding and quiet running qualities. Railroad men on board waited to see how the train took the mountains between Nashville and Chattanooga, where the track is winding. They agreed it came thru in grand style.

In the words of one Chicago woman who has traveled widely:

"The air of sociability is the most pleasant thing about this train. The comradeship is the nearest thing I have seen to that found on a boat."

The few southerners on the train said they feel the fast schedules will stimulate travel, not only between Chicago and Florida but between Chicago and such cities as Nashville, Birmingham, and Montgomery. Atlanta is among the southern cities, hitherto without streamlined service, that have been agitating for fast trains.

Six Roads Handle Train.

One of the handicaps to this type of service has been the number of railroads that have to share it. The Dixie Flagler, for instance, runs on six lines between Chicago and Miami. These various roads are coöperating, and if the service is successful, as indicated, more de luxe trains, including an all-Pullman, may be expected.

The Illinois Central's streamliner City of Miami will open its service to Miami tomorrow and on Thursday the Pennsylvania's South Wind will go into service. Thereafter, the three trains will leave Chicago on successive days, providing daily departures of streamliner service for the south. One will leave Miami each day, too.

SPECIAL DIVISION FORMED TO FIGHT SOCIAL DISEASES

Officials of the state department of public health yesterday announced the creation of a new division of social hygiene which will have improvement in the control of venereal diseases as its exclusive function. Dr. Herman Soloway of Chicago, a veteran member of the state venereal disease control staff, has been appointed chief of the division. Dr. R. R. Cross, state health director, said the rapid growth of social hygiene work and the expansion of the control program made the new division necessary for administrative efficiency.

BOAR HEAD RITE RE-ENACTED BY ST. JOHN'S BOYS

Delafield, Wis., Dec. 17 [Special].—Students of St. John's Military academy tonight reënacted the ceremony of bringing in the boar's head at the annual dinner which is given the night before school is suspended for the Christmas holidays.

The colorful pageantry, enacted in medieval costume, was borrowed from Queen's college, Oxford, England, in 1905 and has been carried out here for 35 years.

In the ceremony two heralds enter the dining hall with a flourish of trumpets. They are followed by standard bearers, pages, and a chorus singing the boar's head carol. Four monks, bearing the head, follow.

BOOKS FOR CHRISTMAS

Last Minute Check List of Books, the Ideal Gift

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

BOOKS are the ideal gift at any time—at the same time the most subtly personal and the most impersonal of presents—and forehanded shoppers already have their books happily selected. But to last minute shoppers books are heaven-sent blessings because they are the easiest as well as the most successful ones to buy. Here are some hints for the desperate last week of Christmas shopping:

If you are bookish yourself, why not send your own favorite book (or two or three) to each of your favorite friends, and say so on the card. It saves a lot of time and is VERY flattering.

Or, if you are desperate for time, buy book certificates (for any amount in any book shop or book department) and let your friends have the fun of choosing their own after Christmas.

Or, here are two sure-fire lists. Mark them in the squares provided and leave them, together with the names and addresses of those to whom the books are to go, at any book shop.

I have been very careful to include in the list "for any one" only books which are of wide enough appeal to please any one [and that's much easier in factual books than it is in fiction, it turned out]. The books on the list for omnivorous readers will please those who read a great many books and always want to read the best, but some of them might be a little deep or a little literary for the casual reader.

All the books suggested are among the year's finest and are blessings to give as well as to receive.

Prize Novelist

Nina Fedorova, whose novel, "The Family," won the Atlantic Monthly prize.

Here Is a List Compiled for Outdoor Fans

BY BOB BECKER.

Among this year's outstanding volumes for the fishermen is John Alden Knight's The Theory and Technique of Fresh Water Angling [Harcourt-Brace, $3.75]. Knight is the instructor of fly casting at Columbia university. Altho he has given a very academic title to his new work, it really is a simply written "how" book that smooths the way of the novice fisherman, gives the answers to hundreds of questions on lake and stream fishing, and supplies valuable advice on the tackle to use.

What Knight's book is to fishing, H. L. Betten's handsomely illustrated Upland Game Shooting [Penn, $5] is to hunting. Betten gives a complete picture of American hunting methods. He writes of just about every species of upland game, from jacksnipe, grouse, and quail to the lowly cottontail and the bandtailed pigeon.

Other books that will intrigue fishermen are:

Fly Tying, by William Bayard Sturgis [Scribners, $3.50], a comprehensive manual on the material and methods used in making all kinds of wet and dry flies for many species of fresh water fish.

Fur, Feathers, and Steel, by Reuben R. Cross [Dodd-Mead, $2], a well written guide on fly tying which will capture the interest of the expert and solve the amateur's problems with feathers and hooks; compact and entertainingly written.

No Life So Happy, by Edwin Lewis Peterson [Dodd-Mead, $2.50], an exquisitely told story about trout fishing.

Trout Fishing in New Zealand, by F. W. Pickard [Putnam, $2], an American fisherman's chronicle of his experiences in New Zealand.

De Voto Prunes Mark Twain's Notes Skilfully

"Mark Twain in Eruption," edited by Bernard De Voto. [Harpers, $3.75.]

"Hitherto Unpublished Pages About Men and Events," reads the subtitle of "Mark Twain in Eruption," but the book is actually Vol. III. of the Mark Twain autobiography, and there is still enough unpublished material to make a fourth volume.

Albert Bigelow Paine, who edited the Notebook [2 volumes of the autobiography], published in 1935, followed the pattern of the manuscript so exactly that a new high in dullness was reached. Lying comfortably in bed dictating, with a lifetime of memories to be included, Mark Twain let them include themselves as they would. His mind was like a nice interested dog on a walk with a kind master who almost never called him to heel. And the result was pretty meandering.

Mr. De Voto has done a much better job of editing, putting together scattered observations, and incidentally, deleting what must be the world's largest collection of punctuation marks in any one manuscript, but conscientiously doing no major surgery on it.

Read the introduction which Bernard De Voto writes, and you'll know better than any one else can tell you what he has done to the material, and more importantly, what he has left undone.

To the reader who is not a literary scholar and is merely interested in Mark Twain's "table talk" as such, this book offers lavish pleasure in the contact with a man who thought and talked pungently. Personalities fill its pages, and Mark Twain's frank reactions to some of the great of his day are like Vesuvius—the scorching lava of his prose overflows to bury many.

The most violent of his eruptions—in both length and sulphuric fumes—is against the Roosevelt who was President in Mark Twain's day. Read out of their context, some of the sentences have a strangely contemporaneous sound! F. B.

New De Luxe Edition of 'Grapes of Wrath' Illustrated by Benton

Thomas Hart Benton did the lithographic illustrations for the new de luxe, brown leather edition of John Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath" [Heritage Press, $5]; Joseph Henry Jackson wrote an introductory essay about the author, and Frank Craven a discussion of the artist's pictures.

A new edition of "Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard," by Thomas Gray [Harpers, $3] has 30 woodcuts of J. J. Lankes and an introduction by the American writer, Robert P. Tristram Coffin.

A Yuletide Tale

Authors of Note Write Group of Juvenile Stories

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

Several attractive little books written by famous authors especially for children are available this year. These include the following:

The Littlest House, by Elizabeth Coatsworth [Macmillan, $1.50], which is about a tiny 100 year old house taken over by three youngsters for a summer.

Fatapoufs and Thinifers, by Andre Maurois [Holt, $2], a French classic about thin folk and fat, which has gone into many editions and is this time translated by Rosemary Benet for American boys and girls.

The Adventures of Tommy, by H. G. Wells [Grosset & Dunlap, 50 cents], in a new edition.

Stories for Little Children, by Pearl S. Buck [John Day, $1.50], a collection of delightful little tales told by the author to her own children and intended for those of ages 3 to 6.

Mother Makes Christmas, by Cornelia Meigs [Grosset & Dunlap, 50 cents], which reveals how a little girl and her mother make Christmas out of practically nothing.

For boys and girls of high school age, Babette Deutsch recounts Finland's saga, Heroes of the Kalevala [Messner, $2.50]. For much younger folk Irvin S. Cobb narrates the stories of four real dogs in Four Useful Pups [Rand-McNally, 50 cents]. For young nature lovers, Cecile Hulse Matschat writes of American Wild Flowers [Random House, 50 cents]. The book is illustrated with colored photographs.

Golden Tales from Far Away [Winston, $2], is a collection of Charles J. Finger's stories gathered by the author in many lands. Another collection of tales is Animal Stories [Scribners, $2.50], which is selected, edited, and in part rewritten by Walter de la Mare, and contains 50 tales known in many parts of the world.

Growing Pains, by Wanda Gag [Coward-McCann, $3.75], is a story of an artist's childhood and young womanhood, as revealed in her own diary kept from her 15th thru her 24th year. In its sincerity and simplicity it is a very real contribution to any reader who is interested in the problem of the adolescent.

Colorful! That's the Word for Books of West

BY WILL DAVIDSON.

The year's output of books about the west is as varied in subject as is the west itself and as uneven in quality as the peaks of the Sierras. But its very variety and unevenness is colorful.

The outstanding book of 1940 out of the west is The Ox-Bow Incident, by Walter Van Tilburg Clark [Random House, $2], which was commented upon in Miss Butcher's survey of the year's best fiction.

Altho William Henry Jackson is an easterner by birth and fought as an easterner in the civil war, a great many of his active 97 years have been spent in the west, as photographer of what were to become our national parks, as mule skinner, artist, and traveler. In Time Exposure [Putnam, $3.50] he narrates this amazing life in high good humor, and with a fund of detail.

Another autobiography, Trail of an Artist Naturalist, by Ernest Thompson Seton [Scribners, $3.75], gives a rose colored panorama of this 80 year old man's almost theatrical career as a professional nature lover.

King's Row, by Henry Bellamann [Simon & Schuster, $2.75], is set in the middle west and its story could hardly have happened anywhere else. It is an unreal but fascinatingly gothic study of concentrated abnormalia in a small town whose center of fame is in the state insane asylum.

Iowa, bread basket of the west and the world, is uncovered in its protean manifestations in a book by the state's most prolific and loyal writer, Phil Stong. In Hawkeyes [Dodd-Mead, $3] he writes a cocky but sympathetic and revealing biography of the state.

Life as seen from a midwestern parsonage window finds its first prominent chronicler in Hartzell Spence, whose One Foot in Heaven [Whittlesey House, $2.50] is a not very profound biography of his practical parson father. The movies liked it $30,000 worth, however.

Perhaps the most telling book of the year on the Indian is Oliver La Farge's As Long as the Grass Shall Grow [Alliance, $2.50]. Its story of the white man's past actions is not pretty, but it points an optimistic path to the future.

Another colorful panel in a growing literary mural of the northwest is presented in Mighty Mountain, by Archie Binns [Scribners, $2.75], and David Lamson finds in that same territory material for a human and entertaining group of sketches called Once in My Saddle [Scribners, $2.50]. Product of an amazingly mature 19 year old author, The Canyon, by Peter Viertel [Harcourt-Brace, $2.50], is the story of boyhood in a rough town, realistic and searching.

November Grass, by Judy Van Der Veer [Longmans, $2], is a beautiful, sympathetic story of man and nature in the California hills.

From an almost overwhelming list of historical books these can be picked up as representative:

Captain Lee Hall of Texas, by Dora Neill Raymond [University of Oklahoma Press, $2.75], the highly informative story of a famous Texas ranger; Life in the Rocky Mountains, by W. A. Ferris [Old West, $5], the authentic journal of an educated and observing participant in the old fur trade wars; The Arkansas, by Clyde Brion Davis [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50], the story of a river that has cut thru some of the most exciting strata of western history; The Illinois, by James Gray [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50], the fascinating history of our own "mighty crooked river"; Coronado's Quest, by A. Grove Day [University of Oklahoma Press, $2.50], a lively account of the great Spaniard's vain travels, and Hot Irons, by Oren Arnold and John P. Hale [Macmillan, $2.50], an enlightening book about the hieroglyphics of the west, the cattle brands.

THE ODOR OF VIOLETS

By Baynard Kendrick

[Copyright: 1940: By Baynard Kendrick.]

INSTALMENT XXVII.
NO BLOODSTAINS.

Capt. Maclain ended his instructions to Cappo about putting the car out of commission, saying: "You may have to drive to New York in a hurry."

"I'll be ready, captain. You can trust me."

"That fact, in the chaos of a schizophrenic civilization," said Maclain, "is one of the very few things I know."

Duncan Maclain bathed and dressed hurriedly. When he was ready to leave the room he sent Schnucke off to be fed and walked by Cappo. He didn't need Schnucke's help to find his way to that room on the upper floor.

Sergt. King turned from his occupation of staring moodily out of the single window and said, "Come in."

The captain took three steps and stopped just across the threshold. He stood palms out, his little fingers lightly touching the seams of his trousers. The position threw his powerful shoulders slightly back, giving him a most military air.

"Tell me, Sergt. King, when you searched this room last night did you find any violet perfume?"

The sergeant opened his mouth and closed it again. Seconds of silence ticked away, and with each one the sergeant found it more difficult to reply. He was bogged down in the noisome muck of a crime too sanguinary to be real. It belonged in a hovel, somewhere in the backwoods or the slums, to be listed in the category of crimes of lust and passion. It was decidedly out of place in a wealthy producer's home.

His watchful eyes trickled down over Maclain. Everything was out of place. The murdered girl was beautiful—yet thru hours of intensive search the police had failed to locate a lover; failed to locate any motive, any family, any one who knew anything about her. Now, added to his sack of assorted incongruities was a blind man—not an ordinary blind man, but one armed with highest authority from the commissioner himself; blanket authority to pry, interfere, and ask questions—questions which the farthest reaching of the sergeant's quick mind could only type as irrelevant—questions about violet perfume.

King drew a deep breath and managed to keep it from ending in an audible sigh. "There's a bottle of violet perfume on her bureau," he said with a trace of compassion. "Why?"

"I thought it might be a clew." Maclain shook his head. "I smelled it last night in the hall. If the girl used it herself it probably means nothing at all."

"It probably doesn't," King agreed with a shade more of cordiality. "You made a remark about this method of murder last night. I asked you up here to talk to you. The murderer picked about the bloodiest method I've ever heard of—so bloody that he stood behind a screen and swung an axe around one end. I thought you might tell me why."

The captain left his place just inside the door and took two steps toward the bureau at the left of the room. His fingers moved about the surface until he located the bottle of perfume. He sniffed it without removing the stopper, then put it down again. Slowly he swung about and with his left hand touched the fabric of the plain cloth three panel screen beside the bed.

"Did you ever hear the story of the horseshoe nail that lost Napoleon the battle of Waterloo?"

"Yes," said Sergt. King.

"This reminds me of it, somewhat," Maclain continued as tho the sergeant had failed to answer. "The screen was here and the murderer saw it. The sight of it reminded the murderer that it might be used effectively as a shield against spattering blood. That pleasant thought reminded the murderer of the weapon in the armory hall. The weapon reminded the murderer of what happens to traitors in Germany today. Bella met her Waterloo."

"You're talking in riddles," said Sergt. King.

"And you're dealing in them, sergeant," replied Maclain. "You can investigate this murdered girl from now until Hitler goes into a synagogue to pray. You'll unearth but a carefully prepared labyrinth of blind alleys. Two nations stand in your way."

"Two nations?"

"She was working for both of them and both paid her, but she loved only one. You'll get no help from either this country or the country that killed her—Nazi Germany. She died on active service, and no human will ever prove that she was a counterespionage agent working for G-2. My problem is who killed her, not why. Yet you have to know the why to find the who." The captain turned his back on the sergeant and felt his way to the end of the bureau where he found a chair. He sat down, crossed his legs and seemed to be looking at his toes.

"This is a private home," said Sergt. King. "Do you expect the state police to swallow a story that a maid was murdered in a private home by a spy?"

"No," said Duncan Maclain, "and neither does the spy. That's what makes it difficult, sergeant, both for me and for you."

He raised his head with a sudden gesture which brought his chin out firm and strong. "The New York homicide squad is faced with the same problem, Sergt. King. Night before last a man named Paul Gerente was murdered in a 12th street apartment in New York. That was spy murder No. 1. Last night this girl was killed here—spy murder No. 2. If Barbara Tredwill fails to get back home alive, you can put her murder in the same class, as No. 3."

"And what am I supposed to do—arrest the whole Tredwill family because they were in New York and here, too?" King's emotion was evident in the tightness of his fingers about the holstered gun at his hip, but his voice was ominously calm.

"It might prove efficacious in bringing matters to a head, but I'd hardly recommend it," said Maclain. "You'd be faced with the necessity of breaking several airtight alibis which keep this family in the clear in Gerente's murder. Gilbert Tredwill attended a banquet. His wife and his father had dinner together and went to a show. Stacy attended a picture with another boy."

"So was Mrs. Tredwill." Maclain uncrossed his legs and placed his hands on his knees. "Would you be inclined to arrest either of them as a spy?"

The sergeant turned to look at the bed where Bella had been murdered and suddenly said, "Hell, no!"

"Well," Maclain went on, "that brings us back to scratch."

He stood up. "I suppose you've searched this entire house for bloodstained clothes?"

"——And found none," said King abruptly.

"It's a feature of these two murders that you find nothing." The captain closed thumb and forefinger about the lower part of his jaw. "If you were going to hack some one up, Sergt. King, and didn't want to get bloodstains on your clothes, would you prefer to stand behind inadequate protection of a screen or to remove your clothes entirely?"

"I'd remove them entirely."

"Check!" said Duncan Maclain. "So would I."

"So you've narrowed it down to some one in The Crags?" said Sergt. King.

The captain stood up. "When I narrow things down that far, sergeant, I make arrests. The fact that a murderer wishes to avoid bloodstained clothing is hardly adequate proof that that murderer is living in the Tredwill home."

SCOUT WORKER GOOD FELLOWS TO MAP DELIVERY

Leaders Meet Tonight After W-G-N Program.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Several hundred Boy Scout leaders will be guests at the Melody Street program from 7 to 7:30 o'clock tonight in the audience studio of W-G-N. After the broadcast they will meet in Tribune Tower to discuss details of the distribution of more than 100 Good Fellow baskets on Christmas eve.

The speaker at the conference will be A. A. Kirk, director of field service, who will represent W. Arthur McKinney, executive of the Chicago Council of Boy Scouts, who had planned to be present but will not be able to do so.

A Reminder for 1941.

Every newspaper's editorial department has a file called "futures." Here's an item that has been put in it for Dec. 1, 1941 :

"Get in touch with John F. Hassett, president of the Movers' Association of Chicago. His organization will give a Good Fellow party next year similar to that put on by the Traffic Club of Chicago, with the proceeds to take care of several hundred needy families."

And this is how it came about. George Julin, a Traffic club member, appeared before 200 men of the movers' group several nights ago and told them of the Good Fellow campaign. The members unanimously voted to include a Good Fellow party in their 1941 calendar and are beginning to make plans for it—a year ahead.

Novices May Enter Tourney.

Novices as well as ranking players are being admitted to the Good Fellow table tennis tournament which will be held Friday and Saturday on the Chicago Mail Order company's tables at 511 South Paulina street. Entries will close at noon tomorrow. Those who want to enter should telephone Seeley 4000, extension 377.

Several thousand Good Fellow buttons are available for men, women, and children who will help purchase the baskets for the needy this Christmas. Send your dollar to the Good Fellow bureau, 1 South Dearborn street, in the Tribune's Public Service office, and your button will be sent by return mail. If you wish to buy a basket yourself and deliver it Christmas eve, you can call the bureau, Superior 0200, for the name of an unfortunate family.

ADVERTISING MEN PLAN YULE PARTY OF 100,000 GIFTS

Fifteen hundred advertising men will attend the annual Christmas party of the Chicago Federated Advertising club at noon tomorrow in the Hotel Sherman. Proceeds will go to the Off the Street club, Chicago's oldest organization for assisting underprivileged boys and girls.

A three hour program of entertainment has been planned, and prize Christmas bags will be distributed to each guest. The advertising men, or their firms, will give in return more than 100,000 articles to the Off the Street club.

This organization grew from a one room club to an association requiring two large buildings and four playgrounds. It has helped 3,000 boys and girls yearly since 1900.

Pat O'Malley, "the Lancashire story teller" who has been popular on the air with Alec Templeton, blind pianist; Gypsy Rose Lee, strip tease artist; Fats Waller, colored orchestra leader, and his vocalist, Kitty Murray; Larry Adler, harmonica virtuoso; Marion Colby, Jack Gilford, and Elizabeth Talbot-Martin, stars of the musical comedy, "Meet the People"; Leo Terry, organist, and Lois Pertell and Grace Miller, "the strolling troubadours."

Same Christmas Tree Is Used for 22d Year

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 17 [Special]. —C. C. Storer, today put up his Christmas tree, the same one he has used for 21 years. He's spliced the tree and mended it and decorated it year after year.

Church Club to Entertain 1,000 Children at Party

A thousand children from the city's welfare institutions will be entertained this afternoon in the grand ballroom of the Sherman hotel. This annual Christmas benefit was established 25 years ago by John D. Allen, chairman of the board of the Episcopal Church club of Chicago. Every child will receive a gift and a turkey dinner.

NOTES TO SANTA REALLY FIND HIM AT POSTOFFICE

Yesterday 10 persons decided to play Santa Claus to unfortunate Chicago children. They asked for letters addressed to that mythical old gentleman and received at the postoffice. Since an appeal was published last week by the postoffice, 70 persons have applied as volunteer Santas.

Nearly 700 letters have been received this year, but most of them were from more fortunate homes where Santa will undoubtedly pay a visit. The letters are sent to Joseph Chmelik, chief auditor, in room 402 of the new postoffice building. There Chmelik sorts them according to neighborhood and waits for applicants.

Most of the letters, of course, are written by children. But some are written by destitute parents unable to fill their children's Christmas stockings. They ask only that their loved ones be not entirely forgotten on the year's most glorious holiday.

Santa Claus made an early visit yesterday to the Spalding School for Crippled Children, 1628 Washington boulevard, at the instance of the 5th division of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. James M. Woods, senior vice commander, and other officers had a large tree placed in the assembly hall and brought candy, ice cream, and cookies for a pre-Christmas treat There was a movie, and the boys and girls sang carols. George A. Dunston was not to be found among the hosts, but it was noted that the face behind Santa's whiskers bore a marked resemblance to that of the popular division official.

WORK OF SCHOOL GOOD FELLOWS TOLD ON W-G-N

Good Fellow activities that are being carried on in several Chicagoland schools were described yesterday on the Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast on W-G-N. Thornton Township High school was saluted on yesterday's broadcast, and 600 of the school's pupils were guests of W-G-N. William E. McVey, Thornton superintendent, told of the school's objectives.

William McVey.

Dorothy Gregory and Eddie Firestone, who play the rôles of Jerry and Jimmy in the program, described the Good Fellow activities. The Thornton Girls' club has adopted several needy families for Christmas. Girls at Flower Technical High school are presenting gifts to County hospital patients. Students at Senn High school will buy milk for several needy families all year. Wheaton pupils are mending toys and giving them to poor children, and Oak Park High students have raised $5,000 by selling Christmas seals. Jerry and Jimmy also reported many are contributing directly to the Tribune's Good Fellow basket fund.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

LINERS BOOKED FOR NEW WORLD WINTER CRUISES

One to Seven Week Trips Are Plentiful.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

Neutral ports, reached thru neutral waters on liners flying the flags of neutral countries, are the destinations of most of the cruises scheduled for this winter.

Because of the war there won't be any special cruises around the world, or around Africa, or to the Mediterranean. But the "business as usual" sign has been hung out on those to the West Indies, South America, Central America, Hawaii, Florida, California, and Mexico. The voyages will vary in length from one week to seven.

Plan Series of Jaunts.

This country's three largest passenger ships, the America, the Manhattan, and the Washington, will be operated by the United States Lines on a series of jaunts from New York to Havana, Cuba; San Juan, Puerto Rico; St. Thomas, Virgin Islands; Port au Prince, Haiti; Acapulco, Mexico; Cristobal and Balboa, Canal Zone; Los Angeles, and San Francisco.

The Kungsholm, flagship of the Swedish American Line, is to visit Puerto Rico, Venezuela, Panama, Haiti, Cuba, and Costa Rica. It will pay particular attention to Panama's San Blas Islands, home of the "white Indians."

Seven republics—Venezuela, Colombia, Panama, Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia, and Chile—are to be covered by the Grace Line. In addition, its ships will go to British owned Bermuda and Dutch owned Curacao.

Hawaii is the main goal of the Matson Navigation company's cruises, but that line also will continue its service to Samoa, Fiji, Australia, and New Zealand.

Call in Caribbean.

Sailing from both New York and New Orleans, the United Fruit company's fleet is to call on Guatemala, Honduras, Panama, Costa Rica, Cuba, Colombia, and British owned Jamaica.

Rio de Janeiro at carnival time, in late February, is the chief attraction for passengers on two cruises arranged by the Moore-McCormack Lines. The Argentina, sailing Jan. 24, and the Brazil, leaving Feb. 7, will stop at Port Everglades, Fla.; Nassau, the Bahamas, and Bahia, Brazil, on their way to Rio, and also will visit Santos, Brazil; Montevideo, Uruguay, and Buenos Aires, Argentina, before turning northward. These two ships, together with the Uruguay, are to maintain their regular 38 day cruise schedule both before and after carnival time.

Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic are on the itinerary of the Porto Rico Line. The Cuba Mail Line will take some of its passengers to Vera Cruz, Mexico, by way of Havana, and others directly to Havana. The Munargo Line will pay special attention to Miami, Nassau, and Havana. Three new ships of the Panama Line are announced for service to Haiti and the Canal Zone.

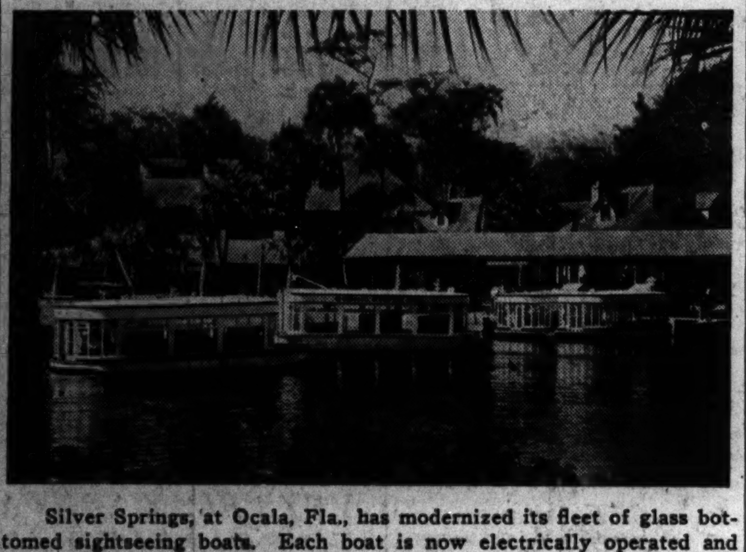
Ply Southern Waters.

Charleston, S. C.; Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and Miami, Fla.; Houston, Tex., and Havana are the destinations of ships of the Clyde-Mallory Lines. The Standard Fruit and Steamship company will send its fleet to Cuba, Jamaica, and Haiti. The Eastern Steamship Lines' ships will ply to Nassau from both New York and Miami.

Two ships of the Canadian-Australasian Line are to provide monthly sailings from Vancouver, B. C., to Hawaii, Australia, and New Zealand.

But perhaps the most unusual announcement of all comes from the Japanese owned N. Y. K. Line. Three of its vessels, arriving in San Francisco from the orient on the average of once a month, will proceed on cruises down the Pacific coast to Manzanillo, Mexico; Balboa, Canal Zone; Buenaventura, Colombia; Callao, Pisco, and Mollendo, Peru, and Arica and Valparaiso, Chile.

Where Tourists Gaze Downward



Silver Springs, at Ocala, Fla., has modernized its fleet of glass bottomed sightseeing boats. Each boat is now electrically operated and glass enclosed. Storage batteries provide the electricity.

On the banks of the Isle-aux-Oies river, 20 miles south of Mobile, Ala. The gardens have perhaps the largest and finest collection of camellia japonicas in America. The hundreds of camellia bushes start blooming in late October or early September, and the blossoming continues for three months. Colors vary all the way from white to crimson. In the early spring—usually before the last camellias have disappeared—the azalea bushes begin their performance. When they are in full bloom the purple, red, and white azaleas are so thick that they smother the foliage. Later in the spring the mountain laurel, double flowered white spirea, hydrangea, gardenia, and other species attract the visitors. Summer flowers include crepe myrtle, oleander, magnolia, hibiscus, and allamanda. The gardens, among the most beautiful in this country, are open thruout the year.

Recent advices from south of the border relate that the highway to the Pacific coast resort is in much better shape this season. Most travelers, however, still prefer to break the monotony of the long drive by making an overnight stop at Taxco en route.

BETHLEHEM, IND., CALLS NEIGHBORS IN FOR CHRISTMAS

Bethlehem, Ind., Dec. 17 [Special]. —Yuletide worship in peaceful Bethlehem, an agricultural neighborhood near the nation's 15,000 acre powder plant site at Charlestown, is being planned this year as a community observance.

Farmers of the surrounding Clark county hills and of the Ohio river valley will be invited to join with members of the community church here in prayers to keep war away from America's shores. The message of peace may be broadcast.

Vast activities by almost 10,000 workmen are going forward everywhere around this village of 200 residents, devotionally named Bethlehem in 1812 by settlers from Pennsylvania and Kentucky. Now war needs are the chief topic in the Hoosier namesake of Christ's birthplace in Judea.

Units of the 51 million dollar federally owned, du Pont managed powder plant extend almost into the town and thru Bethlehem township, where, it is said, a four million dollar powder bag loading plant will be situated.

The prosperity that permeates this entire Ohio river area has begun to benefit Bethlehem. To be removed from any possible danger zone, several former home owners in the plant area have settled here. Local merchants believe when plant production begins many technical workers will choose to live in this hamlet.

SEASON MONTH AHEAD OF ITSELF IN MIAMI BEACH

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 17 [Special].—This resort took stock of itself today and found that its 1940-'41 season is at least a month ahead of itself.

Hotel, railroad, air line, and bus line officials agreed that business is from 10 to 35 per cent greater than it was last year. They said they never before had seen the season set in so early.

Forty hotels, 135 apartment houses, and 283 private homes have been built since last winter to accommodate the crowds.

Giant Sailfish and Marlin Being Caught Off Panama

COLON, Panama, Dec. 17 [Special]. —Giant sailfish, weighing from 50 to 170 pounds each, are being caught by tourists to the Isthmus of Panama. Black marlin, weighing from 212 to 600 pounds, also are being brought in. So far no angler has equaled the record made by a visitor several years ago when he hauled in a 622 pound marlin.

Early Snow Starts Winter Sports at Sun Valley, Idaho

Sun Valley, Idaho, Dec. 17 [Special].—Early snow has set off this resort's fifth winter season to a fast start. With powder snow three feet deep on Baldy mountain, ski fans are arriving earlier than usual. Sun Valley lodge reopened for the season last Saturday.

Bracelets of Silver Hearts New Conceits for Yule Gifts

BY REA SEEGER.

Timely trivia destined for Christmas gifts are the tiny trifles that click instantly with any susceptible gadget enthusiast. First honors to the heart bracelets. Sterling silver hearts of all sizes with varying designs are hung on a narrow silver link bracelet. The hearts themselves can be attached whenever the right model is found . . . some will find lovely old-fashioned affairs in family jewel cases, others in the collections round the shops and stores.

Strings of pearl beads this year have a new appeal. There are three blended tints each to dramatize lovely ladies. To complement a cool magnolia complexion send the silvery white tint; for a honey blonde, the shade named "ivorie," and for an honest to goodness pink and white lady send "roses" with the undertone of pale rose tints. These specially blended pearls come in several different necklace arrangements with decorative clasps of rhinestones. It's the best beauty trick of the season.

There's an unprecedented fashion rush for earrings. Clever large hoops twisted like rope, set with seed pearls or red, green, or blue beads are effective bits for any ear lobe. Huge square or oblong sets of simulated topaz, sapphire, emeralds, and rubies are set in gold metal prongs. Then there are the new contrasts of copper and yellow gold metal in effective twists, geometric patterns, and smart tailored daytime earrings with a chevron design. The evening earrings are a dazzling lot, multicolored combines with rhinestone or seed pearls are set in yellow gold metal. Tiny beads in garnet red, in emerald green, or the seed pearls are bunched in a mass and then set in gold. New Year Fete Is Debut Party, Housewarming

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE'LL be gay goings-on this New Year's day on the new farm of the Carlos Colton Daughadays, who are combining a housewarming, a welcome to a recent bride, and the debut of their second daughter, Miss Eleanor, in a single reception.

Altho her name had been withdrawn from the debutante list earlier in the season, Miss Eleanor has now decided to make a formal bow on New Year's day. She arrives today from her studies at Vassar, just in time to help her family move into their new Longmeadow farm west of Winnetka.

The entire Daughaday clan will be on hand to welcome guests to the new home, down to young Virginia, who is 10. Miss Marion Daughaday and Miss Deborah will be at home for the holidays, and William, their brother, is arriving for his vacation from Harvard.

C. Colton Daughaday Jr. will have his recent bride with him. He and the former Miss Kathryn Reed, who were married in October in Kansas City, have an apartment on East Ontario street.

Many Parties Arranged for Miss Elizabeth Iglehart.

Miss Elizabeth Graham Iglehart's first visit in Chicago since her engagement to Edward McCormick Blair was announced last week-end will be crowded with entertaining, for the William McCormick Blairs have planned four parties to introduce their son's fiancée to their friends.

Tonight the Blairs are giving a dinner party in their town house on Astor street for the couple, who arrived yesterday morning from Baltimore. The Blairs' tea on Friday, too, will be given in Chicago, but guests at a luncheon and tea planned for Sunday will be asked to come to the Blairs' home in Lake Forest. For the same evening Mrs. Howard Linn, Mr. Blair's sister, is arranging a supper party in Lake Bluff.

Miss Iglehart leaves for Baltimore on Monday to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Nash Iglehart. Her fiancée will remain in Chicago to continue his Naval Reserve training.

Caroline LaTour Spades' Engagement Announced.

From St. Augustine, Fla., comes word of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Caroline LaTour Spades to John Harold Cummins of that city. Miss Spades is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Cox Spades of St. Augustine, formerly of Chicago, and a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael H. Spades and the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles LaTour Furey.

There have been a number of parties recently for Representative Elect and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, who will be departing on Dec. 28 for Washington, where they have taken a house at 214 First street, Southeast, just in back of the capitol. Robert F. Carr gave a dinner last night for the Deweys, and the night before Mrs. Clive Runnells was their hostess.

Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Dewey will be hosts themselves at a party for Governor Elect Dwight Green and Mrs. Green, who have just returned from a vacation in the south. On Christmas eve the Deweys will be dinner hosts again, this time to their entire family. Their son, Peter, who is studying law at the University of Virginia, and their son, Charles Jr., and his wife and their babies, who live in Far Hills, N. J., all will arrive in Chicago on Friday. The former Suzette Dewey and her husband, Frederick M. Alger Jr., and their family will come on the 24th. The Deweys' other daughter, Mrs. Edward Byron Smith, lives in Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leigh Giving Supper-Dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leigh are giving a supper-dance in the Balinese room of the Blackstone on Saturday, Dec. 28, for Governor Elect and Mrs. Green,

Sentimental Bracelets

Instead of the usual charm bracelets, try the new sentimental hearts hung on a fine link chain. They will jingle softly and musically with every gesture. The tiny hearts are of sterling silver and come in many different designs. You add them like the charm bracelets, and there is a matching tiny finger ring with two tiny hearts with the same old-fashioned engraving.

Front Views and Profiles

Symphony Orchestra's Christmas Tree.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra's 1940 Christmas tree—a golden tree for the golden jubilee year—will be on view in the grand foyer of Orchestra hall at tomorrow evening's concert. A handsome nine foot tree, it is adorned with a musical staff made of red ropes on gold mesh. Notes from Dr. Stock's Festival Fanfare, written for the jubilee year and played at the first concert of the season, are on the staff. Singing angels also decorate the tree and it is bathed in a golden haze of light. Its designer is Ivo Meucci, who was a choir instructor at La Scala under Toscanini and is a graduate of the Florence Conservatory of Music.

Dialect Dialog.

Orchestra Leader Meyer Davis' favorite story concerns the literary conversation he overheard. "I just love Keats," said one woman to the other. "Me, too," answered the other. "I'm crazy like anything about cheeldren."

Ballet Company's Christmas.

How one American ballet company will spend Christmas, as told in a letter from New Fane, Vt., where the Graff ballet, all of the members of which are Chicagoans, lives the year round on an estate called Fieldstone. Fieldstone's summer barn-studio-theater cannot be heated, so the village Grange hall has been rented for classes and rehearsals.

"On Christmas eve we are going sleigh riding in a big bobsled filled with straw," the letter reads. "We will go about New Fane singing Christmas carols. Maj. McKay, the retired major (whose wife makes the best butter cookies in these parts), got wind of our plans and has invited us in for eggnog.

"We will haul pine cones and boughs for decorations for the house. And finding, cutting, and hauling our own Christmas tree will be a great ritual. Ours will be a joyous Christmas here in the Green mountains."

Retort.

A woman on the L platform asked the bulletineer who calls himself the Voice from the Gallery where the Palmer House is located. He told her and she turned to go. Then he saw her stop a colored porter and ask him the same question. Our scout went over to her.

"Didn't you believe me?" he asked.

"Yes, but I like my directions in black and white," she retorted.

Children Sing and It's Noel in Orchestra Hall

BY EDWARD BARRY.

If the worst old Mr. Glum in the world had wandered into Orchestra hall yesterday he could hardly have prevented a slight leap of the heart. The stage was green with holly and bright with tier upon tier of scrubbed looking childish faces.

The occasion was the first of a series of three Christmas concerts of the Chicago Symphony orchestra to which the city's public schools, thru their director of music, Helen Howe, are contributing a chorus of 450 children. This chorus was used yesterday and will be used again tomorrow night and Friday afternoon for a performance of Gabriel Pierné's miniature oratorio, "The Children at Bethlehem." Frederick Stock is conducting all three concerts.

Pierné's work tells the story of the young keepers of sheep who came to Bethlehem and gave the Christ Child their homely gifts of bread and apples and milk and a white lamb. The music is gentle and poetic. Some of it is merry, with a strong folk quality.

The children sang with fresh, innocent voices which suggested a group of young and pleasantly breathy angels. The lack of all shrieking and squealing in their singing, as well as the precision of their attack and the restraint in their phrasing, was a tribute to the quality of the training they have received in their several schools.

Soloists for these three performances are Lydia Summers, Dorothy Kirsten, Agatha Lewis, Ella Steele, Henrietta Chase, Bruce Foote, and Leroy Hamp. Mark Love serves as narrator.

The purely instrumental items were the Pastorale from Bach's "Christmas Oratorio," "The Young Prince and the Young Princess" from the suite, "Scheherazade" by Rimsky-Korsakoff, and the Ballet Music and Wedding March from Rubinstein's "Feramors." In the last named Dr. Stock had another chance to use his beloved schellenbaum, or bell tree, an instrument which resembles a Christmas tree and tinkles away with a true holiday cheerfulness.

The instrumental parts of the Thursday and Friday programs will be revised to include Schubert's "Unfinished" symphony and the "Dance of the Angels" from Wolf-Ferrari's "The New Life."

Give Christmas Program.

The Conference of Club Presidents and Program Chairmen will give its annual Christmas program at 10:15 o'clock tomorrow at the Art Institute.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Three of the oldest, most enduringly popular perfumes are beautifully presented for this Christmas in a pink and white set that's as feminine as a southern belle's wiles. The box is a bon bon pink with an overall white lacy design on the outside, a white quilted design on the inside. The three perfumes, in simple, perfect bottles are set on a base that is ruffled in white lace.

The perfumes themselves are old and beloved. One is a gardenia, the other two are beautiful blends. As a gift set this is outstanding.

Then there is a de luxe gift set for the man who likes lavender. It will delight his masculine heart—and take care of his grooming needs for months to come. There's a wooden shaving bowl for home use, a tube of shaving cream for use when he travels; after shaving lotion, invisible talc, hair tonic, a crystalized brilliantine and a fine lavender soap that lathers abundantly in either hot or cold water.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Dec. 17.—One of the legends of the movies is about the Universal director wanting to take a company on location for some western stuff and Uncle Carl Laemmle vetoing it, saying "a tree's a tree and a rock's a rock. Shoot it in Griffith park."

An early handicap of the sound film was the technical difficulty of having microphones outdoors. Most difficulties turn out to be blessings, and the original shortcoming resulted in some marvelous fakery—transparency shots, glass shots and miniatures which are in daily use today and you never know the difference. However, sound has long since grown up to the point where the great outdoors holds no terrors and mikes don't whistle in the breeze. "Location" pictures are the stuff. "North West Mounted," "Arizona," "Western Union," the unforgettable "Stage Coach"—more and more movies are being made with authentic backgrounds.

The phrase, going on location, makes the job sound easier than it is. For an example, take the problem of sending Walter Huston, Thomas Mitchell, Jack Beutel, and Jane Russell to work in "The Outlaw." The job fell on Cliff Broughton, Howard Hughes' production manager.

Broughton went hunting for backgrounds, finally selected Moencopi, a Hopi Indian village on a Navajo reservation, 80 miles from Flagstaff, Ariz. He made a deal with the Navajo and Apache chiefs after much haggling over the rent and permission to put up a few false saloon fronts. Then the real location work began. Housing 250 persons transported from Hollywood, a tent city sprang up at Tuba City, Ariz., near Moencopi. The camp was run under regulations reminiscent of army life. A day began with the blowing of a siren at 5 a. m. At that time the horse trainers and wranglers arose, ate breakfast and began preparing the horses for the day's shooting. The construction crew ate at 6:30 a. m., the camera and technical crews at 7 a. m., and the cast at 7:30 a. m.

An hour before breakfast time, however, everybody was getting ready. Actors were made up and costumed, cameras were checked and equipment overhauled. When breakfast was completed, everything was set for the start of the day's shooting. Buses, trucks, station wagons, and sedans were standing ready to transport the various crews to their locations. From then on until 5 p. m., all thoughts were concentrated on shooting as much as possible before daylight faded.

Food was brought from Los Angeles and it took thirty-five waiters, cooks, and dishwashers to serve it. The camp, covering twenty acres, had its own sewerage system and light plant, and a radio station for communicating with Hollywood. A small plane was bought and a small airfield cleared, so a connection with the transport air line could be made at Boulder City, Nev. The plane was used mostly for shipping each day's film to Hollywood for developing and printing, and for flying prints back. Thus the director could look at his daily rushes the next night.

The cost ran between $4,500 and $7,500 a day, depending on the number or extras used. And this, mind you, for only a moderate superpicture. Nobody ever shoots anything any more in Griffith park.

The Housewife

Any woman on your Christmas list would be delighted to receive one of the unusual and beautiful handmade rugs we saw the other day. They come from the vale of Kashmir in India and are fashioned from Himalayan wool, some of the finest in the world. They look like soft toned jewels, their colors mellow and rich and their designs intricate. They are made in small sizes for scatter rugs, or for wall hangings. They are things of rare beauty.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

To use no trump as a rescue is one of the most naive and short sighted policies at bridge. I refer specifically to the habit [still too prevalent] of rescuing partner's doubled suit contract with no trump when the rescuer has a void or singleton of partner's suit and a scattering of honor cards in the rest of the hand.

In the hand shown below, North warned South, not once but twice, that he was unprepared for a no trump contract. When South still persisted, North was disgusted and, probably with the thought that South would be taught a good lesson, let him have his way. Unfortunately, however, North had to pay a full share of the loss.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	2 spades	Double
2 no trump	Double	3 spades	Double
3 no trump	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

South's bidding seems incredibly bad, but I have had a great many other bidding sequences of a similar nature reported to me. It is to be suspected that bullheadedness, rather than plain stupidity, is behind this sort of thing. North was completely blameless thruout. He recognized his partner's temperament to the extent of passing over one no trump, but when this was doubled by East for a take-out, and the take-out was converted into a penalty double by West's pass, North properly assumed that one no trump doubled would be far more ruinous than anything that could happen to two spades. In this he was quite right. Two spades doubled would have suffered to the extent of only 500 points. This might have been reduced to 200 if East decided to open a heart, certainly a persuasive choice with his hand. North made one more effort to save something from the wreck by bidding three spades. It is almost inconceivable that South should have ignored this additional warning. His bid of three no trump, under the circumstances, was something to shudder at. North, by this time realizing that he was in the hands of an egomaniac who would carry the bidding to seven no trump if necessary, retired from the contest.

West opened the ten of diamonds and what happened to South was almost too gruesome to relate. Twist and turn as he might, he could take no more than his two aces and heart king, and thus suffered a six-trick [1,700 point] defeat.

This was fitting enough as far as he was concerned, but hardly a fair deal to his partner.

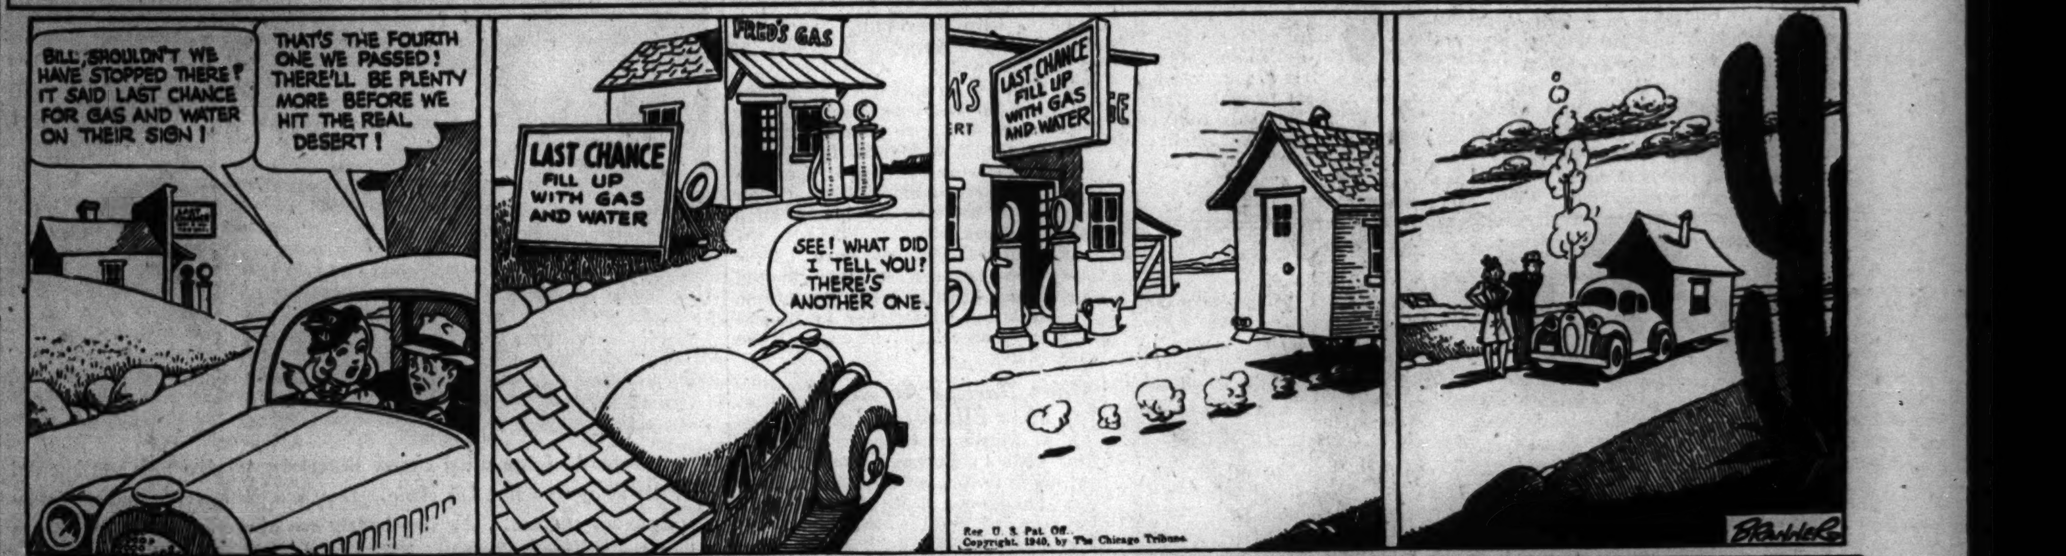
WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Lost Chance



Ruth Gordon Calls 25 Year Success Luck

Twenty-five years ago, dating from next Saturday, "Peter Pan" opened in the Empire theater in New York. The star was the great Maude Adams. In the company, cast in a minor part, was an 18 year old girl, a green, sensitive kid from the sticks, bedazzled by the lights, by the illusion she was helping to create, by the strange, exhilarating power surging up to inundate the stage from a darkened but intensely alive auditorium.

The girl was a boy in the play—Nibs, one of the tattered lost boys who lived in Peter Pan's wood.

In Nib's entrance scene, the boys, wrapt in a dream of home, are discussing Christmas gifts for their imaginary parents. "I'm going to give my mother a check book," boasts one. That's the cue. Nibs, little and skinny, bird bright with curiosity, pops out of a hollow tree stump. He pipes, "What's a check?"

Merriment swept the theater. To Ruth Gordon, a slightly bewildered Nibs, that sound of people laughing was magic music. She was as light as a leaf dancing on the air.

In the newspapers next morning her name appeared in one review. "Ruth Gordon," wrote a discerning young critic, "was ever so gay as Nibs."

Ever so gay in her happy recollections of that first experience as an actress, Ruth Gordon, to whom the world's loveliest music still is the sound of people laughing, sat yesterday, affably chatting, in her rooms at the Ambassador East hotel.

Twenty-five years on the stage? Then Miss Gordon must have learned Peter Pan's secret. She was as young as a girl in her short, fawn colored dress; pale hair piled on the crown of the head; one slim foot childishly propped on the wrung of a chair; fleet, sure fingers engaged with an intricacy of large yellow knitting needles and bright purple yarn.

On those years Miss Gordon has built one of the distinguished careers of the American stage. Rounding the circle, from her early featherbrain comedy parts thru serious drama ["A Doll's House," "Saturday's Children," "They Shall Not Die," and the like], she has returned in this silver anniversary season to comedy in "Here Today," her current play at the Selwyn.

Her way has been no primrose path. A stagestruck kid just out of high school, without theatrical training, she started out for Broadway with high hopes and $50. The bills she pinned securely in her corset. She was all set. She had never seen so much money in her life. She thought it was a fortune. And so it was, to a family that saved it on an income of $37.50 a week. Only a brilliant success, she felt, could ever repay her father for that stake.

But $50 didn't last long in New York. She was literally down to her last quarter, and had been dodging the landlady for weeks when finally she landed her first part.

Luck, she declared, gave her the first break. In the tryouts she was the worst of the lot of applicants, she insisted, but she got the part because Michael St. Gaudens thought she looked as Nibs should.

"You must have a talent to begin with if you want a stage career," Miss Gordon said, summing up. "Secondly, you must have the ambition and determination for a career. Call it egotism, if you will. But you've got to be ready to ride over every obstacle, to pursue your career thru war or peace, disappointment, love, tragedy.

"But most of all," modestly declares the famous Miss Gordon, "success depends upon luck—a twist of the thread the fates spin at exactly the right moment."

Calls 'New Pins and Needles' Brilliant Show

"NEW PINS AND NEEDLES."
Revue in two acts and 19 scenes. Music and lyrics by Harold J. Rome. Sketches by Joseph Schrank. Designs by S. Syrjala. Staged by Robert H. Gordon. Presented by Labor Stage, Inc., in the Studebaker theater Tuesday evening, Dec. 17, 1940.

THE PLAYERS.
Berni Gould, Harry Clark, Al Eben, Millie Weitz, Dorothy Harrison, Al Levy, Ella Gerber, Alma Charmat, and many others.

BY CECIL SMITH.

At a conservative estimate, "New Pins and Needles" is about seventeen times as good as its Labor Stage predecessor of two years and a half ago. The remarkable group of players, drawn entirely from the membership of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, have now become seasoned professional entertainers. The material is more consistently pointed and witty than that of the original "Pins and Needles," and the players handle it so effectively that nearly every scene hits the audience right between the eyes.

If any single attitude dominates the new revue, it is the attitude of Americanism, which to the Labor stagers means alternately the unmasking of totalitarianism and the glorifying of the simple pleasures of everyday democratic living. The big bad capitalists, once the chief target of leftist shafts, have an easy time of it in "New Pins and Needles."

The communists have finally, if belatedly, joined the fascists in the doghouse, and even the famous skit called "The Red Mikado" is certainly no apologia for Marxism or Stalinism. Labor Stage is clearly out after a world in which every one is entitled to freedom and happiness, and if topical satire is of any use in preserving that world here and now, "New Pins and Needles" is trying to do its part.

I hope I do not convey the impression that the revue is heavily serious or dully literal. On the contrary, it is a performance of magnificent effervescence, with songs and gags in headlong profusion, and with Harold J. Rome's wonderfully effervescent score bubbling and sparkling like the best champagne.

Of the separate items, perhaps the most perfectly achieved is "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl," a heartbreaking melodrama of the 90's, replete with period devices, even to an ornate olio curtain and a singing waiter. Harry Clark, whose tear-stained Irish tenor style is quite perfect in the waiter's rôle, handles comic assignments with an aplomb equaled only by the rubber-kneed, versatile Berni Gould.

Al Eben, with less to do, rounds out a trio of comedians who neatly resist all temptations to overplay, and who keep on an even professional keel every scene with which they have anything to do.

You will also like Dorothy Harrison in a biblical sermon in song, with modern applications, called "Mene, Mene, Tekel"; and everybody concerned with the merry "Red Mikado"; and the poignant "Sunday in the Park" episode; and the final anti-Fascist thrust entitled "The Harmony Boys." In fact, you may like nearly everything, for "New Pins and Needles" is a brilliant show.

Using numbers—After you have found your personal year and your personal month as explained on the foregoing days, then you want to find out what your personal day is for whatever day you are interested in. Suppose that you knew that 1941 was to be a 5 year for you [that would make March an eight month for you], and then you wanted to find out what the number of March 16 would be for you personally. You would add 3-16-5, giving you 15, or six as your personal day. Thus March 16, 1941, would be a six personal day, in an eight personal month, in a five personal year. The year is one of changes and variety, the month one of personal power, and the day one of responsibility. That gives you some idea of how to use th t day to the best advantage.

Would you like to know what kind of a year 1941 will be for you? Send for your personal yearly, monthly and daily guide.

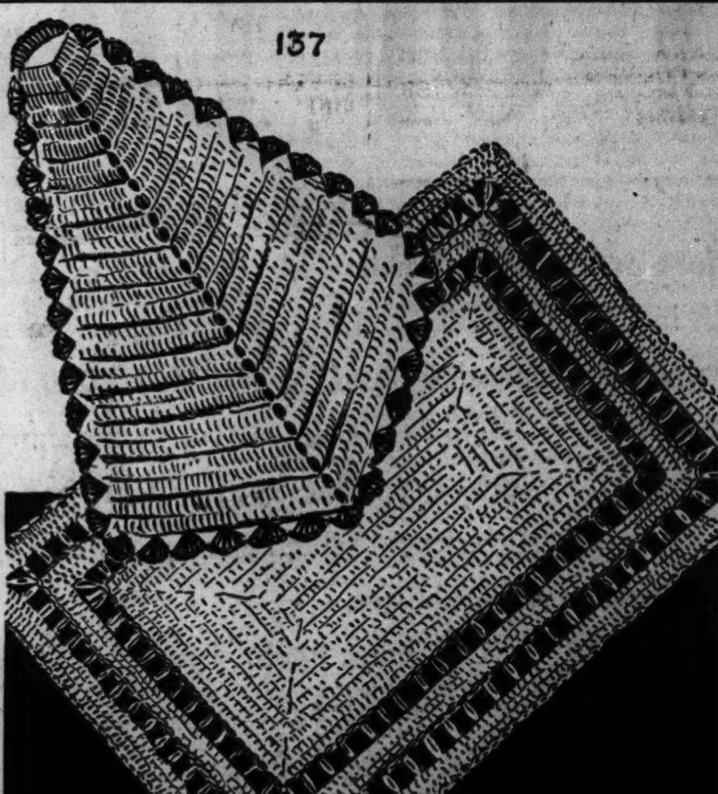
Crocheted Hot Plate Mats



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

In this day of crocheted luncheon and dinner sets, crocheted hot plate mats are most important, and they must be as highly stylized as the company they keep. The crochet mat is serviceable as well as attractive. The accompanying folder is ideal when one prefers individual service and insists on food passed by a maid. She has an attractive holder which is not diffcult to crochet and an excellent protection against burns.

For instructions in crocheting the hot plate mat and holder, No. 137, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Furniture, Home Furnishing Group Exceed Fund Quota

With the 1940 drive for the Community Fund of Chicago in the home stretch, it was announced yesterday by Merle J. Trees, general chairman of the campaign, that the furniture and home furnishings merchants had raised their share and an additional 5 per cent toward the $3,604,000 needed for operating expenses by 185 charitable and social agencies dependent upon the fund. Assigned a quota of $27,000, the furniture and home furnishings merchants raised $28,305.

The largest donation was that of the Brunswick, Balke, Collender company of $4,050. Next came the Western Shade Cloth company with $3,500; Straus and Scham contributed $1,000, and the Burton Dixie corporation, $1,001.

One of the most mouth-watering dishes displayed in the National Live Stock and Meat Board exhibit at the recent Live Stock exposition was a platter of spaghetti with tomato sauce, topped by slices of browned beef liver.

A quick way to prepare this dish is to use canned spaghetti and tomatoes. Liver of any kind requires a very short cooking period. It may be broiled, pan fried, or braised. To broil liver, dip the slices into melted butter and place on the broiling rack. Broil at moderate temperature just long enough to brown, about 3 minutes to the side for slices ½ to ¾ inch thick. This is the best way to cook calves' liver.

To fry liver, dredge the slices in flour, and brown in a small amount of hot fat, on both sides. As soon as the slices are nicely browned, they are done. Season with salt and pepper and serve. Overcooking will toughen the meat.

If you wish to braise the meat, and this is the best method for beef liver, dredge it in flour, brown in hot fat, season, cover the pan, turn down the heat, and cook at a very low temperature until tender, about 20 minutes.

Choose artichokes with tightly closed leaves to accompany the liver on spaghetti. Cut off their stems at the base, and cook them in boiling, salted water until they're tender when pierced at the base with a fork. Serve one to a person, and provide a little dish of melted butter in which to dip the leaves as they are eaten, and a plate to take the discarded parts. Only the bottom part of each leaf, and the heart of the artichoke is edible, but it is a very delicious, aristocratic vegetable if one doesn't mind the nuisance of nibbling the leaves, one by one.

Lemon Cake.

3 eggs.

Cream butter, sugar, and lemon rind together until fluffy and light. Add egg yolks and beat thoroly. Add lemon juice. Sift dry ingredients together and add gradually. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a greased pan at 350 degrees about 35 minutes, or until cake is brown and has shrunk from the sides of the pan. Frost with this creamy mixture: Cream ⅓ cup butter, add a teaspoon of grated lemon rind and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Add gradually 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar and mix until smooth.

Attractive cards, engraved and edged in red, are out for Miss Eleanore Zeiss' debut on Thursday, Dec. 26, from 4 until 7 o'clock. Miss Zeiss and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Henry Zeiss, will be at home at 1517 Dearborn parkway.

"I don't have birthdays any more," says Mrs. John G. Shedd, but the calendar asserts that today is Mrs. Shedd's 87th. Since Mrs. Shedd refuses to count her birthdays, there'll be no celebration in her State parkway home but her grandchildren and great-grandchildren will drop in to pay court to her.

"Silent night, holy night" will echo thru the halls of Mrs. Irwin Rew's home in Evanston at 3 o'clock today when the North Shore Wellesley circle holds its annual Christmas program there. The carol sing is a traditional and beloved event with North Shore Wellesley daughters, and for years Mrs. Rew has invited the circle to use her home for the program.

Let's Light Up Again This Christmas Eve—

AMERICA'S NIGHT OF LIGHT

TWENTY-SIX years ago, as the tramp of mobilizing troops rang on the cobbles below, Sir Edward Grey turned from his window in the British Foreign Office and bowed his head. "The lamps are going out all over Europe; we shall not see them lit again in our lifetime," he said.

Little did he know that his figure of speech would become frighteningly real: that across whole continents men would grope and grovel in blackness; that the powers of darkness would drive mankind so far back toward the cave they would shrink from the light.

Even here, in America, we watch the darkness deepen, until it touches the edges of all our lives. This Christmas, 1940, will find many of our young men far from home. This Christmas Eve, in thousands of family groups, their absence will be felt. No one of us will not be sobered by thoughts of those we know in camp, or on the sea. Christmas will not be the same, this year, without them.

So, this year more than ever before, we Americans should reaffirm our faith in the decency and dignity of man. Everywhere else, the light of liberty has been quenched or dimmed by the darkness of dictatorship. Here is the only window of the world: let us keep this window bright! Again, let us make Christmas Eve America's Night of Light.

* * *

Last year, at this time, I suggested to my fellow-Americans that we light every lamp in America on Christmas Eve as America's answer to the blackout then just beginning abroad. Not in a spirit of boastfulness, but in humble thanksgiving for our freedom—and as a symbol of our determination to keep it.

Mayors and Governors issued proclamations. In great cities, and uncounted towns, there was such a blaze of light as had never been seen before. The people seized upon a suggestion that embodied their thoughts. They lighted their homes and their offices, their factories, their public buildings. Candles and lanterns glowed in the windows of lonely herders' shacks—and huge buildings were lighted in every room. Americans responded—and the Night of Light was born.

This Christmas, we Americans face a world even blacker than last year. A chaos of darkness which challenges our every belief and hope.

This year, again, I am asking our religious, political and civic leaders to cooperate in celebrating this second Night of Light. But proclamations are potent only as they embody the will and spirit of the people . . .

Will you — whether you can light a single candle, or throw the master switch of a whole factory — will you turn on the lights this Christmas Eve?

Will you—if you believe in what they stand for—keep them lit from dusk to midnight? So that others may see what we mean by the American way of life! So that we Americans may re-examine our beliefs! Rededicate ourselves to the traditions which made us—and the tasks which confront us!

PURDUE BEATS WABASH, 67-28; FOUR IN ROW

BIERMAN'S AID MENTIONED FOR SCHMIDT'S POST

Ohio Prep Coach in Running, Too.

Columbus, O., Dec. 17 [Special].—The Francis Schmidt era of razzle dazzle football, which startled Western conference opponents when the big man from the southwest came to Ohio State in 1934, is over. Today, with the resignations of Schmidt and his five assistants accepted, speculation centered on the new régime that will take over the Buckeyes' gridiron fortunes.

In the last six years Brown's Massillon teams have won 60 games, tied one and lost one. The Ohioan, tho admitting he would be interested in an offer to become head coach, said he had not been officially approached. He said, however, that he has discussed the proposition with alumni representatives.

Dr. Hauser to Get Interview.

At his home in Minneapolis tonight Dr. Hauser, one time line coach at Ohio State, parried questions skillfully, but left no doubt that he would listen to an offer. When asked if he had been contacted by Ohio State, Dr. Hauser replied:

"There's nothing I can say about it. The matter still is in the confidential stage." He added an interview will be arranged concerning the post.

Dr. Hauser was a star tackle for Minnesota in 1915-'16-'17. After the world war he returned to Minnesota as assistant to Dr. Henry L. Williams, the Gopher coach, remaining there until 1923. Later he was head coach at Colgate and Iowa State. He left Ohio State after the 1931 season to join Bernie Bierman, the new Minnesota coach.

Mention Shaw, Blaik.

Others on the list of possibilities were Buck Shaw of Santa Clara, Earl Blaik of Dartmouth, Dr. John Bain [Jock] Sutherland of the Brooklyn professional Dodgers, Wesley Fesler of Wesleyan university, Alan Holman of Franklin and Marshall, Dallas Ward, Minnesota freshman coach, Earl Martineau, member of Fritz Crisler's staff at Michigan, Marty Karow, back field coach at Texas A. & M., and Tiny Thornhill, former Stanford coach.

L. W. St. John, athletic director at Ohio State, said tonight the new coach would be selected only after careful consideration. St. John will have the last word on naming the man, altho his choice must be approved by the university athletic board and trustees. Schmidt handed in his resignation last night, explaining that he was "beating the athletic board to the punch."

Seek Younger Man.

St. John said he already has begun his search for a new football coach and from his remarks it was taken that he was looking for a younger man with necessary experience. This brought up the names of Martineau, back field coach at Michigan, and Ward, Gopher freshman coach.

Regarding an article printed in a Cleveland newspaper today that Brown probably would be named head coach, St. John had no comment except that "no successor has been chosen for Mr. Schmidt."

St. John said Schmidt's successor probably would be named in time to take over spring practice and that Schmidt would be permitted to leave at any time he desired, altho the resignations are not effective until June 30, 1941.

Won 39, Lost 16.

During his seven years at Ohio State Schmidt's elevens won 39 games, lost 16, and tied one. The Buckeyes won the conference title in 1939, tied for the championship in 1935, finished second in 1934 and 1937, tied for second in 1936, tied for fifth in 1938, and for fourth this year.

Schmidt's teams seldom lived up to glowing preseason prophecies after his intricate style of play panicked opposition on first sight. Swept out of the football picture with Schmidt were Ernest R. Godfrey, line coach since 1929; Sidney Gillman, end coach; Fritz Mackey, freshman coach; Eddie Blickle, back field coach, and Gomer Jones, center coach. Mackey will be retained as baseball coach and Blickle will remain as assistant in basketball. All of Schmidt's aids except Blickle were former Ohio State athletes.

Propose Red Cross Golf Starring Duke of Windsor

Miami, Fla., Dec. 17 (AP).—The duke of Windsor and officials of the Professional Golfers' association are arranging an exhibition in which they hope to match Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Tommy Armour and the duke for the benefit of the Red Cross. Fred Corcoran, tournament manager for P. G. A., announced that he would fly to Nassau Friday to complete plans. The exhibition would be held in Nassau in March.

Gratitude.

I planted bulbs some weeks ago,
I placed some shells around them there
And hoped that they would bloom and grow.

How rapidly the slender leaves
Developed as the days went by.
Before I hardly realized
I found them several inches high.

At last there bloomed a snowy flower
I'd waited patiently to see,
And soon there were a lot of them—
Miraculous it was to me.

For how prosaic did they look
These bulbs I planted weeks ago—
Until the gentle hand of God
Was laid on them—that they might grow.

And if I'm not too hard to please,
I'd like to have a bike.

But I'm getting the family 'kerchiefs;
Some of them will fret,
But if I'm doing the buying
They'll take just what they get.

I hope they won't treat me that way;
If they do 'twill kill my joy;
They should give me what I want
Because I'm their little boy!

Boston, Mass., Dec. 17 (AP).—The Boston Bruins, paced by Bill Cowley, the National Hockey league's top scorer, whipped the Toronto Maple Leafs, 5 to 2, tonight before 14,000. The triumph snapped the league leading Leafs' string of eight victories. They had suffered only two previous defeats—by the New York Rangers and Chicago Blackhawks.

Cowley collected two goals and an assist to boost his total to 20 points. His first tally opened the scoring and his second broke the Leafs' hearts, for they were trailing, 2 to 1, when he polished off a combination play with Art Jackson and Eddie Wiseman early in the third period.

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—Tommy Anderson picked the right spot to score his first goal of the National Hockey league season tonight and gave the New York Americans a 3 to 2 overtime victory over the second place Detroit Red Wings. While a crowd of less than 5,000 looked on, Anderson fired the puck past Goalie Johnny Mowers at 5:12 of the overtime period and the Americans broke a losing streak that had extended over four defeats and a tie.

TWO BOUTS SURE FOR LOUIS BEFORE HE MEETS CONN

Boston, Mass., Dec. 17 [Special].—Julian Black, comanager of Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, commenting today on the Brown Bomber's plans for 1941, said that only two fights definitely had been arranged and that he doubted Louis would take part in any others before meeting Billy Conn in New York in June.

Black said Louis would meet Red Burman in Madison Square Garden, New York, on Jan. 31, and Gus Dorazio in Philadelphia in February, but denied Joe would meet Tony Nowak in Kansas City in a church benefit show in March.

Two Fights Assured.

"The fights for January and February are settled. But we are not going thru with that Kansas City church benefit fight," said Black. "That fell thru. There is also considerable doubt in my mind that the proposed fights with Arturo Godoy on the west coast and Abe Simon in Detroit will be arranged."

Previous announcements from Kansas City and from Promoter Mike Jacobs in Boston said that Louis would meet Nowak in the church benefit show in Kansas City in March.

Coast Opposes Bout.

The boxing commission of California, headed by Jerry Geisler, has taken a firm stand against the proposed bout with Godoy, tentatively announced by Jacobs for Gillmore stadium, Los Angeles, in June.

Jacobs has denied statements attributed to him which had Louis meeting Simon in Detroit in either March or April.

LAYTON STILL IN COMA FROM STREET ACCIDENT

Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., seven times holder of the world's three-cushion billiards championship, still was in grave condition in Augustana hospital last night as the result of head injuries suffered Sunday night when he was struck by a street car in the 2000 block on North Clark street.

He has been unconscious since the accident and attendants have been unable to make an x-ray examination because of the danger of moving him. He is 51 years old.

Bruins Open Pro League Race Tonight Against Akron Five

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Bruins, who made a right favorable impression in their National Basketball league debut last season, even tho they were shut out of a playoff spot in the last game, tonight will set forth on their 1940-'41 business by meeting the Akron Firestones in the 132d Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets.

The game not only inaugurates the local professional season in these parts, but also brings together the champions of the National league and the runners-up for the world title. The Firestones, you will remember, were defending champions last year, and hung on to their laurels by defeating the Oshkosh All-Stars in the title series. The Bruins, on the other hand, were balked on a shot at the league honors, but went to the final of the world tournament before losing one of those tough ones to the Harlem Globe Trotters.

Collegians Play Too.

The professional battle will begin at approximately 9 o'clock. It will be preceded by a game between two college teams—Illinois Institute of Technology and North Central college of Naperville. They will start at 7:45 p. m.

If you are a real basketball follower, you undoubtedly have been pursuing the fortunes of Loyola and De Paul universities, among others, in these last few years. Tonight you can see so many former foes among the Ramblers and Blue Demons wearing the same uniforms and shooting at the same basket that you will wonder if the boys organized a combine after their graduations.

But before we go into that, it might be well to state that there are a couple of Bruins who didn't go to school in Chicago. One is Bill Hapac, the former Cicero High school star who last year made the University of Illinois quintet one of the most respected in the Western conference. William not only led all scorers with a total of 164 points, but also established two individual records for a single game—a point aggregate of 34 against Minnesota and a field goal total of 13 against the same team.

Elmer Johnson's Back.

And in addition there is Elmer Johnson, the leggy blond from Northwestern who last season proved that while he may have started out as tho he couldn't stand the swift pace, turned out to be one of the most tireless gents in the league.

Now for the Loyola-De Paul reunion. The starters in addition to Forward Hapac will be Ray Adams, another ex-Blue Demon; Center Mike Novak, whose 6 feet 9 inches of offensive and defensive talent helped Loyola no end for three years, and Guards Wibs Kautz and Stan Szukala.

Kautz stands out as one of the greatest scorers in Loyola history, and Szukala last year led De Paul to one of the best season records in its annals. Stan, like Hapac, is making his debut in the pro department this evening, and if his recent performance in winning the overtime battle for the College All-Stars against the Globe Trotters is any indication, he is still the same handy man he was with De Paul. Adams, an all-league forward two years ago with Oshkosh, coaches De La Salle High school here. Ray wanted to play with the Bruins last season, but Oshkosh, which still owned him, wouldn't permit him to do so.

Bruins Have Power.

Thus, the Bruins have one of the ablest potential scoring teams in the league. There is no doubt about the shooting ability of men like Hapac, Kautz, and Novak. Adams is rarin' to get back to his best professional form, and Szukala was one of the best pinch scorers in college basketball.

In reserve will be such former Loyola parties as George Hogan, Vince McGowan, and Bill O'Brien, while the team will be coached by Frank Linskey, who shone for the Bruins after a great career at De Paul.

The Firestones aver they're even a touch better than they were in winning the last two league championships. There is, for one, Johnny Moir, one of Notre Dame's all time greats. With him is Tommy Wukovits, an old teammate of Moir on the Irish five, who will pair at guard with Jack Ozburn, late of Monmouth and one of the most versatile men in the league. At center will be Gerry Bush, and Moir's forward partner will be Bob Hassmiller, an ex-Fordham captain.

The Bruins, who have been a trifle late in starting their league schedule will soon catch up, for they play four games in the next eight days. After tonight's fight with the Firestones, the Chicagoans meet Sheboygan on the latter's floor tomorrow night; Hammond in the Hammond Center Sunday afternoon, and Hammond again on the armory floor on Christmas night.

DePauw Beats Franklin in Closing Seconds, 31-29

Greencastle, Ind., Dec. 17 [Special].—DePauw university defeated Franklin college, 31 to 29, tonight. The victory left DePauw undefeated. DePauw led, 20 to 15, at the end of the half, but trailed Franklin late in the second period. Frank Roberts broke loose for the winning field goal in the last 30 seconds of play.

BOILERMAKERS USE 19 PLAYERS AND 13 SCORE

Early Rush Turns Game Into Rout.

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 17.—The Purdue basketball team scored its fourth victory of the season by overwhelming Wabash, 67 to 28, here tonight.

Despite wholesale substitutions, the Boilermakers scored almost at will. Forrest Sprowl, leading scorer in the first three games, was out because of a tonsil operation.

The Boilermakers were rare marksmen in the first half as they piled up a 38 to 13 lead. Paced by Don Blanken, ambidextrous flip shot maker, Purdue hit well over 40 per cent of its field goal attempts in the first 20 minutes of play, scoring 17 out of 40 tosses. Blanken was responsible for six field goals and one free throw for 13 points in the 15 minutes in which he appeared.

Wabash called for four time outs in the first 13 minutes of play in an effort to stem the tide. Purdue used a total of 19 players against the invaders, and 13 of the Boilermakers scored one or more field goals.

SIGNOR DIMAGGIO SLIPS A BIT, BUT STILL LEADS A. L.

Joe and His Bat Beat Luke Appling by 4 Points.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Joe Di Maggio slipped a bit last season, as did all the other Yankees, but the American league's premier outfielder didn't skid so far that he wasn't able to salvage a bit of individual glory for himself. Joe began to travel in September, which was about the time the Yanks quit making good on their fifth pennant in a row prediction and his belated start carried him to the circuit's batting championship with .352, a decline of 29 points from his 1939 title average.

Appling Trails by Four Points.

Di Maggio's sprint finish proved a disappointment for both Luke Appling of the White Sox and Rip Radcliff of the Browns. For the better portion of the race this pair debated the batting title between themselves. But the official figures, released yesterday, show that Appling came home four points behind the winner, that Ted Williams of Boston crowded into third with .344 and that Radcliff landed fourth with .342.

Hank Greenberg, the Tigers' walloper, played a .340 tune on pitched balls during the season, his choicest notes being of the home run variety. He hit 41 out of the various parks, making him tops in this respect. Second in homers was Jim Foxx, the Boston vet, with 36. Foxx now has hit 30 or more homers for 12 consecutive big league seasons, giving him a life time total of 500, a mark exceeded only by Babe Ruth.

Big Year for Home Runs.

The league as a whole furnished a very large portion of home run amusement. There were 883 round trip blows, 19 more than in 1938, the previous high. The fact that the home run art isn't a rare quality in a major league is evidenced by the fact that 16 athletes helped themselves to 20 or more non-stop trips. The 30 mark was reached by Greenberg, Foxx, Di Maggio, Rudy York of the Tigers, Bob Johnson of the Athletics, and Joe Gordon of the Yankees.

The pennant winning Tigers set a record by belting one or more homers per game over a 17 game stretch from Sept. 4 thru Sept. 19. They totaled 26 for that period. The Tigers set another mark which, however, merely proved it was an easy flag to capture. Their championship percentage was .584, the lowest in American league history. The previous low of .588 also was a Tiger achievement. They won a pennant on that figure in 1908.

JENKINS, ZIVIC NEAR PEAK FOR FRIDAY'S FIGHT

New York, Dec. 17 [Special].—Lew Jenkins, recognized in New York as lightweight champion, and Fritzie Zivic, welterweight titleholder, today approached the end of training for their nonchampionship bout Friday night in Madison Square Garden. Jenkins sparred five rounds in Stillman's gymnasium, and weighed 136 pounds when the drill ended. Zivic boxed eight rounds against three mates in the Pioneer gymnasium and was at 146 pounds.

Oak Park Five Loses, 40 to 28, to Waukegan

Waukegan High school's heavyweight basketball team yesterday took undisputed possession of first place in the Suburban league by defeating Oak Park, 40 to 28, in Oak Park's gymnasium. It was Waukegan's fourth consecutive victory and Oak Park's first defeat in league competition.

Leading Waukegan's attack were Pasievicz, forward, who scored seven field goals and Tennyson, also a forward, who contributed four baskets and two free throws. Oak Park's high scorer was Lofgron, forward, with four field goals.

Morton's heavies scored their first triumph in the league, defeating Proviso, 36 to 32. It was Proviso's second setback in three games. Leitner, center, collected six field goals and one free throw to lead Morton to Victory.

Highland Park's freshman-sophomore team remained in first place in that division by handing Evanston a 24 to 15 defeat. However, Evanston's heavies won from Highland Park, 33 to 16, to tie Oak Park for second place.

BILL FREEWALT CATHOLIC LEAGUE MOST VALUABLE

William Freewalt, De Paul academy half back, yesterday was named as the most valuable player in the Chicago Catholic High school league and will receive the Noble E. Kizer Memorial trophy given by the Purdue Club of Chicago. Freewalt, who was one of 14 candidates chosen by their teammates, was picked from the list by officials of the league and representatives of the Purdue club.

The Rev. P. J. Conaty of Fenwick, president of the Catholic league, said the trophy would be presented to Freewalt between halves of a De Paul basketball game, probably next month. Freewalt, a senior, led De Paul to six consecutive victories in the north section, but the Demons lost to Leo, 7 to 6, in the finals for the league championship.

Wildcats Meet Towers Club in New Pool

Northwestern university's new swimming pool in Patten gymnasium will be opened for its first competitive event tonight when the Wildcat swimmers meet the Chicago Towers club in a return event. The Chicago team, led by Adolph Kiefer, world's backstroke champion, defeated the Purple last week.

The swimming meet is but one of a number of attractions Coach Tom Robinson has arranged for the inaugural event. Northwestern's conference championship water polo team will open its season against the Shawnee Country club and the Wildcats freshman team will perform in a number of intrasquad events. In addition to Kiefer, the Towers club will present Otto Jaretz, national A. A. U. champion in the 100 yard dash; Ed Kirar, former national intercollegiate sprint champion from Michigan, and Miller Anderson, Central A. A. U. diving champion.

Detroit Decides Against Playing Night Home Games

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 17 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers will not play night baseball at home in 1941, it was announced today.

FIVE HAWKS GET SOLO LESSONS; SIX ARE ABSENT

Cully Dahlstrom, Mush March, Red MacKay, Joe Cooper, Art Wiebe, and Earl Seibert were absentees in the Chicago Arena yesterday when Manager Paul Thompson, assisted by Johnny Gottselig, put into effect his announced plan of giving individual instructions to the younger members of the Blackhawk squad in passing and shooting.

The knee injuries of Dahlstrom and MacKay are of such a nature that MacKay will not be available for hockey duty until next Sunday against the champion Rangers and the club's physicians would not hazard an opinion as to when Dahlstrom would be ready to play.

Dick Irvin's Canadiens, who will oppose the Blackhawks tomorrow, have won four games since they tied the Hawks, 4 to 4, on the occasion of their first 1940-'41 visit to Chicago, Nov. 17. In games won they are only one game behind the Hawks.

Doug and Max Bentley, Johnny Chad, Bobby Carse, and Phil Hergesheimer were the players who received private tutoring from Manager Thompson and Johnny Gottselig yesterday. The same two instructors will take them in hand every practice day until the Hawks leave for the east after Sunday's game against the Rangers. The trip will take them to New York, Montreal, and Detroit for games against the Rangers, Canadiens and Red Wings.

ZALE SIGNS FOR NON-TITLE FIGHT AGAINST MARTIN

Middleweights Meet in Milwaukee Jan. 1.

Tony Zale, middleweight champion, yesterday was signed to meet Tony [Cianciola] Martin in a 10 round non-title bout in Milwaukee New Year's afternoon, when the Wisconsin boxing commission agreed to let the boxers come in at catch weights.

The contracted weight is 162 pounds, and that will be the figure released to the public. Sam Pian, one of Zale's managers, demanded that concession in order to protect Tony's title in case of a victory for Martin. Thus, the Milwaukee challenger will not be handicapped with the necessity of carrying more than his natural 155 pounds and still will not jeopardize Zale's championship. However, Martin can claim the crown if he wins.

Such an eventuality would harm the drawing potentialities of a 10 round overweight contest between Zale and Steve Mamakos of Washington, D. C., in Chicago Stadium Jan. 10.

Bill Rand, who previously had signed the Mamakos-Zale match, is disturbed no little over this state of affairs, but he is powerless to interfere.

The Swedish and Irish Angels will meet in a one hour bout heading a heavyweight wrestling program in Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, tonight. Other matches will bring together Al Williams and Dizzy Davis, Gene Bowman and Rudy Kay, Bill Canny and Pete Baltran, and Kid Chapman and Jack Moore. . . . Nate Bolden, 1937 inter-city Golden Gloves middleweight winner, and George Brunette of Detroit will meet in a 10 round headliner in Marigold Gardens Monday.

EAST FOOTBALL SQUAD OF 22 TO ASSEMBLE TODAY

Twenty-two college football players from the east, midwest and south will assemble at Northwestern university today for their first workout as members of the East's All-Star team which will meet the West in the annual Shrine benefit game for crippled children at San Francisco New Year's day.

The collegians will meet for the first time at the Georgian hotel in Evanston for lunch where they will be greeted by Coaches Bernie Bierman of Minnesota and Andy Kerr of Colgate, co-coaches of the squad. After luncheon the players will go to Dyche stadium where they will be issued equipment for a short workout. The squad will depart for the west tonight.

Fifteen schools, including five from the Big Ten, have representatives on the team. Milt Piepul, Notre Dame's lone representative, was forced to forgo plans for the trip and was replaced by James Murphy, Iowa full back. Piepul was unable to get permission to leave school before Thursday noon, when classes are discontinued for the holiday vacation.

Northwestern Quintet Faces Butler Tonight

Northwestern university's basketball team will play Butler at Indianapolis tonight with a lineup considerably changed from the one which had trouble beating Wabash, 35 to 32, in the opener 10 days ago.

Two sophomores, Art Seder, forward, and Russ Wendland, guard, who played prominent rôles in the rally which overcame Wabash's early lead, have been elevated to the starting lineup. Another addition to the first string combination is Johnny Welsh, junior forward, who was also a factor in the rally against the Little Giants. Only lettermen to retain their regular berths are Capt. Al Butherus, guard, and Don Clawson, rangy center.

Coach Dutch Lonborg is striving to whip together a combination which can match Butler's driving attack which beat Ohio State, 51 to 49, and lost a close decision to Indiana, 39 to 36.

PITT LAUNCHES INVASION.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 17 [Special].—Wisconsin's undefeated basketball team, conqueror of Ripon college, Marquette and Notre Dame, will be seeking its fourth victory of the season when it meets Pittsburgh in the field house tomorrow night.

Coach Harold E. [Bud] Foster of the Badgers plans no changes in his starting lineup, which means that Sophomore Johnny Kotz, who played the entire game against Notre Dame, will start at forward with Charles Epperson, a junior. Kotz, a great offensive star during his high school days in Rhinelander, has accumulated 27 points this season to run second to the Badgers' veteran center, Gene Englund, who leads in individual scoring with 32 points. Against Notre Dame, Kotz led both teams in scoring and stood out defensively.

First Game for Pitt.

Little is known as to the strength of the Panthers, since this is their first game of the season. Probable lineups:

WISCONSIN.		PITTSBURGH.
Epperson	F	Straloski
Kotz	F	Kocheran
Englund	C	Port
Alwin	G	Klein
Strain	G	Milanovich

REPORT FEDERAL ACTION IN RADIO MUSIC CONFLICT

Consent Decree Expected in Monopoly Case.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 17.—Government intervention in the musical monopoly war between the radio broadcasters and the leading song writers of the country was revealed by reliable sources here today.

A consent decree in the government's six-year-old antitrust suit against the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers, the organization of song writers known in the trade as ASCAP, is expected to be signed in Washington this week.

ASCAP's terms with the government may provide a basis for settlement of the society's controversy with radio networks and individual stations over the size of fees to be paid for the right to play its copyrighted compositions, according to leading figures on both sides.

Radio Plans Ban on Pool.

Unless peace is declared by the first of the year, radio will ban the use of all ASCAP music on all programs rather than meet the song writers demands. The society controls 1,270,000 musical compositions and arrangements.

During the last year the radio industry has been building a reservoir of selections thru its agency, Broadcast Music, Inc., or BMI. Thru buying up catalogs of other music publishers, arrangements with foreign performing rights groups, and its own original compositions BMI will have 200,000 compositions on hand for radio at the first of the year.

Five Year Contract Expires.

On New Year's eve a five year contract between ASCAP and the individual stations expires. Under this agreement the stations paid 5 per cent of their gross receipts to the society for the right to dip into the ASCAP pool and use any composition they chose.

ASCAP's new contract arrangement would set up a sliding scale, with stations paying according to their size, and small outlets starting at 3½ per cent.

Persons close to the negotiations in Washington, which ASCAP spokesmen admitted were underway, said a settlement of the government's antitrust action would probably rest on an agreement of the society to charge its fees henceforth on a per use basis.

RADIO SYSTEMS URGED ON GREAT LAKES VESSELS

A report recommending that ships navigating the Great Lakes and inland waterways of the United States be required to install and maintain radio communication systems was submitted to congress yesterday by the Federal Communications commission in Washington, D. C.

The recommendation was incorporated in a special study made at the direction of congress in connection with legislation passed in 1937 which prescribes requirements for radio equipment and operation on American ships leaving ports bound for the open sea.

The commission recommended that radio equipment be made mandatory on all cargo vessels over 1,600 gross tons and all passenger vessels except those of less than 100 gross tons carrying more than 12 passengers. It recommended that no legislation be enacted until a treaty has been negotiated with Canada providing that ships of both nations be placed on a basis of equality and receive assistance from ships of each other as on the high seas. The state department was requested to make necessary arrangements with the Canadian government.

20,000 TICKETS SOLD FOR NIGHT OF STARS SHOW

The last of the 20,000 tickets were sold yesterday for the eighth annual Night of Stars tonight in the Chicago Stadium. As final preparations were made for the show, which features stars of stage, screen, and radio, A. A. Sprague, treasurer of Chicago's Own Christmas Fund, announced that more than $350,000 had been raised for the fund. The money will be used to buy clothing for Chicago's needy children.

Because of the scope of the Night of Stars program, the curtain will go up promptly at 8:15 p. m.

The cast of "Du Barry Was a Lady," here for an opening this week-end, was added to the program yesterday. Bert Lahr, star of the show, other featured performers, and the chorus will appear. Errol Flynn, screen star, will fly from Hollywood for an appearance. Another added attraction is an original skit by Kitty Carlisle, screen star, and Ruth Chatterton, star of "Pygmalion." Casts of other musical comedies, Chicago name bands, and night club and radio shows also will be presented.

More Than Ever
To gain back strength and help overcome weakness, paleness, lack of energy, you must have enough of these vital minerals—iron and manganese. So try Gude's PEPTO-MANGAN, favorite tonic for convalescents. Pepto-Mangan is so different from bitter, upsetting iron remedies your stomach rebels at. The flavor that has made it so famous is achieved by an exclusive mellowing process that gives you IRON IN ITS MOST DIGESTIBLE FORM—palatable, and easy to take even for the most delicate stomach. Pepto-Mangan stimulates the appetite, helps enrich your blood and build up your strength so you look better, feel better, get better. Ideal for children. Your druggist has it. Tasty liquid or handy tablets.

MACHINE JOBS IN CHICAGO SET PEAK SINCE 1929

Defense Work Sends Pay Rolls Higher.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Chicago's machinery industries especially show the part played by the national defense program and England's demand for wartime materials in raising industrial employment to its present high level. In these industries, jobs and pay rolls are at the highest aggregate mark since the beginning of the 1929 depression. They do not include the iron and steel mills, which are running virtually at the peak of their capacity.

About 820 machinery establishments are estimated to be in the Chicago area. They are highly diversified. Many are readily turned into the manufacture of defense materials. Chicago's large machinery shops, business experts observe, are, in the main, not one product plants, as, for example the vast plants in automotive Detroit, but are quickly adaptable.

Labor Supply Ample.

As to skilled workers there is no labor shortage. Some 11,000 skilled workers are reported still on the unemployment lists in Chicago alone.

This adaptability, labor supply and comparative freedom from strikes, are cited by the Illinois Manufacturers' association and the Chicago Association of Commerce among points to be pressed in seeking primary and secondary defense contracts and new defense industries for the Chicago region.

At present the machinery industries, including tool making, are estimated to employ 86,000 wage earners in the Chicago area, which embraces Cook, Du Page, Kane, Lake, and Will counties in Illinois, and Lake county, Indiana. In 1937 they employed 80,721. This was the year of the little boom. Pay rolls are estimated at $11,000,000 for December, far above the $9,600,000 a month average for 1937.

	Workers.	Pay rolls.
*1929	101,430	$14,400,000
*1937	80,721	9,600,000
*1938	59,000	6,200,000
*1939	64,100	7,400,000
June, 1940	71,200	8,800,000
Sept., 1940	77,000	9,900,000
†Dec., 1940	86,000	11,000,000

Can't Guess at Division.

How much of the output of the mills is going into defense work and war materials for Great Britain thru secondary contracts and orders for parts can hardly even be guessed. A steel mill man says he has been selling steel to one concern which makes drums, pails, cans, and barrels and that now the same concern is making bombs for aerial target practice.

A canvass of some plants indicates the diversity of materials being supplied from Chicago, and the ease with which plants have gone into new production. The Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company has ordnance department contracts for $7,000,000 of artillery materials. The company also has an order for medium weight tanks for the British government at its Hammond, Ind., plant.

Stewart-Warner corporation has a total of $7,000,000 in direct government orders, most of which call for the production of ammunition components. It also has indirect contracts totaling $320,000 with automobile companies which are turning out airplane engines.

Produces Special Gauges.

Stewart-Warner is turning out special gauges for companies that are manufacturing engines for "mosquito boats" for defense and is supplying automotive instruments to truck makers. The corporation employed an average of 3,738 factory workers at its main Chicago plant during the first 11 months of 1940, compared with 3,198 in 1939. Total pay rolls for factory workers were 14 per cent higher so far this year than last. In all, the corporation and its subsidiaries have about 7,000 employés.

The Borg-Warner corporation has in excess of $15,000,000 in defense orders, divided about 60 per cent in direct contracts and 40 per cent in subcontracts. Some of its subsidiaries are not in the Chicago area. The largest of the corporation's direct orders amounts to $7,614,000 ammunition components. Work on this order is not to begin until perhaps April 1. It will be filled by the corporation's Ingersoll steel and disc division in West Pullman. This division is also making wheel discs for army trucks on subconstracts of about $250,000.

Other Plants Have Orders.

Among other Chicagoland divisions of Borg-Warner, a Chicago Heights plant is supplying $300,000 of steel tubing for army cots, and a Rockford plant is making army tank clutches on suborders totaling $1,000,000. Much of this subcontract work has not progressed enough into actual pro-

Move to Speed Machine Tools in Defense Use

Action to speed up machine tool production was taken by the government yesterday. Manufacturers meanwhile were advised not to let previous agreements with the government interfere with their acceptance of new defense orders not covered by the agreements.

Immediate expansion of production facilities of three machine tool companies was authorized by the war department. "Letters of intent" were issued authorizing Giddings & Lewis Machine Tool company of Fond du Lac, Wis.; Bullard Machine company, Bridgeport, Conn., and Bryant Chucking Grinder company, Springfield, Vt., to proceed with the expansions.

Will Finance Projects.

"Under terms of the letters of intent the three companies will finance the expansions themselves and be repaid by the government over a five year period," the department said. "In the interim they will rent these added facilities from the government for manufacture of machine tools required by all phases of the armament program.

"Similar letters of intent will be sent to other companies to be announced later." Details of these expansions will be announced after the contracts are completed, the department said.

A statement advising all manufacturers to go ahead with current defense orders, even if the orders were not included in previous agreements, was issued by Donald M. Nelson, coordinator of defense purchases. He said some manufacturers were hesitant about proceeding with current orders not covered by their industrial mobilization schedules.

The navy awarded two contracts totaling $36,250,455 for airplanes and spare parts to the Grumann Aircraft Engineering corporation, Bethpage, Long Island, N. Y.

The Canadian department of munitions and supply announced award of a $3,000,000 contract to the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Windsor, Ont., for an unspecified number of military vehicles.

NOVEMBER LEVEL HIGH

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—The bureau of agricultural economics reported today that industrial production in November reached a new peak of 131 per cent of the 1935-'39 average and that it might reach 135 per cent in December.

Consumer incomes were said to be increasing along with the improvement in industrial activity, resulting in an expanded demand for farm products.

"Tangible evidence of the growing effect of the defense program on current industrial activity," the bureau said, "is the rapid rise in defense spending, which in November totaled $376,000,000, compared with $287,000,000 in October and $153,000,000 in June."

POWER OF NLRB CHALLENGED BY HEINZ COUNSEL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—Counsel for the H. J. Heinz company of Pittsburgh, Pa., told the Supreme court today that the labor board lacked authority to require an employer to sign a contract with a union.

The board contended that "refusal to embody any agreed terms in a signed agreement constituted a refusal to bargain" in violation of the Wagner act.

Earl F. Reed, counsel for the company, opening arguments in a test case appealed from the 6th federal Circuit court, termed the board's order extravagant and said an agreement was reached with the local union of canning and pickle workers, an A. F. of L. affiliate, which is still functioning.

"The board," he said, "has arrogated to itself the power to question the employer's good faith because the board does not like the form and shape of the final contract or the manner in which it was reached."

AMEND WABASH RAIL PLAN; CUT CAPITAL IN HALF

Receivers Propose Deep Slashes.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 [Special].—Receivers for the Wabash railway today filed an amended plan of reorganization with the Interstate Commerce commission which would reduce annual capital charges, including preferred dividends on new stocks, to $7,197,580 from the present $10,974,172.

The plan, dated as of Jan. 1, 1941, provides for issuance of the following new securities: $47,513,825 of 30 year first 4s; $17,823,907 of 40 year income A 4s; $21,710,059 of 50 year income B 4½s; $4,491,411 of serial collateral 1½ per cent notes; $40,002,299 or 4½ per cent preferred stock, $100 par, and $492,624 shares of new no-par common stock.

Capitalization Cut in Half.

The plan, which bears the conditional approval of most interested parties except the Pennsylvania railroad and the Reconstruction Finance corporation, provides a reduction in the road's total capitalization to $160,597,835 from $325,269,911.

The plan sets up the basis for the distribution of new securities in exchange for various existing securities.

Holders of the present preferred stock would be entitled to purchase new common stock at the rate of seven shares for each 10 of preferred stock held.

Holders of the present common would be entitled to purchase in proportion to their holdings any new common stock not taken by the preferred stock holders at the same price.

Pennsy Holdings Are Large.

The Pennsylvania railroad owns 44.96 per cent of the outstanding Wabash preferred, and 54.19 per cent of the common.

Counsel for the RFC, which holds notes and equipment trust certificates of the Wabash, opposed the plan, declaring the revised proposal contained "obvious absurdities," particularly in its allocation of new securities.

Counsel for institutional holders of refunding and general mortgage bonds said the proposal was acceptable "in principle" provided other interests, including the Pennsylvania, agreed.

ERIE PLAN APPROVED

Cleveland, O., Dec. 17 (AP).—Federal Judge Robert N. Wilkin approved today the Interstate Commerce commission's plan for reorganization of the Erie railroad, halving fixed charges and giving the Chesapeake and Ohio railway only 8 per cent voting control of the road in contrast to the majority control it held before the road went into trusteeship in January, 1938.

Judge Wilkin, upholding a report by Special Master William L. West, found that the reorganization plan "complies with the law and is fair and equitable."

C. & O., which paid $44,000,000 for its Erie stock, will hold 10 per cent of the new common. This stock as a whole will have 80 per cent of the Erie's voting power. However, the plan provides that C. & O. may name 3 directors to the Erie board of 15.

SOY BEANS LEAD GENERAL UPTURN IN GRAIN PRICES

Grain markets turned upward yesterday on a broad wave of short covering influenced, brokers said, by the fact that prices had been declining for about a week. Soy beans led the upturn with net gains of 2¾ to 3¼ cents a bushel.

Wheat futures closed at gains of ½ to ⅝ cent and corn was ¾ to ⅞ cent higher. After the close it was announced that 15,000 bushels of cash corn had been tendered on December contracts, the first this month.

December oats advanced a maximum of ⅞ cent to 39¾ cents, a new seasonal high, in the face of a report that 100,000 bushels of Canadian oats had been sold for shipment to Buffalo. Oats closed ⅜ to ⅝ cent higher. Rye gained ¼ cent net.

REVERE MAKES OFFER OF $10,000 FOR IDEAS TO SPEED UP DEFENSE

An award of $10,000, to be paid to workers in the metal industry for the best suggestions on how to speed up the industrial defense program, was announced in New York yesterday by Revere Copper and Brass, Inc.

C. Donald Dallas.

C. Donald Dallas, president of the company, said that while the machine tool industry is now being urged to attain greater speed, it would not be long until all industry would hear similar appeals. He expressed confidence that the workers themselves would find the answers to pleas like that made by William Knudsen, defense production commissioner, for more speed.

Circulars outlining the rules of the contest are to be issued soon. The first prize will be $5,000, and the remaining $5,000 is to be divided into a number of prizes. Dallas said several large corporations had agreed to coöperate in informing their workers about the contest.

EXTEND LOWER RATE ON GRAIN BUILDING BONDS

Extension for at least another year of a reduction in the interest rate on the Chicago Board of Trade's first mortgage bond indebtedness has been arranged, the exchange announced yesterday. It disclosed also that the annual amortization payment of $200,000 has been deferred.

Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company of Milwaukee, Wis., holder of about $8,500,000 of first mortgage bonds of Chicago Board of Trade Safe Deposit company, owner of the building occupied by the exchange, agreed to the extension, according to the announcement.

Northwestern Mutual, as well as holders of $1,400,000 of the safe deposit company's second mortgage bonds, agreed last May to a reduction in interest to 3 per cent for 1940.

The first mortgage rate had been 4 per cent and the second mortgage rate 5 per cent.

The total of all foreign gold deposited under earmark in the federal reserve banks, mostly believed to be British, increased $5,002,087 during the week to $1,831,345,726.

SEVERAL FIRMS VOTE BONUSES TO THEIR EMPLOYES

Payment of a "service dividend" equal to one week's salary to employés of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co. was announced by C. J. Whipple, president. He said additional payments will be made after the close of the fiscal year.

Bond Clothes, Inc., will divide "a more than $400,000" Christmas bonus with its 7,706 employés in two factories here and in New Brunswick, N. J., and in 60 Bond retail stores.

W. T. Grant company, operator of department stores, announced that more than 14,000 full time and part time employés will participate in bonuses, the maximum $30.

Blackett Sample Hummert, Inc., advertising agency, will give a bonus of one week's salary to employés who have been with the company for two years or more. The National Boulevard Bank of Chicago announced a bonus of a week's salary to all of its employés. Fox Secretarial college reported profit-sharing payments totaling $5,000.

Lord & Thomas will pay all employés earning less than $5,000 a year a bonus of half a month's salary.

VOTE INDUSTRIAL NATIONAL BANK CAPITAL CHANGE

Officials of the Industrial National bank yesterday announced that stockholders had approved changes in the bank's capitalization. Its $2,000,000 capital is to be divided into $1,000,000 of common stock of $20 par value, and $1,000,000 of preferred stock with a par of $100 and an annual dividend rate of $4.50.

Each shareholder will receive his prorated shares of common and preferred stock in exchange for old shares of common stock.

Officials said the change was made to provide a more "flexible" capital structure in respect to the disposition of earnings. The plan will enable the bank to return to the stockholders "in an orderly manner the excess capital now used in the business," they said. The Industrial National, formerly a state bank under the name of the Personal Loan and Savings bank, obtained its national charter on Nov. 30.

MOVE TO STABILIZE PAY AND LIVING COSTS IS BEGUN BY CANADA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 17.—The Canadian government today moved to stablize wages and anchor them to the cost of living so they will move with price rises. Labor and capital supported the move.

Employés are to be assured wages equal to the average of 1926-'29 boom levels or to have present rates continued, which ever is highest. When the cost of living rises as much as 5 per cent a similar increase in wages may be provided. Bonuses are to be adjusted quarterly, if necessary. Deductions may be made if the cost of living falls.

The government estimated living costs have advanced 6.2 per cent since August, 1939, the basic period under the new order. It also is estimated that wages in war industry have advanced 10 per cent. Living costs are 12.6 per cent below the 1929 figure.

BANK DECLARES FIRST DIVIDEND, BOOSTS SURPLUS

Directors of the South East National bank, 1180 East 63d street, voted an initial dividend of $2 and increased surplus to $250,000 with the transfer of $50,000 from undivided profits, C. A. Beutel, president, announced yesterday.

C. A. Beutel.

Deposits have passed $10,000,000 for the first time since the bank's organization in the spring of 1935, he said. Total resources exceed those of former banks serving the community before the 1933 banking difficulties.

Closed Chicago State Bank Repays Depositors 13 Pct.

A 13 per cent repayment amounting to $26,145 to depositors of the closed Industrial State bank, Chicago, was authorized yesterday by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. The payment, the fifth and final one, raised total repayments to 58 per cent.

ILLINOIS RETAIL SALES IN 1939 32% ABOVE 1935

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—Retail sales in Illinois totaled $2,846,940,000 in 1939, an increase of 32 per cent over the $2,152,432,000 recorded in the previous census of 1935, William L. Austin, director of the census, announced today. It was a preliminary report on tentative state totals pending completion of the final detailed report by counties and cities.

The amount was 22 per cent less than the volume of $3,658,560,000 reached in 1929, when the general level of consumer goods prices was substantially higher.

The number of stores increased during the 10 year period by 17 per cent, from 93,432 in 1929 and 95,033 in 1935 to 109,129 in 1939. Population increased 3.5 per cent, as previously announced.

Chicago Gains on 1935.

Chicago retail sales totaled $1,507,321,000, an increase of 25 per cent since 1935, but 28 per cent below the level reached in 1929. The city accounted for 53 per cent of the state total in 1939, compared with 57 per cent in 1929. Chicago's stores numbered 47,826, or 10 per cent above 1935 and 12 per cent above 1929. Population was placed at 3,384,556, or 0.2 per cent above 1929.

This report is preliminary to the state series of retail reports which will present basic facts as to stores, sales, proprietors, employés, pay rolls, and inventories of retailers by kinds of business, for counties and incorporated places of more than 2,500 population. There will be separate tables for cities of more than 10,000 population.

Gives Comparative Figures.

SKEPTICS RETAIN CONTROL; STOCK AVERAGE FALLS

Arms Log Jam Considered Factor in Selling.

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—Skeptics remained in control of the stock market today and composite prices declined for the third successive session. Altho there was little real weakness in any part of the list, leaders tilted slightly downward from the start and small fractional recessions were in the majority at the close. At the same time, there were a number of resistant issues and a wide assortment of stocks that held to Monday's final marks.

A moderate pickup in volume was accounted for mainly by sizeable blocks of low priced stocks. These apparently were sold for the purpose of establishing year end tax losses.

Restraining potential buyers, brokers said, was the desire to await the administration's next move to break the rearmament log jam, announcement of the British that no more commitments for war materials could be made in the United States unless financial aid were forthcoming, warning of Lord Beaverbrook the Nazis were preparing for invasion of England by spring, and the persistence of gloomy thoughts anent next year's domestic tax bill.

Chicago Stocks.

New York Bonds.

New York, Dec. 17 (AP).—Bonds slipped fairly sharply today after 10 days or more of steady advances. Traders were in a mood to reduce commitments in speculative loans, which had been leaders of the upturn, because of uncertainty over new elements recently injected into the troubled world situation.

Losses in some of the more active corporates ran from fractions to a point or more. International Telephone 5s pushed up another 2⅝ points to 34⅝ on a large turnover. The company's securities had been strong recently on reports of plans for disposal of some properties abroad.

United States government loans felt the reactionary pull and most treasuries ended with losses ranging from 1-32d to 7-32ds.

Bank Stocks.

Northern Trust shares, selling ex dividend, declined 5 points yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. Harris Trust, also ex dividend, dipped 2 points, First National declined a point and Continental Illinois eased half a point. City National advanced 2 points.

JUNIOR BUSINESS MEN CASH IN ON CHRISTMAS BOOM

Achievement Groups Map Program for 1941.

Chicago's Junior Achievement companies, the miniature enterprises managed by young men and women between the ages of 16 and 21, are experiencing their first Christmas boom.

A. R. Snyder.

The upturn was reported yesterday by officials of Junior Achievement of Chicago, Inc., an organization created last spring by civic leaders. The local organization was formed as part of a national movement to teach young people the principles of business by letting them run their own firms.

A. R. Snyder, assistant to the president of Junior Achievement, said the Christmas rush almost caught most of the junior executives off guard. He said several of the firms, however, were quick to change their line of products to share in the trade.

1941 Plans Formed.

The various junior executives told of the success of their Christmas sales programs at an intercompany meeting and began mapping plans for next year's yuletide trade.

Tho "Business Misses," 12 girls who have established a secretarial office service at 1606 Larrabee street, reported they have been busy in their spare time addressing Christmas cards for housewives.

Executives of the Southtown Junior Achievement company, with offices at 6935 Emerald avenue, announced a $95.06 backlog of orders, with most of the orders scheduled for delivery next week. This company specializes in light weight furniture such as magazine racks, end tables, and book ends.

Specialty Business Boosted.

The Junior Achievement Specialty company, with headquarters at 7303 Halsted street, manufactures sign posts and metallic reflecting figures and letters. Sales of reflector address number panels have boosted the company's business.

Suburban Christmas shoppers are being supplied with special plastics products by the Villa Park Wood and Plastic company, a junior achievement firm that specializes in such articles as ash trays, pipe and cigaret holders, and other plastic products. A special Christmas item, on which the 17 boys of this company are working overtime, is a plastic holder for decks of cards. These junior executives report more orders than they can handle.

Junior Achievement at present has nine chartered firms, with three more companies ready to receive charters in January.

JOINT ACCOUNT.

My wife and I are both employed and we are planning to start a joint bank account which either one of us could use easily without having to consult the other. I would therefore appreciate information on the difference between an account held in joint tenancy and one held in common.—T. D.

Answer: Most commercial banks permit two persons, whether related or not, to open a savings or checking account either as tenants in common or as joint tenants.

Under a tenancy in common either person may make deposits and may indorse checks, drafts, and notes for deposit without obtaining the other's signature, but both must act jointly in withdrawing funds. If one of the persons dies the amount credited to the account is divided equally between the surviving person and the estate of the deceased. The survivor may withdraw his share upon furnishing proof of the death of the other person and upon complying with other regulations set by the bank. The share belonging to the estate of the deceased person may be withdrawn by submitting to the bank a certificate from the Probate court and a waiver from the state inheritance tax department.

In joint tenancy either person may deposit funds, indorse checks and drafts for deposit, and may withdraw all or a part of the funds in the account without obtaining the consent of the other person. If one of them should die the survivor could withdraw the balance in the account upon submitting to the bank an inheritance tax waiver.

TAX SELLING.

I have made a list of my securities transactions this year in preparation to making year-end adjustments for income tax purposes. However, I have lost the clippings from the Investors' Guide on tax selling, which I was going to use for reference. Is there any way I can get a copy of that information?—D. G.

Answer: Clippings of the recent articles on tax selling and capital gains and losses may be obtained by sending a stamped, addressed envelope to the Investors' Guide.

WINE BARRELS.

I have been told that the Motor Wheel corporation makes wine barrels. Is this true?—B. U.

Answer: Motor Wheel corporation, Lansing, Mich., manufactures wooden barrels for wine, whisky, oil, and other liquids, but its chief output consists of automotive wheels, hubs, and brake drums.

MACHINE JOBS IN CHICAGO SET PEAK SINCE 1929

Defense Contracts Carry Pay Rolls Higher.

duction to reflect any comparable increase in employment. Except for the $7,614,000 Ingersoll division order, the corporation has been able to take care of its government business without much change in equipment. More than half the corporation's business consists of the manufacture of mechanisms and parts for the automotive industry.

The International Harvester company has $5,500,000 of direct defense contracts. The largest is for $3,500,000 of crawler type tractors, ordered for pulling heavy artillery over rough ground. Nearly 1,000 of them have been supplied to the Rock Island arsenal. A $1,000,000 order for shell casings is being filled at the company's Milwaukee plant. Since the war began, the company has done about $2,500,000 in business with England, Finland, and China supplying trucks and tractors.

Buda Company Is Busy.

The Buda company has just completed a plant addition at Harvey, Ill., to build radial aircraft type Diesel engines. It is to be ready for operation on Jan. 1. Officials report the company will run three shifts a day and will be able to produce eight to ten radial Diesel engines daily for army tanks. The pay roll and number of employés have doubled in six months, company officials say. With the new plant, the company reports it will be able to maintain normal production of its regular line of Diesel, gasoline, and butane engines.

The Diamond T Motor Car company has government orders aggregating $25,000,000. Of this, $11,000,000 has been from the quartermaster corps for 2,263 trucks and the remaining $14,000,000 from the ordnance department for 2,000 "half track personnel carriers." Actual production on the government business is just about getting under way, the company says. The company has built a new assembly plant and is building another one to be ready by Feb. 1.

Employment Rises 50 Per Cent.

Employment of the company has increased about 50 per cent since production on defense contracts began, and the number of factory workers has reached 600. The four ton trucks ordered by the quartermaster corps are six wheel drive vehicles, with dual tires to be used on the front wheels when necessary in soft ground. Top speed is about 45 miles an hour. The trucks are for the field artillery in pulling 155 millimeter howitzers with the gun crew riding in the truck bed.

The "half track personnel carriers" are designed to go anywhere a tank can go. The vehicle has a front wheel drive, in addition to a rear drive of a caterpillar tread, and are capable of 50 miles an hour on highways. The trucks are armored and each carries 13 men. They are to carry infantry into combat areas.

Diamond T obtains its materials from many sources. Officials say between 150 and 200 other manufacturers supply essential parts, an indication of how secondary contracts and indirect orders ramify into other plants.

PORT AUTHORITY OFFERS A LARGE LOAN TO PUBLIC

A $27,750,000 issue of Port of New York Authority general and refunding, 3 per cent bonds is being offered today by a group of underwriters headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co., and Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co. The issue was awarded the group yesterday on its bid of 101.831. The offering price is 102.75 and accrued interest.

Schroder Rockefeller & Co. heads a group offering 81,520 shares of General Industries company's $4 par value common stock at $6.50 a share.

Kaufmann Department Stores of Pittsburgh, Pa., filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange commission for 33,530 shares of 5 per cent cumulative convertible preference stock, $100 par. The offering will not represent new financing by the company, the stock having been acquired from individuals. A banking group headed by A. G. Becker & Co. and Merrill Lynch, E. A. Pierce & Cassatt is to underwrite the offering.

C. I. O. CHIEFTAIN ASSAILS 'STUPID' DEFENSE POLICIES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17 (AP).—Philip Murray, C. I. O. president, declared today that defense output was lagging because of the "rather stupid method" by which it had been distributed and administered, and said the C. I. O. would send to President Roosevelt tomorrow its own plan for speeding production and minimizing work stoppages.

The C. I. O. is expected to propose that boards be named for the various key defense industries and that defense contracts be awarded to more concerns than are now getting them. The boards would check employer-employé frictions which might result in stoppages, it was said.

The large map shows how British troops have penetrated Italian Libya and attacked Bardia, important Italian base. The British yesterday announced capture of three forts, Musaid, Sidi Omar, and Shefferzen. Musaid could not be found on available maps. The British previously had taken Fort Capuzzo. The small map indicates general developments in war as it affects major European powers concerned.
